Prowlers Win 16 to 4 Over Crookston Nine

With three of the four Crookston hurlers—Chuck Hannah, Wayne Tvelt, and Roger Schmitz—giving up twelve bases on balls to the Prowlers, local batsmen had ample opportunities to drive in runs, and coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers took advantage of these RBI's chances and defeated the Pirates, 16-4, in the schedule's finale played on the Fair Ground diamond.

The Prowlers took a commanding lead in the first inning when they sent six runs across the plate, tagging righthander Chuck Hannah for five hits. With the singling Jerry Erickson and the walking Gary Klungness on base, the Prowlers' first two batters in the inning, Paul Klungness drive a triple to the fence in left-center, and the locals were off to a six-run cluster.

In the fourth the Prowlers scored seven runs without a base hit. In this frame the Crookston Pirate hurler doled out eight bases on balls, and hit one batsman. An infield muff was also a factor in the seven-run splurge.

Four Prowler hurlers, John Aune Dick Johnson, Rick Jensen, and Tony Poole, shared the locals' pitching duties, and these pitchers, all righthanders, limited the Pirates to but six hits.

A Remarkable Performance

In all the years that I have followed Region Eight track and field I cannot recall an instance where a Prowler athlete, a junior, has turned in such a performance as Paul Klungness did last Saturday.

The blond Prowler speedster won the regional titles in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump. And he was at a near-record pace in winning each of these events. In the broad jump, after leaping 21 feet ¼ inch, Paul passed on his third and final jump in order to conserve his strength for the 220-yard dash finals, which he won in the time of 22.4 seconds.

Next Tuesday Paul will head a contingent of nine Prowler track athletes in the state tournament in Minneapolis, and which will be held at the University of Minnesota. Northern Minnesota track athletes, due to the abbreviated season up here, and handicapped by weather conditions, are usually at a disadvantage in the state meet. And that will be the case on Tuesday, but the boys will be making a good try at reaching the finals in the various events.

Commenting on Paul's regional sweep of four titles, it was asked if any Prowler had posted a comparable mark. Not in regional competition, but Allan Williamson, back in 1949, in a North Valley conference meet, won five events, and set records in three of these events. In those days an athletic conference composed of Grand Forks Central, Devils Lakes Satans, and Grafton Spoilers from North Dakota, and East Grand Forks, Crookston, and Thief River Falls was in existence.

In a conference meet held in Memorial stadium in Grand Forks, Williamson, who was co-captain of the Prowler track team that season, set a mark of 23.5 in the 200-yard low hurdles, heaved the discus 128 feet, 5 inches for a new record, and high-jumped six feet to set a new mark in that event. In addition, Al won the 120-yard high hurdles and the shot put. Needless to say, coach Quent Jones' Prowlers won the conference title.

In that meet, the broad jump event was won by Grand Forks' John Bennett, with a leap of 20 feet, 9 inches. This is the same Bennett who later gained fame as a broadjumper at Marquette University and with the U. S. Olympic team. And also in this conference meet, the 100-yard dash was won by Grand Forks' Ron Thompson, with a time of 9.9 seconds. Ron is now the track and football coach at East Grand Forks.

Showing an Interest

It is reported that the Minnesota Twins and the Kansas City A's are interested in Kenny Weber, the Ada athlete who was just graduated from North Dakota University.

Kenny, an all-round performer at Ada high school, and a basketball and baseball star with the Sioux, is a major league prospect. This past season he was one of the factors that brought a North Central baseball title to North Dakota U. Ken was the number one pitcher on the Sioux staff, and when he wasn't taking his turn on the mound, Weber was playing an able and adept shortstop.

It is as a pitcher that the Twins and the A's have shown an interest in Weber.

And another former District 30 athlete that has attracted attention from the major league scouts is Fertile's Arlo Brunsberg. Brunsberg received his diploma from Concordia college on Monday. Brunsberg, a hard-throwing and heavy-hitting catcher, has been an appealing prospect for the major league scouts the past several years. Arlo, unfortunately, injured his left knee in football a couple of seasons ago, and had to undergo surgery to remove some cartilage fragments. Whether or not the knee is sound enough to take the wear and tear of professional baseball is a problem that has made the scouts somewhat wary of offering Arlo a sizable bonus.

Jerry Mehlisch, the Halstad high school baseball and basketball coach, and who is a former player with the Fargo-Moorhead Twins, is a scout in this area for the Kansas City A's. Jerry should be able to make a good "book" on Weber and Brunsberg as he has played with and against these two players for several years.

Getting Some Action

Vast Lake of the Woods, which attracts the greatest number of the area's anglers, has been quite disappointing this season. But the reports of the past week indicate that the fishermen are getting some action.

The most optimistic reports come from the Springsteel Island and Buffalo Point areas of the lake. There have been a number of limit catches made in these waters and the walleyes have been of good size. Tony Dorn and Cy Schantzen brought in a fine string from Buffalo Point. And Olaf Jorde caught a 7½-pound walleye up there last Sunday.

The Morris Point and Wheeler's Point waters, usually "hot" spots at this time of the year, have been erratic. The anglers are blaming, and perhaps rightly, the flood conditions of the Rainy river. Dirty and debris-filled water is rushing into the lake as the Rainy empties its flood waters. There have been some odd catches made here, though, and that is that a couple of sturgeon have been brought in. This is natural enough as the sturgeon are bottom feeders, and they have been attracted by the flood waters of the Rainy. Incidentally, the sturgeon season, on the Lake of the Woods, closes today, May 31, and will open again on July 1st.

Minnesota Viking Tour Group Will Be Here June 6

Area residents interested in professional football in general or the Minnesota Vikings in particular are encouraged to be in attendance Wednesday evening, June 6, when the Vikings tour group makes an evening stop in Thief River Falls. The program, under the sponsorship of the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Included in the program will be short talks by Coach Norm Van Brocklin, General Manager Bert Rose and defensive halfback Bob McNamara, a question-and-answer session and a movie showing the highlights of the 1961 season. The film is 32 minutes in length with the first half reviewing highlights of the Vikings' victories over Chicago, Baltimore and Los Angeles. The second half shows a half-dozen Viking stars in close-ups and some of their greatest plays.

The Thief River Falls stop of the tour will be one of 18 scheduled during a five-day swing into northwest Minnesota. Other stops prior to this city on June 6 will be Moorhead and Grand Forks. Tickets for the 8 p. m. program at Lincoln high school are now on sale at 50 cents each to cover the cost of lunch to be served following the program in the school cafeteria and use of facilities.

Roger Tunberg and John McGinley, co-chairmen of the Jaycees committee, state that the film would be of great interest to high school and elementary youngsters who follow the Vikings from week to week during the season. The showing is not restricted to adults and everyone is invited.

Players given special treatment in the film will be Francis Tarkenton, quarterback; Charlie Sumner, defensive back; Jerry Reichow, flanker; Tommy Mason, halfback; Rip Hawkins, linebacker; and Hugh McElhenny, halfback. McElhenny's many spectacular runs are highlighted in the film and include, among others, his 81-yard punt return against the Bears, two long runs against the Green Bay Packers and statue of liberty play against the Forty-Niners.

Sportsmen's Club Offers Trees for Sale To Public

Pennington County Sportsmen's Club has a number of white spruce and caragana plantings which can be obtained by individuals for almost nothing, according to James Lee, club president. The 4-year-old spruce and caragana hedge plants were ordered for the proposed clubhouse area but the ground is too wet to work or plant.

Persons interested in the 1,500 white spruce or 5,000 caragana plants may call Lee at MU 1-2179 or Gay Warnecke at MU 1-3150. Bargain rates are guaranteed, but the trees must be sold immediately.

Governor Requests Observance of June Dairy Month in State

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen today urged all of Minnesota to keep its eyes on the dairy industry "for examples of positive promotion which can help build the image and identity of Minnesota as a great state."

On the eve of Minnesota's 26th observance of June Dairy Month, the governor said the occasion provides "both an opportunity and a challenge to promote, give thanks for our abundance and to look to the future with confidence."

Noting that the nation's annual dairy campaign originated in Minnesota, Andersen said the state's dairy industry and its Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee have been "traditionally dedicated" in promoting and selling Minnesota along with dairy products.

"More of this enthusiastic promotion of industry, products and people is what Minnesota as a state needs to build and project its identity to the rest of the nation and the world," the governor said.

"We've all got to become more promotion-minded," he said. "Certainly the dairy industry of our state has shown leadership in this area."

Andersen called on agriculture, business and industry to help by doing these four things:

Establish high standards of quality for products and-or services.

Maintain those standards.

Identify both the product and quality with Minnesota and project the image outward to people elsewhere.

Promote continually.

"We're rich in resources, technology and people—but short on self-promotion," the governor said. "Look at what Idaho has done in identifying itself with potatoes. That's about 85 per cent promotion and 15 per cent potato. Wisconsin spends some $100,000 a year promoting its cheeses."

Andersen noted that Minnesota is first in butter production, third in total milk production, first in turkey production, first in water area, third in productive soil, and ninth in forests.

"On the basis of productivity, per capita income and level of education, Minnesota not only is a great state but could stand alone as one of the great nations of the world," he said.

The Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, state unit of the American Dairy Association, is coordinating agency for June Dairy Month activities in the state.

State Patrol Officer Class Is Graduated

The first class of highway patrol officer candidates trained in the new Highway Department-Civil Defense center at Ardin Hills graduated Friday, May 25.

Twenty-nine candidates completed 10 weeks of intensive training in police work under the direction of experienced highway patrol supervisors as part of the qualifying procedures for the state's traffic enforcement agency.

Certificates signifying the successful completion of more than 450 hours of training were presented the prospective officers by Governor Elmer L. Andersen. The Rev. Norman I. Magnuson, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, pronounced the invocation and benediction. Highway Commissioner James C. Marshall, state highway safety director Garnet E. Hall and patrol chief Leo M. Smith addressed the group.

The school was under the direction of Capt. Bert W. Johnson, operations and training officer for the state agency.

When the candidates finished their final examinations in academic subjects, their school scores were combined with scores made in original written examinations and other screening tests to determine their final standing on the civil service register.

Nine graduates of the officer candidate course of the Minnesota Highway Patrol received immediate appointments as patrol officers and were assigned to several districts to begin their on-the-job training phase of instruction, May 26.

One officer has been assigned to District Eight, with headquarters in Thief River Falls. He is Gilbert J. Wilkes, 27, Cloquet. He has been serving as a police patrolman for the village of Walker after four years in the U. S. Air Force. A graduate of Willow River high school, he attended Bemidji state college and the University of Minnesota, Duluth. Married, with three children, he is a brother of Highway Patrol officer Max W. Wilkes, Walker, Minn.

Reserve Bank Cites Modest Gains in April

Employment, production and personal incomes have showed modest gains during the early weeks of the 1962 second quarter, according to the latest issue of the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Manufacturing employment, particularly, appears to be expanding rapidly with a lengthening of hours worked per week, the bank said. April employment in building construction was up 17 per cent from a year ago in Minnesota, and the number of people drawing unemployment compensation in April was substantially below last year and a month earlier.

The bank noted an 8 per cent increase above year ago levels in district industrial production output during the first quarter, with indications pointing to further output expansion.

Bank loan demands at both city and country banks have been fairly strong so far this spring, and total bank deposits have leveled off after earlier seasonal declines. Loan deposit ratios at country and city banks in mid-May showed a higher degree of liquidity than existed a year earlier.

Widespread general rains about mid-May over much of the district, have boosted crop prospects materially in the western regions, according to the bank. Currently, top soil moisture supplies appear adequate, with subsoil mosture conditions improved but still below normal in these areas. Western ranges and pastures developed slowly until recently, but they are reported to be developing rapidly due to the recent rains. Heavy winter precipitation and late spring rains have resulted in a current satisfactory stock water and irrigation supply, the bank concluded.

Dr. Oppegaard of Crookston Given Top State Award

Dr. C. L. Oppegaard of Crookston was awarded the 1962 Distinguished Service Award of the Minnesota State Medical Association at its 109th meeting held in Minneapolis last week. Presenting the medal and certificate to Dr. Oppegaard at the association's annual dinner was Dr. Donald McCarthy, president elect.

Dr. Oppegaard won the award in recognition of his many years of service to medicine and to the medical association. The coveted award is given to only one doctor annually who is chosen by the council of the Minnesota State Medical association and its house of delegates for outstanding service and achievement.

Dr. Oppegaard is immediate past president of the state association and had previously served eight years as chairman of the council.

Since 1924, he has been a member of the staff of the Northwestern Clinic in Crookston.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The traditions of America are inseparably linked with religion, and the Church has been the most powerful factor in our national life. Its faith has inspired our highest achievements.

The influence of religion has sanctified our homes and fostered in them the solid virtues and strong faith which have molded our national character and shaped our course in world history.

Our public school system is the outgrowth of religious zeal and the desire of the Church to spread enlightenment among the people. It has invoked blessings on those who train our youth.

The home, the school, and the Church—these are the great triumvirate whose faithful and tireless efforts have made America the most favored land on earth. They are the pillars of our strength, the foundation of our hope.

Let us cling to these elements of national strength—make our homes the abode of happiness; make our schools centers of light and knowledge; and make God our guide as we move into the untrod future.

Editorials . . .

"I consider the foundation of the Constitution as laid on this ground: that 'all powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states or to the people.' To take a single step beyond the boundaries thus specially drawn around the powers of Congress is to take possession of a boundless field of power, no longer susceptible of any definition."

—Thomas Jefferson

Most Unusual

It isn't often that we hear foreigners speaking well of us. Most of what we hear, it seems, is critical. We are greedy, selfish and dumb. It therefore was a real pleasure to read the following flattering statement made by Andre Malraux, French Minister of State for Cultural Affairs. Speaking of our country he said:

> "For culture, for an Atlantic civilization, for the freedom of the mind, I offer a toast to the only nation that has waged war but has not worshipped it, that has won the greatest power in the world but not sought it, that has wrought the greatest weapon of death but not wished to wield it; and may it inspire men with dreams worthy of its action."

Canada Sick Too

K. H. McDonald, a Canadian business executive, told the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Scarborough, Ontario, what should be told more often to our people. It seems that the Canadians are suffering from the same political sickness that is sapping our strength. We are glad to pass along Mr. MacDonald's observations:

> "We in Canada are suffering from a severe attack of the 'gimmes'. Gimme this. Gimme that. But with our intense preoccupation with what should be done 'for' us, we are ignoring the opposite side of the equation—what is being 'to' us.
> "For every government 'give' there is a 'take'. For each decision made for us, there is one less decision we are free to make ourselves."

It Was Murder

Henry Marshall, the investigator for the state agricultural stabilization and conservation office of Texas, who had been assigned to check the cotton acreage allotments of Billie Sol Estes, probably was murdered. That was the conclusion of specialists who examined the exhumed body of Marshall.

The autopsy disclosed that he had been shot five times with a bolt-action rifle and reported that there was evidence of him having received a severe blow on his head. His body had been found on his farm near Franklin, Texas, nearly a year ago, and the sheriff's report attribued his death to suicide.

If he were murdered it would not necessarily follow that Estes was involved in the crime, but there is a reasonable suspicion, and this possibility no doubt will receive investigation. And it is too early to reach conclusions as to the involvement of government officials. That there were irregularities has been admitted. It would be unfair at this time to make any accusations. We will have to rely on the integrity of the investigating agencies and the courts for the answers to these questions.

On these points the Christian Science Monitor makes the following observations:

> "It need not be thought that every individual with whom Estes had dealings, or for whom he bought a pair of shoes, or to whose campaign fund he contributed is necessarily smirched. There are public officials such as Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman who must accept responsibility for acts done far down in the ranks or out in the field forces of their agencies.
> "But President Kennedy takes too much credit to his administration when he stresses that the first widespread news of the Estes affair came from a grand jury indictment obtained in El Paso, Texas, by the Department of Justice on charges of defrauding finance companies with chattel mortgages on nonexistent liquid fertilizer tanks.
> "The indictment was the result of enterprising investigation by a newspaperman in Pecos, Texas, and of the kind of grand jury presentation expected of public servants under any administration."

It pleases us mightily to know that the publisher of the twice-a-weeker at Pecos, and the local officials who acted on his reports, are getting credit for initiating the action that has developed into a national scandal. The federal agencies did not act speedily once the local action was started.

But it is well that the problem of surplus storage is now getting the attention it has so long deserved. The Eisenhower administration did succeed in getting storage rates reduced a little but there was vigorous opposition to the recommended cuts. Estes obviously was favored to the extent that his storage facilities were given preference ratings. The investigation no doubt will reveal whatever the facts on this are, and this probably will lead to further investigation as to whether other individuals or organizations have been operating on a preference basis.

Developments of this kind are unfortunate in that they often involve innocent people. Now that there no longer is any uncertainity as to the need for a thorough check on this particular operation, the investigation should dig into all phases of the storage practices and procedures, with the view of plugging loopholes and establishing better controls.

Woefully Ignorent ?

The Committee for Economic Development has concluded that we, as a nation, are woefully ignorant of how the American free enterprise system works, what makes it tick, what it earns in profit and what it pays in taxes. And the Committee intends to do something about it. It has outlined a program designed to reduce "economic Illiteracy", stressing the need for greater recognition of its importance in our high schools and colleges.

This program would be implemented by a nationwide television course in economics addressed to both teachers and students. We can't have informed students unless we have informed teachers and, says the Committee, less than a fourth of the nation's high school social studies teachers are adequately prepared.

We agree that there is a very urgent need, and we like the idea of a nationwide program of instruction addressed not only to teachers and students but to all interested people. It must be conceded however that economics is not an exact science and that there is not any one-and-only right answer to most of our economic problems.

We have drifted far from the old concepts of rugged individualism, and there has been a big increase in government control and regulation at not only the federal but also at state and local levels. There is little left of the old free enterprise system.

Most of the changes that have come have been necessary however. Our social and economic problems of today have little in common with the social and economic problems of the pioneer period of our development as a nation. When there were no roads we didn't need speed limits or other traffic regulations. Reasonable people will have to reconcile themselves to the need for increased regulation and control as our society becomes more complex. There always are questions of course on how much control and regulation is needed.

One of the economic questions with which we are confronted, and which is becoming increasingly serious, is public ownership versus private ownership. This includes the question as to whether essential services shall be provided by the government or by private operators. The public debate in this field of economics is becoming increasingly warm.

Another big change that has taken place in the development of our economy has been the big increase in public employment and the number of people who are living at public expense in one form or another. They are becoming an increasingly powerful pressure group politically. In terms of votes they are much more important to the politicians than are the business men or the farmers.

These are understandable developments, and the resulting cross-currents and conflicts of interest are understandable too. But if we are to survive as a nation of self-governing people it is important that these things are understood by most of our voters. Majorities must learn to recognize reasonable restraint.

So we think the Committee for Economic Development has a good idea. The masses of the people should have more factual information on our economic problems, in order that we may act more intelligently on our political problems. The two are closely related.

We shouldn't be afraid to discuss publicly the merits and the shortcomings of what are generally called the Capitalistic system, the Socialistic system and the Communistic system. Only to the extend that we are informed about the advantages and disadvantages of each system, and consider the advantages and disadvantages in terms of the laws of nature and human nature, which we do not have the power to amend, can we expect to approach our political problems realistically.

Costs Go Up

(Walsh County Record)

We commend to our own Congressmen the study recently made by Rep. Paul Findley of Illinois of the post office situation in his own district.

Congressman Findley reveals that eleven post offices in his district have moved within the past year from premises that cost Uncle Sam a total of $7,874 for rent last year into new quarters that have run the rent bill up to $27,698 a year—or well over three times as much.

If this is a trend—as we strongly suspect it is, judging by post office expansions in this immediate area—increased rentals, combined with the pay hike that has been announced will bring that perennial deficit far above the added income that the proposed rate increases will produce.

The net effect, then, if the Congress is willing to impose this burden on the public and business—notably the publishers of magazines and newspapers—can only be a crippling blow to the press that must be felt throughout the economy as the media of information and advertising are decimated.

"Many people reach their conclusions about life like lazy schoolboys; they copy the answers from the back of the book without troubling to work out the sum themselves."

W. L. B. Said:

"In the old days there were toll roads and toll keepers. Sometimes a man would slip by without paying toll, but the gatekeeper never forgot him and the next time he had to pay double. Some people laugh at the idea that God Almighty, as a keeper at the gate, will exact the toll sooner or later."

Nothing Merry in Mont... May

Past Month Rainfall Totals 7.53 Inches

There was nothing merry about the "Merry Month of May", 1962 edition, and a review of the weather summary proves it. Overcast skies were present in abundance and rainfall became so regular it was expected daily if not appreciated. The agricultural situation took a severe set-back following last year's drought with very little seeding having been done by the end of the month and nearly all of that being covered by water.

Precipitation totaled 7.53 inches during the month with rain falling in traceable or greater amounts on 22 days and the largest total on one day being 1.75 inches on May 30. Only three days of the month after May 6 did not have recorded precipitation. The first six days of the month were dry. Then the rains began, field work came to a halt, city unsurfaced streets took a beating and many homes had basement water problems.

In spite of the cloudy weather and constant rain, temperatures for the month were warmer than May of 1959. Average temperature for the month was 52.98 degrees as compared with 52 degrees in 1961, 53.5 degrees in 1960 and 50 degrees in 1959.

High temperature for May this year was 81 degrees on May 4, the only day in which the mercury reached the 80-degree mark. Low reading was 26 degrees on May 6, the only reading of the month below the freezing point. Average high was 63.03 while the average low was 42.94 degrees. Temperatures were much more steady during the month as indicated by the high and low readings being only two days apart.

By comparison, May to 1961 had a high of 86, six days with readings of 80 degrees or more, a low of 21 with eight days below freezing and only .82 inches of precipitation. May of 1960 had a high of 82, two days in the 80's, a low of 21, 10 days below freezing and 2.29 inches of precipitation. May of 1959 had a high of 87, low of 28, five days in the 80's eight days freezing or below and 3.84 inches of precipitation.

High and low temperatures and precipitation for the past month are as follows:

U.S. Safety Council Honors TRF for Its '61 Traffic Record

One of 6 Cities in State to Get Recognition for No Traffic Fatalities

Eight Minnesota municipalities, including Thief River Falls, and the state were cited Tuesday in Chicago by the National Safety Council for outstanding accomplishments in traffic safety as reported in the Annual Traffic Inventory for 1961.

They were among 238 cities and towns, 30 states and Puerto Rico which received citations.

Edina, Ely, Hutchinson, St. Anthony Village, and Thief River Falls each received a certificate of achievement in special recognition of a perfect record of no traffic deaths during the year and a progressive program of accident prevention.

Hibbing and Minneapolis were awarded certificates of achievement for traffic safety education in the schools.

A certificate of achievement went to St. Paul in special recognition for its exceptional traffic death record and its progressive accident prevention program.

Minnesota earned a certificate by its maintenance of traffic records, necessary for any balanced program of accident prevention.

A total of 49 states, 1,224 U. S. cities and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico reported to the Council in the 1961 Inventory.

The Inventory is based on the action program of the President's committee for traffic safety. It is a program of appraisal administered by the council in cooperation with several national organizations and is the only national yardstick measuring traffic safety activities. It was begun in 1947 on the recommendation of the White House Conference on Highway Safety.

Miss Pitblado will crown her successor locally at the Jaycees Miss America preliminary pageant on August 4 and Miss Minnesota of 1962 will also attend the event. Those from Thief River Falls attending the event were Ralph Foster, Jaycee president; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tunberg, Mr. and Mrs. James Winjum and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klewel.

Minn. Vikings To Appear Here Wed.

Coach Van Brocklin, McNamara, Rose Will Show Highlights Film

Highlights of the 1961 football season for the Minnesota Vikings will be shown in a film to be presented when the Vikings tour group visits Thief River Falls Wednesday evening. The visit of Viking personnel, part of an 18-stop tour of northwestern Minnesota, is sponsored locally by the Junior Chamber of Commerce with Roger Tunberg and John McGinley as committee chairmen.

The northwest trip concludes a month-long Viking program to visit nearly 150 towns in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin with a player, coach and front office representative. Questions will be answered by members of the touring group which will also appear the same day at Moorhead and Grand Forks.

Appearing at the 8 p. m. program in Lincoln high school auditorium will be Bob McNamara, defensive halfback; Norm Van Brocklin, youngest coach in the National Football League; and Bert Rose, general manager of the pro team which broke into the league by winning three games last season. Tickets are on sale at 50 cents each from the sponsoring Jaycees.

To be shown at the program is a 32-minute movie of highlights of the 1961 season. The first half of the film reviews the highlights of the Vikings victories over Chicago, Baltimore and Los Angeles. The second half shows a number of Viking stars in close-ups and some of their greatest plays.

Featured will be Francis Tarkenton, rookie quarterback; Charlie Sumner, defensive back; Jerry Reichow, flanker; Tommy Mason and Hugh McElhenny, halfbacks; and Rip Hawkins, linebacker. Included among other of McElhenny gallops are an 81-yard punt return against the Bears, two long runs against the Green Bay Packers, spectacular non-counting TD punt runback against the Rams and statue of liberty spring against the 49ers which has been called "the most exciting play of the year in profootball."

Personnel-Preview

Van Brocklin molded a team of rookies and veterans into a unit which defeated the Chicago Bears 37-13, Baltimore Colts 28-20 and Los Angeles Rams 42-21 in his inaugural season as a coach. He had his team in contention in every other game with one exception and received 14 votes as coach of the

3-Day Dry Spell Most Prolonged Since Early May

What has proved to be the most prolonged dry spell since the early days of May was recorded here during the past several days. Friday, Saturday and Sunday passed without rainfall recorded at the municipal airport, providing a welcome relief from the almost constant rainfall during the most of May.

High and low temperatures for the period include 48 and 39 on Thursday, 57 and 39 on Friday, 65 and 38 on Saturday, 69 and 41 on Sunday and last night's low was 53 degrees. Precipitation during the period included .02 inch on Thursday and .05 inch last night.

Scattered showers are predicted for today and tomorrow with high readings today expected to range from 62 to 72 and lows tonight to dip between 48 and 58 degrees. Winds were easterly at 15 miles per hour this morning with the sky overcast. A prolonged dry period will be needed to permit farmers to seed crops with hopes for anything like a normal crop.

Northwest Region Advisory Council of TB Group Meets

Mrs. Lois M. Ogden, Park Rapids, is the newly elected secretary of the Northwest Regional Advisory council of the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association. Mrs. Ogden, Hubbard county superintendent of schools, is also the president of her county TB and Health council.

Mrs. Ogen, elected at the second regional meeting at Thief River Falls May 17, succeeds Mrs. H. A. Krebs, Bemidji, who resigned because of ill health.

As secretary, Mrs. Ogden will work with C. C. Baker, Grand Rapids, regional council chairman; Probate Judge Herman A. Kjos, Thief River Falls, vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Vottendahl, Sunnyrest sanatorium, Crookston, clinical consultant, and the presidents of the 15 county councils of the Northwest region in helping to eradicate tuberculosis and improve community health in this area.

Kenneth Taylor, Thief River Falls, Northwest regional director, presented the five-year case-finding plan for consideration, but action was deferred to give council members time for further study.

Members voted to have the regional advisory council assume the Itasca County TB and Health council's obligation of $400 towards the second county nurse's salary, which was made before the reorganization of the state Tuberculosis and Health association. They also voted to set aside $3,000 from the current budget to use in supporting the establishment of nursing services in selected counties.

The next meeting will be at Itasca State park. Date will be announced in the near future, said Mr. Taylor.

Legion Parade Saturday Was Big Spectacle

Nearly 20 Musical Groups Included in the Line of March

Climaxing the Ninth district American Legion convention in Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon was a colorful parade that comprised 100 units and required an hour to pass the reviewing stand. Included in the procession were nearly 20 musical units, many attractive floats and color guards and firing squads representing a large number of Legion posts and other veterans' groups.

Ideal weather prevailed during the afternoon, and the streets were lined with throngs of spectators from this city and other Northwestern Minnesota communities.

Musical organizations participating included the Ninth district Legion band, the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders pipe band of Winnipeg, the Lincoln high school band, Shrine Oriental band and Bridgeman Half-pints of Thief River Falls, and bands from Stephen, Greenbush, Middle River, Roseau, Grand Forks Legion drum and bugle corps, Fisher, Lake Park, Erskine, Fosston, Warren, Newfolden, Fertile and the Dilworth high school German band.

Heading the procession was the color guard, followed by cars bearing city officials and Legion and auxiliary officials. The local National Guard Company D marched and displayed some of its equipment. A large number of Girl Scouts also marched.

Among floats entered were an elaborate one from the city of Detroit Lakes, TRF Jaycees, Lions, Union State bank, Bridgeman Creameries, TRF Legion post, Land O'Lakes Creameries, Northern State bank and Ben Franklin store.

Winding up the procession were members of the TRF Saddle club and their mounts, and equipment of the fire department.

Parkers Prairie Man New Commander; Mrs. Busse New Pres.

"As we review achievements of the American Legion in past years we must look forward and set our hand to accomplish goals of future progress and success. It is not wrong to conclude that the American Legion has contributed immeasurably to the good of America and that past success is only a prelude to the future. History shall say of our organization that we were dedicated to service to God and preservation of our country."

These were the words of O. T. Bussard, Marshall, first vice commander of the Minnesota Department of the American Legion, in addressing a combined session of the Legion and Auxiliary Saturday afternoon at the annual Ninth District convention held in Thief River Falls. Approximately 50 delegates from about 40 district posts and auxiliary units attended the convention which was held Friday and Saturday and climaxed with a 100-unit parade featuring 20 bands late Saturday afternoon.

H. T. Colbjornsen of Parkers Prairie was elected and installed as the new district commander to succeed Douglas Anderson of Dillworth. Other officers elected were Albert Olson, Roseau, vice commander at large; Loren Schultz, Oslo, Harry McFarlin, Crookston, and Carlton Mortenson, Fergus Falls, vice commanders. Detroit Lakes was awarded the site for the 1963 convention.

Mrs. Busse Elected

Mrs. Mildred Busse of Halstad was named to the post of district president of the auxiliary to succeed Mrs. Andrew Sorum of Crookston. Other auxiliary officers named included Mrs. Fred Seaberg, Bagley, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Marshall, Glyndon, second vice president; Mrs. H. T. Colbjornsen, Parkers Prairie, and Mrs. William Norman, East Grand Forks, executive board.

Among visiting dignitaries at the convention in addition to Bussard were Arthur E. On Saturday morning a kiddies parade was held under the sponsorship of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce with division winners including the following: Diana, Debra, Jodi and Karl Kemnitz, wagon; Merl and Timothy Loeffler, pets; Peggy Walders, bicycle; and Mary Gilbert, doll buggy.

Bussard Speaks

In addressing the joint post and auxiliary meeting, Vice Commander Bussard recalled attending a state convention in Thief River Falls in 1928. He noted that "the fact that we have arrived at this 42nd year is the best evidence of the value of our guiding principles and program of service." Calling attention to the G. I. Bill of Rights which was drafted by the American Legion, he pledged that the Legion "will never withdraw from its stand on giving aid to him who had fought the battle and to his widow and to his orphans."

In addition to regular business sessions of both groups, a memorial service was held Friday evening with Rev. Ezra Meckel, Fergus Falls, Ninth District chaplain, as the main speaker. Memorial to the departed was given by Commander Anderson, and President Mrs. Sorum of the district Legion and Auxiliary.

The local auxiliary chorus repeated last year's performance by winning first place in the music contest while the sextet also gained a first place rating this year. The musical groups are under the direction of Mrs. Norman Peterson.

These buildings were given structural checks recently and approved but the federal license is necessary before further action can be taken. Self-addressed stamped envelopes were included by the local civil defense unit with the license forms.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. EDGAR OLSON

Summer will soon be here and, along with the sunny weather we hope isn't too far off in the future, youngsters will be forever raiding the "snack bar." To always have goodies on hand can be difficult but this bar recipe should help solve your problem. The lemon bars can be frosted and frozen or just the bottom crust can be baked and frosted later. Mrs. Olson says she sometimes doubles or triples the recipe base, making two or three kinds of bars the same day.

LEMON BARS

½ cup brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
1 cup butter or part butter and margarine
2 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1 cup uncooked oatmeal

Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla, salt and eggs and beat. Mix in flour and oatmeal. Spread ½ inch think in 8 x 12 pan. Bake 35 minutes in 325 degree oven. Frost with this lemon frosting when cool: Mix two-thirds lb. powdered sugar, juice and rind of one lemon and 2 tbsp. butter. Cut into bars.

COCOANUT BARS

Use same base and bake. Then mix 1 can Eagle brand milk and 2 cups cocoanut. Spread on crust or base and bake 10 minutes. Remove from oven and frost with 1½ cup cholotate chips and 2 tbsp. butter that have been melted over hot water.

COCOANUT-PECAN BARS

Bake the same base recipe and then frost with this delicious frosting: 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, ¼ lb. butter or margarine, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 and one-third cup cocoanut and 1 cup chopped pecans. Combine milk, sugar, egg yolks, butter and vanilla in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until it thickens or about 12 minutes. Remove from heat. Add cocoanut and pecans. Beat until cool and of spreading consistency.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Olson live on a farm three miles east of Middle River. They have three daughters, two who live at home and work in offices in Middle River and the eldest who is married and lives about 2½ miles from them.

Mrs. Olson's hobbies include knitting, crocheting, gardening and sewing. Sewing for her granddaughter, Jacqualyn, is probably her favorite. They are all members of the First Lutheran church of which Mr. Olson is presently serving on the board and she is chairman of the Ruth Circle. She is also a member of the American Legion auxiliary of Hans Lian Post 444 and the Cedar Homemakers club.

Eagles to Convene at Detroit L. June 15-17

Nearly 2,000 Eagles and their wives will converge on Detroit Lakes June 13-17 for the 59th annual state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The conclave will bring together national, state and local Eagle delegates, officers and visitors to plan Eagle programs and activities for the coming year, according to Russell Holt, Detroit Lakes, convention chairman. A. R. McLeod, St. Paul, state president, will preside at the sessions. Members of the women's auxiliary will hold meetings at the same time, with Winnifred Wright, Cloquet, state president, in charge.

Main speakers at the convention will include: J. Philip Bigley, Viroqua, Wisconsin, junior past grand worthy president and chairman of the board of grand trustees; Robert W. Atkinson, Milwaukee, secretary of the grand tribunal; R. M. Schlosser, Jamestown, N. D., North Central regional president; and Harry Burns, St. Cloud, member of the board of grand trustees.

Convention program highlights will include a fish fry on the shore of Detroit Lake, a golf tournament at the Detroit Lakes Pine-to-Palm tournament course, a banquet at Erie 34 Club, a memorial service and two pancake and sausage breakfasts. Ritualistic competition also is scheduled on the program.

Chairman Holt said this week that housing accommodations are adequate and visitors who wish to attend the convention may do so. Facilities will be ample at hotels, motels and scores of resorts in the immediate Detroit Lakes area.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Now that the pros and cons have been aired on the million and a half dollar school bond issue, and particularly how the aged citizens voted, I would like to add some more.

How about the outlook concerning the farmer? The heavy rains which have fallen thru the month of May. No crop lands have been seeded as yet. Some fields are still under water. Last year these same farmers endured the worst drought we have had in many a year. This is the farmers livlihood where expenses and taxes must come from. If the farmer and labor don't prosper, we all in this area are hurt.

The school board sent out letters to every citizen in the school district stating that Thief River Falls is not peculiar in its needs. The board also mentioned the number of schools being built throughout the state of Minnesota. I think Thief River Falls should also have been included in this category. We have built large additions to Knox and Northrop. We have built a new Washington elementary school. We have also built a beautiful new vocational school, which has been an asset to this community, to further the education of many a high school student. Without any pros or cons we must and should unceasingly work towards bringing new industry into our city. This would create new employment, increase pay rolls, etc., if we are to improve this situation. Now let's add all this up and I am sure you will come up with a reasonable answer why the school bond failed.

Charles R. Sattgast hall of Science at Bemidji State college was opned officially Sunday afternoon, as a part of the BSC commencement exercises. Sattgast hall was accepted by the State of Minnesota this spring and the college started holding classes in the lakeshore building at the start of the current term.

The official opening was in the form of an open house sponsored by members of the faculty through the faculty social committee headed by James Castagna. Members of the college science faculty and the science club were hosts.

A feature of the new building is the 190-seat auditorium which is complete with projection book, screen, special lighting and accoustical features and a demonstration table. Demonstration tables complete with sink are also features of the science classrooms. The building is planned to care for a maximum number of students by 1970, but its twelve laboratories are already busy throughout the day.

Two laboratories are especially equipped for beginning biology, four for advanced biology, three for chemistry, three for physics. The nine individual laboratories located in the office suite of the building are used for faculty and advanced students for research and preparation.

An elevator connects all floors of the building with the roof which houses a live animal room and a greenhouse. The live animal room will be air conditioned in order to keep constant environment for animals useful in special research projects. The greenhouse is primarily for the growing of plants for beginning biology students and for special experiments of botany students.

Three rooms in the building are especially designed for experimentation in nuclear science with the equipment to be provided through a grant from the Atomic Engergy Commission.

Contractors and architects for Sattgast Hall were Jyring and Whiteman, Inc., project architect, Hibbing; Hammel and Green, Inc. co-ordinating architect, St. Paul; Steenberg Construction company, Inc., general contractor, St. Paul; Cross Electric, Inc., electrical contractor, Staples; Valley Service, Inc., mechanical contractor, Moorhead; and Haldeman-Homme, Inc. equipment contractor, St. Paul.

Couple Rescued in Maple Lake Blast

Russell Mason, Crookston, Saves Mr. and Mrs. Lipsies

A former East Grand Forks man now living near Maple Lake, confined to crutches since a February automobile accident in Texas, and his wife were rescued by a Crookston businessman and his 14-year-old son Wednesday afternoon after the couple's inboard motor boat exploded and burned on the lake, says the Crookston Times.

Rescued from the burning craft by Russell Mason and his son, Gary, were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lipslea.

Gary and his father were about a block behind the Lipslea craft when the boat exploded about 5:30 p. m.

Lipslea and his wife were taken from the burning boat by Gary and his father. Lipslea, because of a leg injury suffered in the automobile collision earlier, had to be slid from the burning craft. Only minor injuries were received by Mr. and Mrs. Lipslea.

Mason said the explosion blew off the top of the boat and within seconds the entire back end of the boat was on fire. He said there was nothing left of the boat.

"Within 30 seconds," Mason said, "the flames were at the boat seats."

Time Now to Begin War on Carpet Beetles

That wool suit or favorite jersey dress may be riddled with holes when you're ready to wear it next fall unless you take some precautions when you put it in storage this summer.

Carpet beetles and moths cause millions of dollars worth of damage to clothing in this country every year. In Minnesota, carpet beetles are a more common pest than moths.

Carpet beetles and moths do their damage in the larva, not the adult stage. The brown, hairy larvae of carpet beetles—or their shed skins may be found almost anywhere in the house—in stored woolens, carpeting, lint accumulations, cracks and corners of closets, dresser drawers and even in stored food. Moth larvae are slender white worms with black heads. Usually they spin a web on the fabric on which they feed.

Taking some protective measures now against these pests will pay off in dollars and cents. Key to prevention is good housekeeping. Regular, thorough cleaning of lint removes places where the insects get started. Pay particular attention to vacuuming carpets next to walls and under seldom-used furniture. Vacuum upholstered furniture floor cracks, moldings and baseboards, closets, radiators and registers.

Dryclean or launder winter clothing before storing it. Carpet beetles especially are attracted to soil and food stains. The next step is to store clothing in a space that can be sealed tightly, using a moth preventive such as moth flakes. Lofgren recommends at least a pound of moth flakes between layers of clothing in a trunk-size container or 2 ounces for each cubic foot in a garment bag. As these chemicals evaporate, they produce a vapor that will kill moths and carpet beetles if it is concentrated enough.

Another way to protect clothes—carpets, too—is to spray them with a 5 per cent ready-to-use household grade solution containing 5 per cent DDT, 2 to 3 per cent chlordane, or ½ per cent dieldrin. Be sure these are marked household sprays so they will not stain.

Record Attendance Anticipated at GOP

The largest crowd to ever attend a political convention in Minnesota will be on hand June 7-9 at the Hotel Leamington in Minneapolis. That's the prediction of State GOP chairman Bob Forsythe regarding the upcoming state Republican Convention next weekend. "We expect upwards of 2,500 people at our convention including all of the 1,292 delegates, most of the like number of alternates and some guests," Forsythe said.

"We have 138 more delegates eligible this year than two years ago. This factor plus the increased amount of interest in endorsement for state offices insures the Republican Party of the biggest political convention ever held in the state," Forsythe asserted.

Endorsement of candidates will come Saturday morning, June 9. Seven candidates are actively seeking office.

Three men have cocked their hats for the lieutenant governor nomination. They are C. Donald Peterson of Edina, an attorney and legislator; Carl M. D'Aquila, Hibbing businessman and former legislator; and Wheelock Whitney, Minneapolis businessman.

Warm contests are also assured in the secretary of state and railroad and warehouse races.

Running for secretary of state nomination are Edward G. Bayuk, city manager of White Bear Lake and former city manager of Wayzata; and Norbert G. McCrady, Steele county treasurer, of Owatonna.

Railroad and warehouse commissioner nomination is sought by Robert M. Johnson of Lakeville the endorsed candidate two years ago; and Arthur C. Hanson of Minneapolis.

Forsythe announced today that convention chairman chores have been assigned to John Mooty of Edina. He is first vice chairman of the GOP state central committee and has been long active in party affairs.

Committee chairmen previously announced by Forsythe include Alan Ruvelson of St. Paul, platform; Mrs. Roy C. Nelson of Duluth, resolutions; Glenn E. Kelley of Austin, rules; Malcolm MacKenzie of St. Peter, constitution. Mrs. Robert Bredeson, Pennington County chairwoman, will serve on the rules committee.

National Committee chairman Congressman William E. Miller will speak at the Friday evening banquet.

Friday's activities will include action on the platform and adoption of the resolutions. A reception is planned from 5 to 6:15 p. m. for Congressman Miller, Governor Elmer L. Andersen, Congressmen Al Quie, Ancher Nelsen, Clark MacGregor, Walter Judd, H. Carl Andersen, and Odin Langen, Val Bjornson and Stafford King.

Bjornson and King will speak during Thursday's program. After the banquet Friday night, delegates will caucus again by districts and candidates for state offices will make a tour of the rooms to speak briefly and answer questions.

year, just one vote less than the winner, Allie Sherman of the New York Giants.

He played nine years as quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia Eagles and in 1960, his final year as a player, he 10 times brought his team from behind to win, finally leading them to a world championship over the Green Bay Packers.

McNamara starred for the University of Minnesota in the early 1950's and was named All-American in 1954. Gopher Coach Murray Warmath describes him as one of the greatest backs he has ever seen or coached. He played four years with Winnipeg in the Canadian League and two years with the Denver Broncos in the American Football League. At 29 years of age he stands six feet tall and weighs 190 pounds. While in the Canadian league, he scored six touchdowns in one game against the Vancouver Lions.

Rose was selected to head the Vikings after a nation-wide search and upon recommendation from many persons, including Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner. Last year Minnesota sold 26,000 season tickets, far more than the NFL's previous high of 15,000 for a first year team. Rose joined the public relations staff of Boeing Airplane company in Seattle, Wash., after being discharged from the Navy in 1945, later was athletic public relations director at the University of Washington, assistant athletic director at that school and in 1955 was named public relations director for the Los Angeles Rams, a position he held until given the Minnesota Viking general managership.

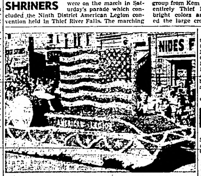
SHRINERS were on the march in Saturday's parade which concluded the Ninth District American Legion convention held in Thief River Falls. The marching group from Kem Temple in Grand Forks includes entirely Thief River Falls members and the bright colors and semi-oriental music pleased the large crowd along the parade route.



"OLD GLORY" sparkled in brilliant red, white and blue when this float moved along the parade route Saturday. Sponsored by Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion in Thief River Falls, the float was one of the most colorful in the line of march. The local post was host to the Ninth District convention of which the parade was a concluding event.

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson

Manager Chamber of Commerce

Area Development is being discussed here in Northwest Minnesota just as it is being discussed throughout the entire country today. The truth is, ever since this country came into being, people have had agricultural, business, and industrial development quite forward in their minds.

Contrary to the thinking of any number of people locally, our organizations and enterprisers are working constantly to encourage new businesses and expansions in order to develop Thief River Falls. In my work and meetings I have yet to hear any individual state that he was opposed to new industry. It's logical thinking to want expansion for our community so I don't expect to hear such talk either. We should not let ourselves imagine that any groups or individuals are opposed to business development. Such thought accomplishes exactly nothing.

What we should do in this area is try a great deal harder to instill more progressive spirit within ourselves and others because if we do not have the gumption to venture, how can we gain?

Last Tuesday evening Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi told the Lincoln High School graduating class what we are going to have to do to maintain America and I agreed with every word he said. I challenge anybody to say they have a better foundation for their opinions than Dr. Nyaradi. He's been around. He came up the hard way and was forced out of Hungary by Communist harassment. He's now an American citizen and he appreciates what this country is supposed to stand for. He said we've got the radical left-wingers and we've got the reactionary right-wingers and most of us are caught in the crossfire—confused and we don't know what to think. He said to think for yourself and return to some middle-of-the-road sanity. Be patriotic, love and respect our traditions, and be anti-communist. He said that freedom is more important than a few extra bucks. He said that we'd better learn to appreciate our freedoms and to maintain our country's strength militarily, economically and morally.

Pretty sound advice from a man who knows, I'd say, and the school administration is to be complimented for getting a speaker of such caliber. America is not behind Great Britain, Russia, the Scandinavian countries or any other socialized government. We're ahead of them because we're free. We aren't handed everything on a gold platter. Work is still a virtue that perpetuates the growth of our country, state, area, and community. Let's keep it that way and think about it a little more than we have been. Community development begins at home—right in our own little back yard. Let's clean that up before we complain.

Positive thinking gets tangible results, it brightens up your day, and it's a lot of fun Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

In a statement Thursday, Judd said he had "not recognized or properly evaluated certain factors which have now compelled me to change my mind."

Some 5,000 messages urging him to run again have poured into his offices.

His November opponent likely will be state Sen. Donald Fraser, 38, Minneapolis attorney who is unopposed for the nomination in the DFL primary.

Duck hunter's weather prevailed at the trapshooting range last Thursday and with the cold and brisk winds sweeping the course creditable scores were hard to come by.

Prowlers Win Dist. 31 Title from Crookston

Winning a pair of games on Saturday, coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers won the 31st District high school baseball championship in the tournament that was concluded at Red Lake Falls Saturday night. In a semi-finals game on Saturday afternoon, the Prowlers, getting a five-inning no-hit and no-run performance from pitchers Tony Poole, who hurled four innings, and Dick Johnson, who pitched one inning, defeated the Crookston Pirates, 11-0. In the championship finals, with Tony Poole doing the pitching, the locals defeated coach Mike Hajostek's Eagles, 8-3, for the title. The Eagles had reached the finals by defeating the Climax Vikings, 7-4, in a semi-finals game Saturday afternoon.

In the championship game, the Prowlers, after giving up an unearned run to Red Lake Falls in the top of the first inning, came back with six runs in the second inning. John and Mike Aune opened the inning with back-to-back doubles, and these blows were followed by a pair of walks, a strikeout, a single by Tony Poole, an infield out, singles by Gary and Paul Klungness.

The Prowlers, on walks to Mike Aune and David Erickson, and singles by Tony Poole and Gerry Erickson, added a pair of runs in the third inning.

Red Lake Falls made a threat in the seventh when, with two men out, Chip Demarais gained a "life" on an error. Bob Phillion drew a walk, pinch-hitter Dick Foldoe singled to left to load the bases. Steve Demarais singled over second base to score a pair of runs. With runners on second and third, Poole struck out Tony Roy to end the game.

In the semi-finals game against the defending champion Crookston Pirates, the Prowlers moved into a commanding lead in the first inning. Gerry Erickson led off with a walk. Gzry Klungness drove a line single to right field, and Paul Klungness walked to fill the bases. John Aune poled a home run over the left-field fence to give the Prowlers a 4-0 lead. The Prowlers added a three-run cluster in the second inning, with Paul Klungness slicing a two-run double down the left-field foul line.

In the fifth, on three walks, a pair of errors, and Larry Poole's triple, the Prowlers tallied four runs for a 11-0 lead. And when Crookston failed to score in the last half of the inning the game, with the ten-run rule in effect, was concluded.

Warren Bows to Prowlers in Dist. 31 First Round

Rick Jensen, Prowler Pitcher, Strikes out Nine, Hits 3 Doubles

The rain-plagued 31st district high school baseball tourney got under way on Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park diamond on Friday, and in first round games the Climax Vikings defeated the Goodridge Huskies, 5-4, the Red Lake Falls Eagles shutout the Oslo Bobcats, 8-0, the Crookston Pirates defeated the Alvarado Indians, 7-0, and the Thief River Falls Prowlers defeated the Warren Ponies, 15-4.

Sophomore Rick Jensen highlighted the Prowlers' 15-4 win over Warren. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning with the ten-run rule taking effect.

Jensen hurled steady ball for the Prowlers, striking out nine Warren batsmen, walking three, and giving up six hits. While at the bat Jensen raked the offerings of Warren's Jerry Cook for three doubles, driving in four runs.

In the fifteen-hit attack that the Prowlers mounted, Gary Klungness drove out a triple, and younger brother Paul was credited with an inside-the-park home run.

Jerry Cook was the most effective sticker for coach Gene Witucki's Ponies, who were without the services of Tom Howard and Wayne Strickler, with the Warren veteran getting a pair of doubles and an infield single.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It Was Number Seven

When Tony Poole struck out Tony Roy, with a pair of Red Lake Falls' runners on the bases, in the seventh inning on Saturday night, it was the game-ending out and gave the Prowlers the 1962 District 31 high school baseball championship.

It marked the seventh district title that the Prowlers have won since coach Ralph Skay took over the baseball coaching duties for the locals in 1953.

The Prowlers won in 1953, '54, '55, '56, and '57, were runners-up in 1958, won in 1959, were runners-up in 1960, reached the semi-finals in 1961, and won this year. In 1960 and '61, the Crookston Pirates, with righthander Jim Turner hurling effectively, won the championships. Turner, incidentally, who signed a professional baseball contract with the Cincinnati Reds organization, is pitching for the Geneva club of the New York State league.

Of these seven district titles that the Prowlers have won, I imagine that coach Skay, and his assistant, Jack Junker, derived as much satisfaction from this season's win as any of the previous wins. When Skay opened the Prowlers' spring training camp in "Cocoa Beach", the Armory, prospects were only fair. He did have available the region's best catcher in John Aune, the best centerfielder in Gary Klungness, and one of the better second baseman in Paul Klungness. But the pitching staff had been riddled by the graduation of Eddie Lietzow, Gary Anderson, and Jack Goulet. And these three boys had also filled infield positions when they weren't pitching.

Tony Poole, the one returning pitcher with game experience, had the misfortune of breaking his wrists while engaging in weight-lifting exercises last fall, and he was a doubtful prospect. Tony, though, came through handsomely during the latter part of the season, and particularly during last week's district competition.

Yes, Ralph and Jack have done a fine job of coaching, and I'm sure that the Prowlers, individually, realize this too.

The Prowlers will be short-enders in the Region Eight tourney that opens on Thursday evening at Red Lake Falls, but being short-enders isn't anything new for this season's Prowler club.

Planning a Golf Career

Doug Bakke, the stellar all-round athlete of the Karlstad high school Rabbits the past several years, and a member of the Lake Bronson American Legion junior baseball team last season, is to be employed in Minneapolis this summer.

Bakke, who graduated from the Karlstad school this spring, is a highly-regarded golf prospect, and it is with the intention of furthering his golf career that he is seeking employment in Minneapolis. Acording to his present plan, he will be joining one of the golf clubs down there.

Bakke, who rates with the best of Karlstad's athletes, is partial to golf, and he believes that he will receive expert advice and instruction from the professionals in the Twin Cities area.

Plans for a Retriever Trial

The recently-formed Retriever club is making plans for a retriever trial to be held here next month. According to the report plans, the trial will be restricted to local dogs and local handlers, being strictly on an amateur basis. This provision will bar such self-proclaimed "professional" dog handlers as Leif Erickson and Corn Olson.

An Erroneous Report

Received a report on Sunday morning that a drum-and-bugle corps was doing some maneuvers out at the golf course. It wasn't so, for after making a hurry-up trip out there I discovered that it was only the foursome of Nicky Carlson, Lloyd Brunsberg, Bob Craik, and Shorty O'Hara. Don't understand how anyone can mistake that quartet for a drum-and bugle corps, except for the noise.

And it's a strange game of golf they play, too, with Craik always teeing off last!

Commencement Exercises In Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Approximately 2,850 graduates will be awarded degrees at University of Minnesota commencement exercises at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 9, in Memorial Stadium on the Minneapolis campus.

Graduate and undergraduate degrees and ROTC certificates of completion will be conferred by president O. Meredith Wilson, who will also give the commencement address. Diplomas will be presented by the various college deans or their representatives.

President Wilson also will confer three honorary degrees upon Robert Gilruth, director of Project Mercury, Houston, Tex.; Laurence M. Young Job Holders Asked to File with Social Security

Students Taking Summer Employment Advised to Register without Delay

The time for summer vacation from school is rapidly approaching.

For some, school closing will mean a summer of carefree existence at the beach, swimming, fishing, and boating. To some, it will mean going to the mountains and the more rugged sport of mountain climbing. To most, however, it will mean summer work and the satisfaction of earning money and all of the personal gratification even a limited amount of financial independence brings.

If you are one of the vast number of students who will be working for the first time this summer, there are a couple of important things you should know, says W. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks Social Security office.

You will need a social security account number. You may get an application for a number from your Post Office or from the social security office. After you receive your number, be sure you show it to your employer so that he can record it in his records.

This is of equal importance to the summertime worker and to the graduate who will be starting his career. All employment is credited under the individual's account number. You should have only one number throughout your lifetime. If you lose your number be sure to apply for a duplicate of your original number.

If you will remember these points, you will be starting your working career with the least possible difficulty.

Don't Drink & Drive, Is Safety Advice

State Safety Council Reminds of Penalties

Here's a recipe for instant tragedy: Take one driver and two passengers, a Saturday night party in the next town, several bottle of liquor and assorted cans of beer. Mix well, then baste with more liquor and beer at various taverns while driving back from the party. Sprinkle liberally with excessive speed and let simmer on a narrow, two-lane highway for about five miles. Result: An almost certain accident, serious injury and possible death.

Drinking drivers contributed to more than 7,800 Minnesota accidents last year, 186 of which were fatal, and cost Minnesotans more than $13 million.

It is a violation of state law to have an open bottle or container of intoxicating liquor, or even 3.2 beer anywhere in a car or bus where passengers normally ride. A container on which the seal has been broken (even if nothing has been removed) cannot be transported in the glove compartment, a handbag or seat pocket, but only in the trunk or other area not normally occupied by the driver or passengers.

When you accept a driver's license from the state, you have given your implied consent to taking a chemical test to determine how much alcohol is in your blood if you are arrested for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. If arrested, you may refuse to take the test, but in doing so you run the risk of having your license suspended.

If convicted of driving under the influence, you can be fined up to $100 and have your license revoked for not less than 30 days. If your drinking caused an accident resulting in grievous bodily injury or death you could go to prison for 60 to 90 days and lose your license for not less than 90 days.

Your drivers manual is available at highway offices or any driver examining station.

"People once accustomed to masters are not in a condition to do without them. Mistaking for freedom an unbridled license to which it is diametrically opposed, they nearly always manage, by their revolutions to hand themselves over to seducers, who only make their chains heavier than before."

—Rousseau

Prospect Not Bright

General Charles de Gaulle has now ruled France four years. During that four-year period he has strengthened the French economy and he has had some success in converting French colonies into a French Community of Nations. But Algeria is still a major problem and a serious threat to the peace of France.

The terrorist forces in Algeria were being brought under control, with the two top leaders captured and standing trial by a special French tribunal. Edmond Jouhaud, the second in command, had been found guilty and was condemned to die. The leader, Raoul Salan, was also found guilty but, because of extenuating circumstances, his life was spared and he was given a life prison sentence.

This act of mercy was looked upon by the Secret Army as a sign of weakness and the Algerian terrorists went into action again, resulting in a renewal of retaliation by the Moslems. The verdict was a serious setback for de Gaulle.

Algeria will vote for independence on July 1 and that will bring on a new set of facts and new problems. The prospect for peaceful and friendly coexistence by the Moslems and the French in Algeria is not bright.

Canada to Vote

Our Canadian neighbors will go to the polls on June 18 in a national election, and the candidates are unlimbering their heavy artillery. The issues are not clearly defined. Both the liberals and the conservatives are making promises they probably will not be able to keep. Both sides are going to give more to all groups at no added cost. From what we have heard of the campaign, and read about it, it's just like any national political campaign on this side of the line.

Reports indicate that up to now Canadian citizens have shown little interest in the coming event. As the day approaches however it is quite likely that the blood pressure of the average Canadian will rise and they probably will respond much as we do.

Besides the conservatives and liberals there are the Social Credit and the New Democratic parties but they apparently are not being taken very seriously except in limited areas.

It is nice to be able to sit back and listen to our neighbors argue among themselves, knowing that in this election we have nothing to lose.

Exploring at Home

Dr. Athelstan Spilhaus, Dean of the Institute of Technology of the University of Minnesota, made the following interesting observation:

> "With minerals resting on it, nutrients sinking into it, geologic history locked in its sedimentary layers and petroleum beneath it, the sea's bottom is (at least as interesting as and) certainly more immediately useful to mankind than the moon's backside."

We know very little about our oceans, and what is in them and what is under them. But science is moving into this last unexplored area of our own world and from now on we are going to hear much more about oceanography and oceanographers.

Discussing "Down-to-Earth" Exploration," Barron's Weekly has this to say:

> "In a day when all eyes seem to be trained upward to the stars, a vast scientific inquiry into the mysteries of this planet quietly has been gathering force. Geophysics, in its broadest sense, deals with all the physical phenomena of the earth—rock, sand, substrata mud; molten lava, the oceans, the atmosphere, the ionosphere, gravity, magnetics, radiation and the weather—and how they interact. Not unnaturally, geophysicists these days are very busy people indeed.
> "Using techniques developed by seismic crews in exploring for oil and recording earthquakes, some are building and manning complex detection stations which one day may eliminate the need for on-site nuclear inspections. Others are using new methods to study the upper atmosphere and its relationship to that of the sun, or taking to the sea as oceanographers, intent on fathoming an area of earth — the bottomless depths— about which less is known than the face of the moon. The latter soon will begin digging the deepest hole ever attempted —the so-called project Mohole—which is to probe straight down through six miles of sea and sediment to the unexplored mantle beneath the earth's crust."

Last year, Barron's reports, engineers completed the first phase of Mohole. From a platform anchored in waters 2½ miles deep, they were able to drill into the second layer of crust beneath the sediment of the sea floor, penetrating it to a depth of 600 feet. That was as far as they could go with the equipment available at that time.

Some two years of further testing and study may lie ahead before the final phase begins—the drilling of a hole three miles deeper into what is referred to as the Moho and into the mantle.

And Barron's concludes:

> "No one knows for sure what the core samples will show. What the scientists actually expect to bring up, of course, are rocks. But within those rocks may lie fossilized or magnetic materials that could reveal much about the two-million-year history of the earth and its future. In any case, the geophysicists have only begun to dig."

Exploration of this kind will prove to be a better investment than forty billion dollars they are planning to spend to land a man on the moon.

Foreign Text Books

A New York Times report tells us that scores of Soviet mathematics text books are being published in our country in English and are being widely used in American universities. Dr. Lipman Bers, chairman of the Department of Mathematics at New York University is the authority for the statement that the mathematics curriculum was made up of material from many sources.

Traditionally in advanced counrses works from Britain, France and Germany have supplemented books by Americans. He said that the addition of Soviet books to the curriculum was a natural process in the light of the strength of Soviet mathematics in several fields.

Dr. Bers stressed, however, that Russian texts were not necessarily better on thewhole than those of the other groups. "In fact," he said, "more American math books are being translated into Russian than the other way around."

Some of the titles of Soviet books are found under several publishers. The reason is that the books bear no copyright privilege because the Soviet Union is not a member of the International Copyright Convention. Likewise, American pubuishers are under no legal obligation to pay royalties to the Soviet authors of the books.

We like the idea of an international exchange of text books but we would like it better if we were sure students were informed as to the authors and the countries of origin of the books they read. It is reasonable to assume that no Russian student would be told that the excellent book he is encouraged to study is the product of an American philosopher.

College Athletics Overemphasized

(The University of Minnesota Daily)

The evils of intercollegiate athletics—the professionalism and commercialism, the scandals, the often condoned unsportsmanlike conduct and the intense recruiting—must be corrected.

The overemphasis placed on intercollegiate athletics, specifically the need to win at all costs, has led to these evils and the perversion of the amateur ideal beyond recognition.

It is clearly evident academic institutions have refused in the past to make any substantial improvements in the rules governing athletics.

Instead they've allowed athletic programs to become autonomous powers within institutions—often beyond the actual control of the faculty.

Furthermore, fanatic public support for big-time sports has made it nearly impossible for faculties to de-emphasize athletics and institute reforms.

Steps are now being taken by the NCAA, the Eastern College Athletic Conference and the Western Conference (of which the University is a member) to correct some deficiencies. Most of them, however, fall far short of the need.

Needed is a new philosophical approach to athletics. Give athletics back to the students and stop being farm clubs for the pros, as is the case of many schools.

Debts and Tribunals

(Wall Street Journal)

The International Court of Justice is considering—quietly enough so far—the delicate question of whether certain governments now delinquent in their United Nations assessments must be required to pay their debts.

It is an intriguing question which suggests some other possibilities. Wouldn't it be interesting, for instance, if someone could bring before some lofty, impartial tribunal the little matter of the mounting national debt which is not being paid off by the U.S. Government? It could make for quite a debate.

Somehow, though, nobody calls such matters to the attention of our own Supreme Court, and it is hard to imagine any tribunal so sensible it would give a straight answer. For this is the heyday of relaxed fiscal attitudes and economic gobbedygook.

After all, the U.S. has long had a legal debt limit, and yet the politicians think nothing at all of moving it; they move it all the time—up, up, up. And if a debt limit is not a limit, who is so foolish as to decree that a debt is a debt?

THE ANDERSEN LETTER

from

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

Selling the Common Market

I am greatly concerned about the effect on Minnesota agriculture of the negotiations for trade expansion with the Common Market.

It is necessary to recognize the need for trade between nations, as a factor for peace, but one aspect of our Common Market negotiations goes in the opposite direction.

The fact of the matter is that Common Market countries are fostering trade barriers. They are going to put special levies on imports of wheat, feed grains, poultry, and other products, to bring their prices up to local levels. These levies would hit U. S. farm exports hard, and the effect on Minnesota agriculture could be exceedingly severe.

The part about the Common Market agreement that we hear discussed most is that relating to industrial products where in exchange for our lowering tariffs they are going to lower tariffs and this of course will increase the flow of trade. But the farm impact is one not of lowering tariffs to encourage trade but one of the Common Market increasing the height of the barrier surrounding their countries to keep our farm products out.

In fairness, I should say that I believe Secretary of Agriculture Freeman is aware of this danger and has been trying to protect the farmers' interest, but his efforts have not been successful. The only way our farmers can be protected is to simply stipulate that there be no U. S. tariff concessions to Common Market counties imposing import leves above those now in effect on food products. The Kennedy administration opposes this because it feels it would undermine the tariff negotiating features of its trade expansion bill. I don't think we should trade away our farm markets— and I do not think we need to.

I believe you should write your Congressmen and your Senators and just tell them it is absolutely imperative that no tariff concessions be granted to any country that is going to block out American food products. Every farmer in our state and every person relying on a prosperous agricultural base, and that means everybody in our state, should be concerned about this matter.

It is just bad bargaining to exchange, for the lowering of their industrial tariffs, the lowering of our industrial tariffs plus giving up our export agricultural trade with the Common Market. Our farmers can't afford it. It should not be permitted. It is contrary to the whole spirit of trade expansion through elimination of barriers. You better let your voice be heard loud and clear immediately. I will do the same.

BY MARV LUNDIN

WHATEVER BECAME OF THE OLD-FASHIONED OPTIMIST? I'm sure you remember reading about him. He was the brunt of many stories, the fool of the decade, the radical thinker, the man who didn't know any better, the one who was insane enough to conceive an impossible plan that just might work.

He was radical like Christopher Columbus who had the gall to publicly state that the world was round. He was stupid like Alexander Graham Bell who believed you could push the human voice through a thin wire. He was childish like Benjamin Franklin who actually thought it was possible to harness the power like that of lightning. He was as foolhardy as the Wright Brothers who claimed that man could soar through the air. These men were inflicted with the serious disease called optimism and it consumed them.

I suppose there are still some of the incurable optimists in the world today. There are men who believe that space travel will be common and will have actual value. There are those who believe they can make a living without governmental crutches. There are even those of us who believe that sometime in the future we may get out of debt.

This community needs more optimists. It needs people with a view of the sunny side. It needs people who believe in the future and what it holds. It needs people who aren't satisfied unless they have something better. It needs people who will say it can be done, it must be done, it will be done and I will help do it. IT NEEDS YOU.

Never have I heard of a community as industry-conscious as this. Everyone seems to believe that what we really need is industry—this, it is believed, is the cure-all answer to any real or imagined ills. Industry is defined in the minds of many as huge manufacturing plants, large-scale employment and particularly staggering payrolls. This is common belief.

Everyone seems to agree that this is what we need—nobody really seems to know how to go about meeting this need. Some seem to think that a three-cent postcard should bring manufacturers flocking to the city in numbers so great that only the most desirable could be selected. At least this is the inference gathered from some public opinion letters and personal conversations I have had.

And the frustrating part is that too many people are willing that somebody else should do something about it. Too often we hear the phrase, "What they ought to do is. . ." This community, like many others, needs less "they" and more "we". And the sooner some kibitzers come to realize that more than their coffee-counter counsel and convenient hind-sight is needed, the sooner this area is going to blossom into the fullest stage of growth.

The best way of describing the difference between an optimist and a pessimist was a story I heard of two prospecting partners in early Alaska days. Both checked the flour barrel at the same time. "My gosh, it's half empty," the first exclaimed. "Ain't neither," the other said, "it's still half full."

One of her peoms was published last week in this column and another is printed below:

RADIO MOSCOW

"This is radio Moscow," the cultured voice declared
As, twirling the dial of the short-wave, I tuned in on the world.
"Come out of Imperialist darkness into Communism's light,"
The voice went on, in monotone, far into the night.
What, in heights of desperation, will the Commies next devise
When guns and walls can't stop the brave from fleeing "Paradise"?

WHO NEEDS HAIL INSURANCE?

You do! There's no such thing as a "hail-free" area. That's why we're here . . . to provide dependable profit-protection for your crop. Dependable is a big word -- and $8-½ MILLION in hail losses paid by Dawson Hail Insurance in the past 5 years show what it means.

The figures prove protection, but what they CAN'T show is the prompt service we give if hail should strike your crop.

The story of better dairy products is mostly a cooperative story

Pure milk, healthy children, and dairy cooperatives go together.

For years, farm cooperatives, organized by the dairy farmers themselves, have led in setting higher standards of quality for milk, butter, cheese, ice cream . . . and the many other products made from milk. They have established sanitary regulations, encouraged the use of modern milk-handling equipment, and pioneered in efficient distribution of dairy products.

Because cooperatives have shown the way . . . they are important in all parts of the dairy industry. Today, most dairymen belong to cooperatives. A cooperative creamery picks up milk from the farm. A cooperative delivers it to the bottling plant. Often, a cooperative delivers it to homes and stores. Other cooperatives manufacture butter, cheese, dried milk, ice cream and other products.

The abundance of dairy foods available today, their purity and flavor, their price in relation to other foods, is another American achievement.

PUSHING earth in huge quantities, heavy equipment is being put to work on the west side street improvement project which was begun last year. The photo above was taken Tuesday afternoon on State Avenue between Third and Fourth streets and is looking north on State Avenue. Work consists of curb and gutter and bituminous street surfacing. Two large Tournapull scrapers are being used to remove the excavated material. Completion of the project is scheduled for this fall.

Council Opens Bids, Airs Merger of Boards

Five bids on a front-end loader for the street department were given thorough discussion by the Thief River Falls city council but action on the bids was tabled at an adjourned meeting of the council Monday evening. The council will meet again tonight following individual study of the bids and advantages of machines offered for sale.

Each company representative of the firms bidding was given an opportunity to list the merits of the machine offered. Some did not adhere strictly to specifications, most were either above or below specifications in some categories and each insisted his machine offered more advantages than the others. Bids were tabled to permit the council and street department to determine which machine would do the best job for the city in relation to the purchase price.

Members of the city park board and city recreation board met with the city fathers to review a proposition for merger of the two units into one board. Two ordinances are currently in effect, establishing the two boards as separate functioning bodies, resulting in some duplication of work and occasional conflict in activities.

Both park and recreation board members expressed a favorable outlook toward the merger, stating that it would make a more efficient board and avoid separate meetings if the board could meet as one body. The boards were requested by the council to study the existing ordinances and bring a recommendation before the council at the regular meeting on June 19.

Approval was given to the recreation board's recommendations for summer personnel including William Herzog, Roger Dorn, Rae Carlson and one to be appointed as lifeguards at the swimming pool; Ralph Skay and Gene Sack as directors of the summer baseball program; and La Anderson and Pat Brown as operators of

Probation Agent Speaks To Rotary

Work of the office of probation and parole was outlined at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club on Monday by Milton Olson, agent for the Northwestern Probation and Parole service which is responsible for seven northwestern Minnesota counties.

Olson serves as probation and parole agent in Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake, Clearwater, Lake of the Woods, Roseau and Kittson counties. Annual budget for operating the office is about $13,600 with half of the total paid by state funds and the remaining half paid by the participating counties on a population basis. Annual cost per case is about $100, Olson said.

The probation officer contrasted this cost with the annual average cost of $4,000 to cover the expense of keeping a boy at the Red Wing training school. This cost is necessary because of education, medical and dental services and other operational expenses.

"When a person considers that there are about 4,000 men, boys and girls on probation in the state at the present time and that half of them would be committed to an institution if the probation program was not in effect, you can begin to visualize the economy of the program," Olson said. "We provide both supervision and counseling to persons on probation in our area."

The probation officer stressed the importance of having the program at a county level. He noted that the county was founded on

The emergency livestock feed program has been extended to August 15, 1962, stated Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county ASC committee. Any farmer in the emergency area that is in need of livestock feed should make an application at the Marshall ASCS County Office at Warren, Minnesot .

U.S. Engineers to Increase Flow from Red Lakes

U. S. Army engineers notified Morris Owen Tuesday that they were opening more gates at the outlet of Red Lakes, increasing the flow o from 60 cubic feet per second to 1,000.

The lake level is now higher than that which was established as normal when control of the outlet was given to the U. S. Engineers, and, according to the agreement under which they operate, they are required to release as much water as is again restored.

Mr. Owen states that we may expect a large flow of water for some time.

Board Studies E. Pennington Flood Problem

The water problem in eastern Pennington county came in for a lengthy discussion at the June meeting of the county board Tuesday when a delegation of farmers from the Star township area served by County Ditch 57 asked the cooperation of the board in helping to relieve the flood problem that exists following the heavy rainfall during May. The board instructed County Engineer Joseph Seidel to seek a solution to the problem.

District Engineer Carl Larson and Ed Johnson of Bemidji and Ervin Pearson of this city were present in behalf of the state highway department to discuss complaints that had been made to the effect that work being done on Highway 1 on the Indian reservation was changing the drainage pattern of the area, aggravating the surplus water problem.

The engineers denied that the pattern had been changed, but they agreed to look into the possibility of cleaning out an offtake ditch off Highway 1 five miles east of the reservation line.

The board conducted a hearing on a certificate of election calling for the dissolution of School District 1554 in Star township, which had been approved by district voters by a margin of 24 to 23. Carl Ekvoll presented a petition signed by about 35 persons objecting to the dissolution, but the board ruled that the election took precedence, and it voted to dissolve the district effective July 1, 1962, and to attach it to the Goodridge district, No. 561.

Mrs. A. C. Matheson, county superintendent of schools for the past 20 years, informed the board that she will retire December 31, 1962. The board accepted her resignation, and praised her for her long and faithful service. With only a few rural schools remaining in the county, the board voted to abolish the position of county superintendent at the end of the year.

Albert Koop headed a delegation of county fair officials who asked that the county's contribution to the fair be increased this year to $1,000 in order to help keep the organization solvent. After considering the matter, the board voted to limit its assistance to $500.

County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr submitted his annual report on changes in the cost of living price index during the past year as a guide to setting salary scales for elected county officials. It revealed that there had been insufficient change in the index to warrant any salary adjustments.

After studying results of a survey on the subject, the board voted to deny a request by county employes that the county share in the cost of hospitalization insurance.

City To Be Host Tuesday For 13th NW Dairy Day

Mrs. A. Matheson Will Retire as Co. School Supt.

Mrs. A. C. Matheson, who has served as Pennington county superintendent of schools for the past 20 years, will retire from the position effective December 31 of this year. Announcement of the retirement was made at the meeting of the Pennington county board of commissioners on Tuesday.

Prior to assuming the school superintendent position, Mrs. Matheson taught three years in rural schools and four years in graded elementary school. During her period of service, Mrs. Matheson said, she has stressed better spelling among school children and worked to strengthen the curriculum in rural schools.

When the superintendent began her duties in 1943, there were 74 rural schools operating in the county. The number has since dwindled through consolidation of districts to the point where there are now only seven districts operating rural schools in the county.

Beginning with her first year as county superintendent, Mrs. Matheson was instumental in sponsoring off-campus workshops for teachers at Thief River Falls. Through the cooperation of Bemidji State college, the workshops have been continued for the past 20 years and a number of rural teachers have been able to earn four-year certificates and several have earned Master Degrees.

Upon her retirement, Mrs. Matheson plans to make her home in this city and will probably do some traveling to visit members of her family in other areas of the country.

Electric Power Again Will Be Interrupted Sun.

Residents of the Thief River Falls west side in the area north of the Great Northern tracks will again be without electric power from 5 a. m. to 8 a. m. on Sunday, June 10. Further work required in the area prior to conversion to increased voltage makes the outage necessary, according to Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities.

Plans Set for Turkey Market Referendum Voting June 18 to 22

Supplies of ballots and other forms for use in the national turkey marketing order referendum June 18-22 have been sent to Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county offices, Robert S. Berglund, chairman of the state ASC committee, said today.

Included are forms on which eligible voters - producer-growers and contract-producers - are required to certify the volume of their 1961 marketings of turkeys in the ASCS county office where they may vote. These forms will be sent to all known producers who might be eligible to vote in the referendum. Producer-growers may certify their volume of marketings at any time before or during the referendum period.

Contract-producers are required to file by June 8 certification as to the number of producer-growers with whom they have "risk-of-loss" contracts and the volume of their 1961 marketings. Certifications of contract-producers must be filed with the ASCS State office for the state in which the contractor's principal place of business is located. If a contract-producer operates in only one county however, he must file his certification in that county.

Cooperative organizations qualified to vote for their member-producers in the referendum also must file certification by June 8 in the ASCS state office. Certification forms are being mailed directly to cooperative groups from the ASCS Livestock, Dairy and Poultry Division in Washington. These forms are also available at

Three Hundred & no/100 DOLLARS
Mrs. Jaycees

KING-SIZE contribution to the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children was made by the Thief River Falls chapter of Mrs. Jaycees at the meeting of the chapter Monday evening. Mrs. Morris Odegaard, left, newly-elected president of the association, accepted the check from Mrs. Larry Evenstad, retiring president of the Mrs. Jaycees. To raise funds for the establishment of a recreation center for retarded children, the Mrs. Jaycees staged a Charity Ball two weeks ago. Ticket sales for the event totaled $342.50 and orchid sales totaled $30.55. Expenses for orchestra and decorations amounted to $96.81, leaving a net profit on the project of $276.24. To make the contribution an even $300, the Mrs. Jaycees added $23.76 from the general treasury. Arrangements have been made to establish the recreation center at First Lutheran parish house on a basis of three days per week and the program will start as soon as a recreation director is secured. Parents of retarded youngsters in the two counties will be offered the use of supervised facilities free of charge.

Expect 250 Calf Entries from 12 Counties in Area

Given favorable weather and opportunity to carry out present plans, the 13th annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 12, promises to be one of the biggest and best events in the history of this area dairy promotion. All present indications point to an expanded and intensified program, according to Stuart McLeod, chairman of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of the event.

Indicating the high regard which 4-H club members and Future Farmers of America have for Dairy Day, a total of 94 first-year exhibitors have registered to show their animals at the annual exposition. Expectations are for 250 dairy calves to be shown from the 12-county area included in the regional show.

According to the list of activities for the day, the schedule of events should provide a full program for both participants and spectators. Beginning with the unloading of animals and spreading of shavings at 7 a. m., the program will proceed through registration, princess judging, livestock judging, purebred calf presentation, awards program and parade of champions at 5 p. m.

Regular features of the day will again be provided, such as a noon luncheon for exhibitors, box lunches for exhibitors and visiting band members, exhibitors prizes, purebred calf award and trip to the Dairy Cattle Congress and special entries in the afternoon parade.

Princess Kay Feature

A special dash of glamor will be added to the dairy cattle show when Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Diane Kramer of Worthington, participates in the showmanship demonstration at 10:30 a. m. Miss Kramer, an experienced 4-H livestock showman and winner of several grand championships, will lead out the first animal of the day to demonstrate what will be expected of exhibitors during the show.

Judging of cattle will begin immediately after the showmanship demonstration with Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, as ringmaster. Judges will be Henry Bartel of Hastings and Olaf Kjomme of Spring Grove. Susan Peterson of Pinewood will receive a purebred Guernsey calf for having shown the grand champion grade animal at the 1961 show with a Guernsey cow.

Northwest Dairy Day is the oldest of all such events in Minnesota and has been used as the model for similar shows throughout the state and other parts of the nation. It is now one of 11 regional Dairy Days held in Minnesota each year during June Dairy Month, the nation's biggest annual dairy food promotion and public relations drive.

Thief River Falls businessmen, local Chamber of Commerce, Northwest Dairy Improvement association, vocational agriculture instructors, county agents, dairies and creameries, banks and other business interests throughout the area are cooperating in staging this year's Northwest Dairy Day.

D. Gunderson-E. Gormsen Nuptials at Wannaska

Riverside Lutheran Church of Wannaska was the scene of a candle-light ceremony on Saturday night, May 26, when Dorothy Pearl Gunderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gunderson of Badger, Minn. became the bride of Elwood Sheldon Gormsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aksel Gormsen of Gatske, Minn.

Reverend Jacob Andreasen of Roseau performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with floor baskets of pink carnations and white gladiolas. The reserved pews were decorated with Mrs. Gilbert Loe of Wannaska, friend of the bride, served as organist and played the traditional wedding music, and accompanied Kenneth Eggen, friend of the couple, as he sang, "O, Promise Me" before the ceremony, "Song of Ruth" during the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white chantilly lace over tulle; the tightly fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline, with pearl and sequin trim, and fingertip sleeves. The bouffant lace overskirt, divided in front and showing tulle trimmed with sequins, was fashioned with a chapel length train. The fingertip veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and sequins.

The bride wore a necklace of cultured pearls fashioned in teardrop style with matching earrings, the groom's gift, and carried a shower-style bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Marie Monsrud of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor; Myrna Kjaer of Roseau and Delores Gunderson of Badger, also cousins of the bride, and Janis Scramstad, the groom's cousin, served as bridesmaids, and wore identical street length dresses of white lace over turquoise taffeta with turquoise chiffon cummerbunds and bows and sashes in front, high necklines and short sleeves. They wore white picture hats and gloves and pearl earrings which were gifts of the bride and carried colonial style bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

Cindy Lou Gunderson of Embarass, Minn., niece of the bride, and Kim Gunderson of Badger, the bride's cousin, served as flower girls and wore identical white taffeta dresses with short sleeves, high necklines, sashes and large bows at the back, small white flower hats, and pearl bracelets, gifts of the bride. They carried baskets of pink roses and white carnations.

Keith Hausen of Coon Rapids, friend of the couple, carried the rings on a white taffeta pillow decorated with white lace and white ribbons. He wore a white dinner jacket, black trousers and black bow tie, and a pink carnation boutonniere. He received a wrist watch as a gift from the couple.

Roger Loven of Minneapolis, close friend of the couple, served as best man; Darrel Tale, Minneapolis, also a close friend, Jerome Gunderson of Eveleth, Minn. and Lowell Gunderson of Badger, Minn., both brothers of the bride, were the groom's other attendants.

All the men in the bridal party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and bow ties, and pink carnation boutonnieres. The groomsmens' gifts were cuff links and tie bar sets, the groom's gift from the bride, cultured pearl-inset cuff links and tie bar.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue two-piece dress with white accessories and the groom's mother wore a medium blue dress, also two-piece, and her accessories were also white. They wore identical corsages of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations. The grandmother of the bride wore a blue dress with navy accessories and her corsage was likewise of pink roses and white carnations.

The fathers of the couple and the bride's grandfather wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres. The ushers, Delmen Larson, a cousin of the bride, and Lowell Scramstad, the groom's cousin, wore white dinner jackets with black trousers and bow ties pink carnation boutonnieres, and cuff links and tie bar sets which they had received from the groom.

The reception, given by the bride's parents, was held at the Wannaska school dining room, and was attended by over two hundred guests. Hostesses were Mrs. Orris Gregerson of Badger and Mrs. Harry Kjaer of Roseau, both aunts of the bride.

The three-tiered, pillared wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Effie Scramstad, aunt of the groom, was cut and served by Mrs. Bennie Hanson of Middle River, another aunt of the groom, and by Mrs. Oscar Gunderson of Roseau, an aunt of the bride. Mrs. Henry Larson of Roseau, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Oscar Schenkey, of Middle River, aunt of the groom, poured coffee.

All members of the bridal party were seated at a bridal table decorated with red roses and blue candles, and the remainder of the guests were served buffet style. Waitresses were Diane Berns, LuAnn Kuehl and Geraldine Frye, all of Minneapolis, Lenny Dallum of Roseau, and Bjorg Halsen of Badger, all friends of the bride.

In charge of the gift table were Mrs. Orris Rasmussen, Roseau, and Marlys Gregerson and Bjorg Halsen, Badger. At the guest book was Camilla Kjaer of Roseau, the bride's cousin.

Kitchen helpers were Mrs. Elert Nelson, Mrs. Glen Rygh, Mrs. Fred Johnson, Mrs. John Breiland and Mrs. Alice Ecklund. All the workers wore white organdy aprons trimmed with blue bows and white bells, gifts of the bride. They also wore corsages.

The reception room was decorated with turquoise and white streamers and white bells.

Sow and Hoe Club Plants Flowers on T.H. 32 Island

On Tuesday, June 5, eleven members of the Sow and Hoe club, armed with gardening paraphernalia, met at the traffic island on Highway 32 at the southwest approach to the city, and planted a number of flowers which should add much to the attractiveness of this spot. Among the plants set out were red cannas, marigolds, and snapdragons. If the weather permits, the club plans to beautify the island on the east side, today, at the point where Highway 59 enters the city. They will plant red and white petunias at that location.

The women remarked that their worst problem is maintaining these gardens is the problem of watering them in dry weather, they solicited public support in order to facilitate them in this effort.

Many favorable comments were heard last year concerning this project; tourists and local people alike were enthusiastic in their praise of the civic-minded women who were behind this beautification plan, and expressed the hope that the idea would be continued and even enlarged upon in the future.

4-H Council Acts on Varied Matters at Its Meeting Monday

4-H clubs in Pennington county again will have an opportunity to sponsor softball teams. The 4-H council made this decision at the monthly meeting held Monday. Eight clubs have indicated they will have teams and a schedule will be prepared by the extension office. The teams are to arrange their own time, place, and date within the prescribed week, stated County Agent Paul Steimaschuk.

In other action the council set up a good grooming contest to be held on June 25. Each club is to send in one boy and one girl under 14 years of age and one boy and one girl over 14 years of age.

A favorite food festival will be conducted on Friday, June 29, for members enrolled in bread, food preservation, food preparation and home improvement and family living. Members are to bring their favorite food, a card table and a menu. The festival will replace the silent pie and bread demonstrations.

The 4-H council also will sponsor the trips for junior 4-H leaders to the state conference. The group also voted to pay the state federation dues as has been done in previous years.

Each club is to nominate one girl and two boys to 4-H camp to be held during the state fair. The nominees must be 16 years of age by September 1, 1962 and be in good health. Nominations are due at the extension office by Friday, June 22.

Clubs were asked to submit names of all project leaders and the projects they serve in to the extension office as soon as possible.

The dress revue was set for Friday, July 13.

All 4-H records and fair entry blanks are due at the extension office on July 2. Livestock for the county fair will be judged on July 5 and 6. Mrs. Silas Hanson reported that to date 275 rural memberships were sold in the new county fair organization and that the city of Thief River Falls was just beginning the membership drive. Both Ray Oen and Mrs. Hanson urged rural families to get behind the new fair drive and purchase memberships to promote agriculture and 4-H club activity.

Ray Oen asked the clubs to consider a 4-H program for the second night of the county fair. The council acted favorable in support of the idea, and a committee was established to decide on the type of program to be given. Selected were Howard Brandt, Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Mrs. Maurice Steiger and Mrs. Edgar Naplin.

Junior leaders voted on a member to represent them at the state federation. Deanna Burtness, one of five delegates, was elected to head the county delegation consisting of Gloria Philipp, Smiley, Linda Tollefson, St. Hilaire, Bobby McCrum, Smiley; Catherine Oski, Mavie; and Deanna Burtness, Silverton.

Morris Owen, superintendent of the recently-created utilities department of the city which includes electric generation and transmission, water and sewer, was given approval of four recommendations within the department. The recommendations had been made earlier at a water and light committee meeting.

Requests included the transfer of Clarence Breiland from mechanic on the street department to operator at the water filtration plant with a monthly salary of $358.10; increase of salary of Martin Nelson by $15 per month upon completion of six months experience at the filtration plant; classification of assistant for former superintendents Harry Hendrickson in electric, Harold Anderson in water and Ole Ness in sewage departments; and increase in monthly salary for Harold Anderson to $470 per month, retroactive to the date of his appointment as acting superintendent of the water plant following the death of Harold M. Johnson.

A feasibility report was ordered on street work on the west and north approaches to Riverside Park and Tindolph avenue at Tindolph Park following a request by Roy Barzen, president of the park board. Rotary Hears Probation Agent at Monday Meet individual freedom and the closeness of the people to government. "Government must be close to the poeple to be honest, factual and good for all phases of society," he said.

Olson cited local law enforcement as the most important phase of crime prevention. With only one commitment from Pennington county to the state training school in 1961 and none in 1962, the county must have the best ratio in the state in regard to delinquency, he said. "Kids are as good as the community will allow them to be," Olson added, "and when the community offers them love, attention and discipline there is usually little problem."

Milton Schlechter, club president, called attention to the charter night for the Baudette Rotary club which will be held Friday, June 29. The Thief River Falls club has been charged with the responsibility of providing the program for the evening.

the ASCS state and county offices.

As in the case of contract-producers, ASCS State offices will determihe voting eligibility of a cooperative organization. All producer marketings in 1961 through cooperatives or for contract-producers will be checked by state and county offices by June 15 and listed officially in the register of voters if the voters are found to be eligible to cast ballots in the referendum.

Two ballot forms have been prepared — one for producer-growers and contract-producers, and one for cooperative associations. Ballots showing the total marketings approved will be issued by state or county offices to the eligible cooperatives and to contract producers. Any ballots of cooperatives voting for their members will also show the number of producers approved. Ballots for producer-growers will be available at ASCS county offices and those for contract-producers or cooperatives at ASCS State or county offices. Each ballot form contains a summary of the proposed marketing order.

Silverton 4-H Holds Safety Tour Recently

If there is any way to make a trash can attractive, members of the Silverton 4-H club have found it. Armed with paint brushes, a gallon of aluminum paint, 20 rusty oil drums and some green paint, 21 club members recently carried out with enthusiasm "Operation Trash Can".

Boys in the club painted the shiny aluminum coating on the barrels and girls added the finishing touches by stenciling the cans with the club name and 4-H clover emblem in bright green. The painted barrels were placed in the yards of each club family and also donated to Silverton Lutheran church and the Silverton town hall, with distribution taking place on the club's safety tour.

Idea for the project was formulated from a report of a recent study of accidents occuring in Pennington county by the county extension office. The study revealed that nearly 25 per cent of farm accidents were caused by stepping on or striking objects.

The survey also indicated that 23 per cent of other accidents were caused by falls or tripping over objects. Club members reasoned that there would be fewer accidents if persons kept their yards neat by picking up broken glass, pieces of wire and other bits of trash. The trash receptacle located in a convenient place in the farm yard would be a reminder and encouragement to make the yards neater and safter.

Second phase of the club safety tour was informing 4-H families of certain traffic laws governing farm equipment when it is on a public road. Given special emphasis was the proper reflectorizing of farm equipment as provided for in Minnesota law which states ". . . the last unit of every combination of farm equipment shall display two red reflectors, at least 15 square inches in area, visible to the rear". Club members placed reflectorized tape on 25 farm implements on eight farms.

Safety is a club project for the Silverton group with every club member enrolled in the safety project. They believe the philosophy that living safetly brings greater happiness to themselves and others.

Agriculture Department Agent Speaks in City

State ASC officials and a representative of the U. S. department of agriculture met with fifty turkey growers and dealers from Pennington and adjoining counties Wednesday evening in the Legion club rooms for a discussion of the turkey marketing order referendum scheduled for June 18 to 22.

Also in attendance at the meeting was Robert Bergland, chairman of the state ASC committee. County Agent Paul Steimaschuk presided.

Knox Fifth Graders Only Class to Return Dental Cards 100 Pct.

Mrs. Kankel's 5th grade at Knox school was the only room in the Thief River Falls schools to attain 100 per cent dental card return, Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, stated this week.

Dental health is one of the most important health programs in any school, said Mrs. Race. Along with the learning process, the pupils are encouraged to practice what they have been taught. One home project each year is to have their teeth checked by the dentist at least once. The recommended work should be completed and the signed dental card returned to school, indicating that they have practiced good dental health.

Mrs. Kankel reported that her class had good dental health habits before they reached 5th grade. This is the same group that attained 100 per cent card return in first grade and have done well every year since.

Almost half of the grade children had no dental care this past year. Sixty per cent of the Knox school pupils returned their pink cards, 54 per cent of Northrop and 52 per cent of Washington.

Mrs. Nelson's first grade was high at Washington with 83 per cent card return and Miss Wold's 4th grade was second with 72 per cent. The lowest was 13 per cent.

Mr. Swenson and Mrs. Skay's 5th grade was high at Northrop with 67 per cent and Miss Mickelson's kindergarten was second with 65 per cent. The lowest was 19 per cent.

Besides Mrs. Kankel's 100 per cent, Mrs. Johnson's second grade had 90 per cent and Miss Bloosness and Mrs. Sandahl's third and Mrs. Knewtson's fifth both had 80 per cent. The lowest was 19 per cent.

Parents are asked to encourage their children to visit the dentist during the summer and return the pink cards to school next fall.

Minnesota has available the best medical and dental services in the country, said Mrs. Race and she asked, "Are we, as a community, using these services?"

State Methodists to Convene June 12

108th Annual Conference Slated for Hamline 'U'

Form June 12 to 15 representatives of Minnesota's 398 Methodist churches will gather at Hamline University in St. Paul for their 108th annual conference. Over 600 delegates will participate, said Bishop T. Otto Nall.

Sharp debate is expected on two proposals: an $80,000 a year plan for church extension by a "church developer"; and a $500,000 program to improve Methodist camps and campus Wesley Foundations over a 10 year span. Although each proposal is backed by several committees, plans for financing are yet to be completed. Approval of these items would bring the total conference budget to over $1,300,000 for 1962-63.

The conference opens Tuesday morning with the traditional communion and memorial service and ends Friday evening with the ordination of new ministers and the reading of ministerial appointments for the coming year.

Over 400 college and high school students are expected for Friday's Youth Day activities which include dramatics, modern dance, choir concerts, an original art exhibit by church youth, and a banquet. Retiring ministers and their wives will be honored Friday morning.

Small Producers of Turkeys Won't Vote June 18-22

Only Growers of 3,600 Pounds or More Eligible to Vote in Referendum

Turkey producer-growers and contract producers who are eligible to vote in the nationwide referendum June 18-22 on the proposed turkey marketing order produced approximately 104 million turkeys, or about 96 per cent of the record 1961 output of 108 million birds, according to Winton Knutson, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee.

These growers, Mr. Knutson pointed out, are eligible to vote for or against the marketing order formulated by the turkey industry to help obtain fair prices for producers and consumers and to avoid future disastrous price situations such as that which resulted from over-production in 1961.

Small producers — those who marketed not more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys in 1961 — are not directly affected by the order, and do not vote in the referendum, Mr. Knutson explained. Although there are many of these growers, he said, their total output was only about 4 million head in 1961. Their production was not a major factor in causing the downward trend of prices producers received last year.

Dairy Products to Feature June Diet

Fryer Chickens, Orange Juice Also Plentiful

Consumers can count on an abundance of dairy products and several other popular foods in June.

Since June is Dairy Month — the period of peak milk production—milk and other dairy products take the spotlight on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods.

Other June plentifuls are broiler-fryer chickenns, vegetable fats and oils and frozen orange juice.

Dairy products are among the best buys price-wise and nutritionwise, according to extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota. Recent surveys show that American families spend an average of 15 per cent of their food money for milk, cream, cheese and ice cream. For this expenditure they get 64 per cent of their supply of calcium, 45 per cent of their riboflavin, about 25 per cent of their protein, besides many other nutrients. So brimming glasses of cold milk and heaping dishes of ice cream have an important place on the family dinner table, the nutritionists say.

June marketings of broiler-fryers will be down 6 per cent from last year, but they are still 19 per cent greater than in June, 1960. The large supplies will give homemakers a chance to serve chicken at budget prices whether it's fried indoors or barbecued on the outdoor grill.

Bakke, city, was fined $100 and his driver's license revoked when he pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor, personal injury accident involved, and trail was set for June 11 on his plea of not guilty to having an open bottle of liquor in his car;

M. Lundeen Herd Tops DHIA in May

Supervisor O. Peters Files Report for Month

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington county Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top ten in the association for the month of May:

	Milk Av.	Fat Av.	Test Av.
M. Lundeen	1436	51.2	3.56
C. Christensen	1151	46.4	4.01
A. Peterson	1436	46.1	3.22
M. Mehrkens	1259	44.2	3.51
P. Morkkassel	904	42.5	4.70
D. Lundeen	1233	41.3	3.34
H. Sabo	1155	41.2	3.56
A. Stenberg	1147	39.9	3.48
D. Svendsgaard	1030	38.3	3.72
O. Chervestad	1024	37.8	3.68

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd, the amount of milk or butter fat produced being averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd then the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

Cows finishing with over 500 lbs. B.F. during the 1961-62 testing year, in 365-day or less lactation, were: Clyde Christensen herd; Cow No. 42 — 340 days; 16,060 lb. milk, 641-lb. fat. The cow records are published only after she is dried and has made 500 or more pounds in 365 days or less. The association average for May, 24 herds and 569 cows on test is: milk, 1023 lbs.; 37.7 lbs. fat; 3.68 test.

There were 6 owner-sampler herds including 133 cows on test and 121 milking.

3 New Teachers Hired by School Board on Monday

Three new teachers were given contracts when the Thief River Falls board of education met Monday evening at Lincoln high school. Review was also given to the preliminary expenditures budget and the board entered into the annual agreement with Bemidji State college for permitting practice teaching by BSC students in the local school.

Teachers hired include Mrs. Alice Lendobeja, Goodridge, elementary; Miss Beverly Rolandson, University of Minnesota graduate currently teaching in West Covina, Calif., elementary; and James Priebe, North St. Paul Hamline University graduate this year, speech and English to replace John Johnson at Lincoln high school.

Regular meeting of the board of education will be held Monday, June 11, at the school.

Non-operating Rail Workers to Get Pay Increase

Some 450,000 non-operating workers of the nation's railroads will receive a wage increase of 10.28 cents an hour under an agreement which follows recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board.

The one-year wage agreement was announced Tuesday night by negotiators for the 11 unions representing non-operating workers and the carriers. It provides 4 cents an hour retroactive to last Feb. 1 and 6.28 cents retroactive to May 1.

George E. Leighty, chairman of the committee representing the unions, said of the agreement, "I think the carriers feel that it's too much and we feel that it's too little but we have reached an agreement and that's it."

The unions at the start of negotiations last Sept. 1 asked for an increase of 25 cents an hour in wages which averaged $2.42 an hour. The railroads demanded reductions in some pay classifications and no change in others.

The presidential board was appointed when the unions and the rails were unable to reach agreement.

Lions Informed of Dairy Day Tuesday by McLeod & Roche

Tell How Local Event Has Served as Pattern for Nine Dairy Days in State

Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, and J. M. Roche, former secretary of the group, addressed the Lions club at its luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Elks club room.

Introduced by Eugene Nesland, program chairman, Mr. McLeod reported on the 13th annual Northwest Dairy Day scheduled for Tuesday, June 12, in Thief River Falls under sponsorship of the dairy association.

Mr. Roche, to whom McLeod attributed much of the early succes of Dairy Day, told of how the event had been promoted thru the wholehearted cooperation of dairymen, businessmen, bankers and county agents in a ten-county area.

Roche added that an idea developed in Thief River Falls has now expanded into ten separate dairy days in Minnesota, all patterned on the local event.

Ralph A. Sahman reported on the Lions district convention in Winnipeg, which he had attended last week-end, along with 580 other delegates from Minnesota and Canadian communities. He added that the Candians he visited with at the sessions were free in their praise of Thief River Falls as one of their favorite places to visit

Thieves Tip Fosston 8-7 Here Wednesday

Harlie Drees' line single, scoring Dennis Bakke from third base in the last half of the tenth inning, gave the Thieves an 8-7 win over manager Dave Carlin's Fosston club in a Norman-Polk league game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Wednesday night.

The Thieves' next league encounter will be on Sunday night, June 10, when they meet the Twin Valley Twins at Twin Valley.

In Wednesday night's entertaining game, the two teams exchanged the scoring lead several times and it was only in the last half of the tenth inning that the Thieves were able to shove across the winning run. In the tenth, Dick Williams opened with a walk; Bakke, who had poled out a home run in the second inning and doubled to the fence in center in the eighth, forced Williams at second, sending a ground ball to the shortstop. Fred Jensen bounced a slow roller down the first base line, and when pitcher Stan Otness made a high throw to first, Jensen was safe at first and Bakke sprinted around to third. Drees then banged out his gameswinning single.

Fosston, trailing by a 5-1 score entering the eighth inning, tallied a run on a pair of walks and an outfield muff to knot the game. The locals, in the eighth, picked up a run on Bakke's double and Drees' single, to regain the lead.

That lead was short-lived as Fosston, on a single by Bill Cline, a walk, and single by Dave Carlin and Stan Otness, scored a deuce in the top of the ninth.

The Thieves forced the game into an extra inning when Joey Poole lined a single to open the ninth, stole second, moved to third on an error and scored on Larry Gilbertson's infield out.

Electronics Gadget Aids Game Wardens

Enables Wardens to Check on Repeated Violators

Repeated violators of game and fish laws in Minnesota now face an added obstacle in pursuit of their illegal activities — an electronic computer system designed to speed information on past arrests.

The system, in operation by the Minnesota game and fish division since the first of the year, also has a number of other valuable uses, chief game warden F. W. Johnson said.

Such records have been kept manually for years but the new code system will permit wardens to get quick information that will help materially in law enforcement.

"Keeping a check on repeated violators is one of the chief advantages," Johnson said. "But there are many others. For instance, we will know at a glance what type of violations have been cropping up and where. It will pin point the work of the wardens.

"As an example of how it will help with convicted violators, suppose a man had been arrested for taking a deer before the season opened. We would know in a hurry whether he had a right to purchase a license because of a previous conviction."

The system also will kep a coded record of convictions, fines and similar information.

Highway Engineers Explain Road Signs

You wouldn't take a trip without a road map and you shouldn't drive anywhere without knowing the regulatory, warning and informational signs of your streets and highways, say the safety engineer of the Minnesota highway department.

A good driver should be able to recognize a sign by its shape and color as well as its message. A hexagonal sign is always a stop sign, an inverted triangle means yield-right-of-way — a circular sign indicates railroad crossing or evacuation route — a diamond shape means a warning sign — a rectangular sign means information or a warning — and a shield donates an interstate route.

A stop sign is red with white letters — yield, railroad crossing and warning signs are yellow with black letters — information and regulatory signs are white with black letters — information and regulatory signs are white with black letters or green with white letters — and interstate route markings are blue and red with white letters — evacuation route markings are blue with white letters.

Regulatory signs tell you about parking, passing, U-turns, speed limits, one-way streets and roads, closed roads and merging traffic. Information signs tell highway routes numbers, names of towns, how to leave and enter freeways and other guides. Warning signs alert you to sharp curves, narrow roads and bridges, intersections, cattle crossings, hills, bumps, construction and other road conditions.

Ignoring road signs or traffic controls is like playing Russian Roulette—you might get away with it several times, but you're bound to lose if you play long enough.

If you've forgotten your road signs or other traffic laws and good driving habits, get a copy of the Minnesota Drivers Manual at any driver examining station or at the Highway department.

Ewing of Thief River Falls, will leave New York City on Monday enroute to Greece where she will study for the summer months. The trip is being made under a scholarship granted by the Student Project for Amity Among Nations (SPAN) program.

Currently a junior at the University of Minnesota where she is majoring in English education and minoring in French, Miss Ewing will study in Greece for eight weeks on project work for which she will receive 12 college credits. She plans to study Greek art and will write a paper on the subject upon her return to this country in September.

Permission is given students under the SPAN program to tour Europe for four weeks following the completion of their eight-week study course. This will give Carole an opportunity to visit Mary Demetrellou at Patras, Greece. Miss Demetrellou was an American Field Service student at Lincoln high school and stayed at the Ewing home during the 1958-1959 school term.

Miss Ewing will meet the other members of the SPAN group in Paris and return to New York City on September 12 to continue her studies at the university. Dr. and Mrs. Ewing, James and Ronald left today for Minneapolis to visit with Carole and see her off when the plane leaves Minneapolis for New York on Saturday.

Paul Klungness Winner in State

St. Louis Park, with an aggregate of 31 points, easily won the team title in the state track and field meet held in Minneapolis on Tuesday. Sharing runner-up honors were Minneapolis Central and Minneapolis Roosevelt, scoring 18 points apiece. International Falls, with hurdler Tony Lynch scoring a first in the 880-yard low hurdles and tying for first in the 120-yard high hurdles, totaled 14½ points for third place. Northfield scored 13 points; and coach Rod Max's Prowlers, with junior Paul Klungness scoring all of the points, shared fifth place with Duluth East.

Paul Klungness, the spectacular all-round Prowler athlete, leaped 22 feet ½ inch to win the broad jump event, and added fourth place points in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, and the 180-yard low hurdles.

Four records were established during the tournament. The Minneapolis Central 880-yard relay team of Blaine Chatham, Thorton Jones, Lawrence Butler, and Ed Withers, set a new mark of 1:30.5 as they bettered the old mark of 1:31.2 set by Minneapolis Central in 1960.

Mike Gilham of St. Louis Park ran the 440-yard dash in 49.1 to pare the old record of 49.2 set by John Larson of Minneapolis Roosevelt in 1961.

Tony Lynch of International Falls turned in a mark of 19.7 in the 180-yard low hurdles to surpass his old mark of 19.9 set last year.

John Dyjack of Minneapolis Roosevelt, with a leap of 13 feet, 2 inches set a new mark in the pole vault.

Region 8 Baseball Tourney to Start Today at Fosston

Prowlers, District 31 Champions, Will Meet Fertile Tonight at 8:15

The Region Eight high school baseball tournament will be played at Fosston on Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8. On Thursday, with game time slated for 6:15 P. On Friday night, with game time scheduled for 8:15 p. m., the regional championship tilt will be played, with the winners of the first round games meeting for the title.

For the Record

Thumbing through the files and records of Lincoln high school athletics it appears that Paul Klungness' feat in winning the broad jump event on Tuesday marked the first time that a Prowler track athlete has won a state title. Paul, with his last jump, make a leap of 22 feet, ½ inch, to win the gold medal.

In addition to the five points he earned for the Prowler track cause by his first place in the broad jump, Paul scored a fourth place in the 100-yard dash, a fourth place in the 220-yard dash, and a fourth place in the 180-yard low hurdles. The Prowler junior accounted for the eleven points that were credited to coach Rod Max's squad. Those eleven points, though, gave the Prowlers a share in fifth place in the team standings.

In fact, Paul's accomplishment marks one of the few times that a Region Eight athlete has won a state track title. The most recent winner that comes to mind was the high jump victory by Crookston's Bill Taylor several years ago. Baudette's Jack Nielson made a valiant bid last year, winning a third place in the 100-yard dash, and a second place in the 220-yard dash.

Change of Site

High school baseball fans should note that the Region Eight baseball tournament will be played on the Fosston diamond on Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8.

The tournament had been scheduled for the Riverside Park diamond in Red Lake Falls, but due to some difficulties that developed in the lighting system, a last-minute transfer to the Fosston diamond was made by the Region Eight tournament committee.

The tournament pairing remains as previously reported, with the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks from District 29 playing the Roseau Rams from District 32 in a 6:15 game this evening, Thursday; and coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers from District 31 meeting the title-favorite Fertile Falcons of District 30 at 8:15 tonight, Thursday. The winners of this evening's games will meet at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow, Friday, for the regional title and a berth in the state tournament to be held in Minneapolis on the 13th, 14th, and 15th of this month.

Coach Chuck Johnson's Fertile club, a big and rangy outfit, and with a strong-armed pitcher in Rod Olson, has been installed as the tournament favorite. The Falcons came through some tough competition to win the District 30 championship. Fertile had to sideline such strong clubs as Ada, a veteran team that won the district title last season, and Halstad. The Falcons made one appearance here this season, and in that game Fertile, behind a no-hit and no-run effort by Olson, defeated the Prowlers, 7-0. But anything can happen, and usually does, in tournament play.

Admission prices for the regional tournament are $1.00 for adults each night, and fifty cents for students.

Lost the Opener

The American Legion junior baseball team opened its 1962 schedule on Tuesday evening, playing the newly-organized Middle River juniors. And coach Ralph Skay's club, in a game that went nine innings, dropped a 3-2 decision to the Middle River team.

It was an entertaining brand of ball that the boys exhibited to the fans. That Middle River club, with Larry Johnson and Larry Colton in the lineup, is a solid outfit. Johnson and Colton aren't strangers to fans around here as they have been members of the Greenbush team in the Pen-Ro-Shall league the past couple of years.

The first home appearance of the local club will be on Tuesday evening, June 12, when the powerful Lake Bronson club invades the Fair Grounds diamond. Game time is slated for 6:15 p. m.

Coach Skay used four pitchers against the Middle River team, with Tony Poole, Rick Jensen, Jack Leedahl, and Dick Johnson seeing action. The Middle River team relied on righthander Larry Johnson, and the chunky hurler went the route.

Week's Softball Schedule

The city softball league opened play this past week, and in a lop-sided opening game, the Hartz Stores club defeated the Thief River Grain, 33-1. One game like that is enough for the season.

The week's schedule will have the Holsum Bread team playing the Bridgeman's this evening, Thursday, at 6:30 p. m. On Monday, June 11, the Thief River Grain will meet the Hamm's Beer on Tuesday, June 12, the Holsum Bread will meet the Hartz Stores; and on Thursday, June 14, the V. F. W. will play Bridgeman's.

Modern methods of production, harvesting, processing, storage and transportation now provide farm-fresh foods at all times.

Success is not so much a matter of talent as of concentration and perseverance. —Anonymous

1st Lutheran Church Notes 75 Year Past

First Lutheran church in Thief River Falls will observe the 75th anniversary of its founding on Sunday with special services and visiting speakers. Services will be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium to handle the large crowd expected to attend and a noon dinner will be served in the high school cafeteria.

Dr. Walter E. Carlson, president of the Red River Valley Conference of the Augustana Lutheran churhc, will be guest speaker at festive morning worship service to be held at 10:30 a. m. at the school. Speakers at the afternoon anniversary service will be Rev. Charles W. Erickson, St. Peter, pastor of the congregation from 1936 to 1942; Rev. Carl F. Johnson, Webster, S. D., pastor from 1943 to 1954; and Mrs. Albin A. Larson, widow of the pastor who served the congregation from 1915 to 1924.

Mayor Orin Green of Thief River Falls will bring greetings at the afternoon anniversary service and Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church and president of the Thief River Falls Ministerial association will also speak. Friends of the congregation are invited to attend the afternoon anniversary program. Music will be provided by the chapel and senior choirs at the morning service and junior choir and ladies chorus at the afternoon program.

"When one considers the many years of struggling to stay alive as a congregation, it is then more than ever that one has a deep appreciation for those who refused to let the congregation die," stated Rev. Marvin O. Carlson, pastor of the congregation since 1955, in an anniversary booklet which has just been completed in the Times printing plant. Included in the booklet is a complete reproduction of the congregational history published for the 50th anniversary 25 years ago.

Park Ridge Church

The congregation was organized as the Park Ridge Lutheran church with Rev. Svante Udden as chairman on June 11, 187. From 1887 to 1907 the congregation was a part of the St. Hilaire parish of the Augustana Lutheran church and was served by pastors James Moody, Theodore Seashore, J. A. Mattson, A. Melin and Alex Sand. From 1907 to 1915 it was served by lay-preachers and students.

In 1902 the work was centered in Thief River Falls and the church building was erected in 1910. Rev. Albin A. Larson became the first resident pastor in 1915 and served until 1924, continuing part-time until 1926. Rev. Aner Bloom was pastor from 1927 to 1930, Rev. Harry Shogren from 1931 to 1935 and Rev. C. W. Erickson from 1936 to 1942. During Rev. Erickson's pastorate the church building was moved from 303 North Horace to the present site at 425 LaBree av. N.

Rev. Carl Fredrick Johnson served the congregation for the longest period of time from 1943 to 1954. Rev. Marvin O. Carlson became the sixth resident pastor and has served from 1955 until the present.

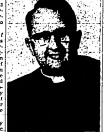
Membership in the congregation has grown from 12 original families to the present membership of 227 families. Baptized membership is 884 and confirmed membership is 529.

Pastors' Comments

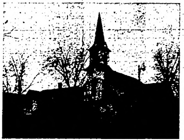
From the foreward written for the 50th anniversary by Rev. Erickson, the following statement is taken: "The founders of the Park Ridge Lutheran congregation in this undeveloped wilderness, which was later to develop into progressive community and city we now find here, is one of the many beautiful examples in this and other parts of our land, of that spirit that has made America a great nation."

Rev. Svante Udden, first president of the congregation, noted in the 50th anniversary booklet that "I find in my private baptismal records that I baptized a child for the August Norlund family on the 11th of June, 1887. I almost think that was the time we organized the congregation."

Rev. James Moody, the first regularly called pastor to serve the Park Ridge congregation, stated that, "My first pastorate was Crookston, Black River, St. Hilaire and Park Ridge. The salary promised from the whole field was $650 a year without parsonage, Park Ridge to have four Sundays a year at a salary of $50 a year. The rule then was to pay the pastor once a year, which rule I was subjected to for 18 years after my ordination."



PASTOR of First Lutheran church in Thief River Falls at the present time is Rev. Marvin O. Carlson who has served the congregation since 1955. In the 75-year history of the church, only six resident pastors have served the congregation.



75TH anniversary of First Lutheran church in Thief River Falls will be observed Sunday with special services in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The above photo shows the church and former parsonage which has been remodeled to provide Sunday school rooms. The congregation is now planning construction of a new church structure in the southeast section of the city.

Success Is Forecast for June Dairy Month

Minnesota's 26th annual observance of June Dairy Month has "all the earmarks of being an all-time success," according to L. H. (Lew) Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee.

"Plans for events throughout the state, especially the Dairy Days, have been exceptionally well-laid this year," Conlon noted at the onset of the month-long campaign. Our traditional preliminary events — selection of a mascot cow, naming of a June Dairy Month Farm Family and the annual kick-off luncheon—all were accorded an excellent reception this year."

Conlon said the purpose of the popular yearly event remained unchanged.

"Again this year, June Dairy Month activities all are aimed at better acquainting the public with our industry and at the same time awakening consumers to the need for using dairy foods for proper nutrition," Conlon said.

He said President Kennedy "set the stage early" this year when he said last January: "I have long been convinced that milk is an important aid to good health. This has led me to direct that milk be served at every White House meal from now on. And I expect that all of us will benefit from it."

Conlon also noted that June Dairy Month coincides with the busiest season in dairying, when milk production is at its peak in many parts of the country. Last year, the nation's 17,500,000 cows produced nearly 57 billion quarts of milk. Minnesota's 1,278,000 cows accounted for more than five billion quarts of the total.

"With that kind of production, we certainly need promotion," Conlon said. "This makes the hundreds of events of June Dairy both our products and our people in the dairy industry better known to the consuming public."

The Minnesota dairy industry committee, state unit of the American Dairy association, is coordinating agency for all June Dairy Month activities in Minnesota.

It takes the milk from a half-million dairy cows to provide the variety of dairy products used in manufacturing candy.

Dairy Foods Make up One-fourth of the American Diet

U. S. Department of Agriculture Reports Total Is 28 Per Cent

Latest United States Department of Agriculture figures show that milk and other dairy foods, including butter, supply approximately 28 per cent of the total American food supply.

Based on retail weight of all foods, the USDA figures that each American consumes an average of 1,488 pounds of food (based on 1960 figures). Dairy products provided more of the total food supply than any other category.

Figures show that per capita consumption of milk in all forms except butter—fluid milk, ice cream, cheese, evaporated milk, nonfat dry milk—averaged 414 lbs. on a product weight basis.

The 1960 breakdown showed that each American consumed about 8.2 pounds of cheese, 18.4 pounds of ice cream and 6.2 pounds of nonfat dry milk. Fluid milk and cream consumption per person was estimated at 342 pounds per person (or about 159 quarts). Evaporated milk was 11.5 pounds per person and cottage cheese was over 5 pounds.

USDA estimates indicate also that the 28 per cent of the total food supplied by dairy products took only about 19 cents out of each food dollar. The total "market basket" cost in 1960 was figured at $1,051.70. The dairy products included in this total, on the average, was, $199.57. The dairy foods consumed in the American diet were a nutritional bargain with milk and other dairy foods representing a primary source of such essential nutrients as calcium and riboflavin. Milk also supplied a major share (26 per cent) of the high quality protein in the American diet as well as Vitamins A and D and other B vitamins.

"It is the measure of freedom we enjoy—as much as our rich productivity—that has made our nation great today. It is the concept of freedom that gives dignity to the individual and life by the rule of law rather than life by the rule of man. It is the concept of freedom that gives us the right to worship as we wish, to vote in secret, to have a fair trial if accused of a crime and to write and speak without fear. It is the concept of freedom that generates the enthusiasm among men on which productivity itself depends."

—Kenneth Hickman

Walter Judd Will Run

Good news for the state was the announcement by Congressman Walter Judd that he will be a candidate for an eleventh term from Minnesota's fifth district. He is a man of great capacity, with a background of international experience, and he is held in high regard by the members of Congress of both parties.

Statesman Walter Judd will rank among Minnesota's all-time best of the citizens who have represented our state in Washington.

Lets' Keep It Clean

A public-works bill that would authorize President Kennedy to spend one and one-half billion dollars for make-work projects, is now before Congress and seems likely to pass. Republican leaders are objecting to a provision in the bill that would enable the president to spend one-half of this total on projects of his own choice and at his own discretion in an emergency.

The opposition certainly is justified and should be encouraged. An emergency fund of $750 million to create employment could be a very effective slush fund in a campaign year. It is difficult to understand why the President himself would ask for such a delegation of authority that could so easily backfire and react to his discredit.

If we must have make-work projects then the authority directing the program should be far removed from partisan influence. Now that Congress is in session practically on a 12-month schedule there is no good reason why Congress itself should not retain the right and the responsibility for deciding what is an emergency.

Advice to Newlyweds

In recent issues we have been quoting an old friend of ours in this column, passing along to readers some of his wisdom under a heading "W.L.B. Said." We have been asked who is this W.L.B.? Thanks for the interest.

W.L.B. are the initials of William L. Brownell who, thirty years ago, was an employee of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Co., of Parchment, Michigan. He had a knack for putting words together so that they expressed interesting ideas. In 1939 the company he worked for assembled a collection of his observations and published them in a sizable volume titled "Horse & Buggy Philosopher."

We received a copy of the book and that is how we got acquainted with W.L.B. He visits us quite often—as often as we pick up his book and read his chatter. As long as we keep on reading he keeps on talking, and we like what he has to say. William L. Brownell, as a friend said of him in eulogy, "was throughout life a sower of seeds of good cheer and of humor and of optimism."

To make the introduction more complete we will pass along the following essay written by this Horse and Buggy Philosopher which is more typical of his contribution to literature than the one-sentance paragraphs we have been using. Said he, we quote:

> "As Aunt Susan frequently remarked, we were brung up to be neighborly.
> "What we started to tell you was about our neighbor across the street. It was a rented house; families came and departed, hence it was pretty hard work to keep up with them and be neighborly.
> "One day a new family came. The man sat out on the porch with a brood of children in the yard and he looked down-in-the-mouth. We said to our daughter, 'That man looks kinda forlorn, I guess I'll go over and get acquainted with him.' Daughter said, 'Don't be in such a hurry dad perhaps he doesn't want to get acquainted.' 'Fiddlesticks,' we said, 'everybody wants to get acquainted,' so we went over.
> "We said, 'We are your neighbor across the street and we just came over for a minute to get acquainted.' He didn't say a word. We gave him time enough to come up for air and then we said, 'A nice lot of children, are they yours?' 'Who the h— do you suppose they belong to?' said the grouch. As soon as we could swallow our tonsils we said, 'We don't know, and if anybody should ask you, just tell them that we don't give a darn.'
> "When we came back home, daughter said, 'Did you have a good visit?' 'Fine,' we replied, 'but the only mistake we made was in not taking over some raw meat to throw at him.'
> "For the past 60 years, living in one house, that was the only disagreeable neighbor we ever had. The house next to us on the south was a large one. It has changed ownership, a number of times—farmers moving in to educate their children as it is close to the public school. It is now occupied by a family with four fine boys.
> "John, the oldest, is always tinkering with machinery. Roger, just graduated from high school, is going to college and wants to be a doctor. Junior is crazy over airships. He has built one himself, almost as large as a commercial plane, and Tom, well he doesn't want to be a doctor, or fuss with automobiles or airplanes, but he can, without lessons, play any musical instrument ever made. A good many sour notes come out but some day he will have an orchestra of his own and his wife will probably take in boarders, so that they can have a chicken for Christmas.
> "The mother of this brood is a corker. She is the captain of the ship. She is not only the captain, but she cooks the meals and scrubs the decks. We mention this simply to prove what you already know: that with the same father and mother in a family of four or five children no two will be alike in their makeup. Not only the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children, but the grandparents away back, nobody knows how far, are responsible for the virtues or the failings of those who come after them.
> "Having lived for more than half a century in one spot and in one house, we can truthfully say that we have, with the exception noted, alway had good neighbors. They have had dogs and chickens that were sometimes annoying, but they were always on hand and ready to help in time of trouble.
> "An army of young people were married in June and may we say to them, although they will pay no attention to it, if you want good neighbors, be one."

Danger Signals

What was the main reason or the stock market crash of last week? Many opinions have been expressed by those who concern themselves with such matters and of those that we have read there seems to be quite general agreement that stocks took their worst beating since the 1929 debacle mainly because they were priced much too high. An adjustment was much needed.

Fortunately the market has leveled-off and there seems to be no justification for immediate fear of a reoccurence of the depression of the early 'thirties. The stock market in 1929 was much more closely identified with gambling than it is now. Buyers then could make their purchases on small margins. Purchases now may be made with borrowed money but the stock markets require a down payment so large that for all practical purposes a purchase of stock now is a cash-on-the-barrel-head transaction.

The 1929 market bust triggered a round of bank failures, and lack of confidence by depositors extended the cycle, resulting in the bank holiday and a reorganization of our banking system. There is no immediate danger of a repetition of what happened thirty years ago, and if we do mismanage ourselves into another economic disaster that next bust probably will not follow the same pattern.

But there is a very real danger that does threaten us and that could bring upon us another collaspe comparable to the bust of thirty years ago. During the gambling 'twenties' our government remained solvent, in fact reduced its debt.

In 1920 our national debt was less than $25 billion, and by 1931 this had been reduced to less than $17 billion. By 1940 it had more than doubled to nearly $43 billion and by 1950 it had reached the total of more than $257 billion. Last year Congress increased the debt limit to $300 billion and the present Congress is being asked to step it up another eight billion. We would say that is cause for alarm.

The $308 billion of funded debt is only a part of our government's obligations. For instance being the guarantor of the nation's bank deposits could become an extremely difficult burden if for some reason the people should become panicky. Last week's break in the stock market did indicate that some people suddenly had become less confident about the future. It doesn't take much sometimes to cause the herd to stampede.

Better we give consideration to some of these possibilities before they happen rather than after they happen. Better we take steps, while we are still able, to see to it that they do not happen.

What greater proof of danger do we need than our vanishing gold supply. Lack of confidence in our dollar is really a lack of confidence in our ability to manage our own affairs wisely.

Spending money like mad and going into debt is fun as long as the credit lasts, but most of us have learned the hard way that debts somehow must be paid—and history tells us with great certainty that governments are subject to the same laws in such matters as we are as individuals.

Ask County Residents Support of Campaign for Salk Institute

Residents of Pennington county will soon receive mailed requests for funds to assist in the construction of the $15 million Salk Institute for Biological Studies which is now under construction in San Diego, Calif. The fund campaign is being conducted by the National Foundation during the first two weeks of June, according to Richard Mabey, Pennington county chapter chairman.

"I am convinced the Salk Institute will be one of the most important factors in our time for developing new knowledge about the basic life processes and their bearing upon unsolved problems of disease. This campaign is worthy of generous support," Mabey said.

The Pennington county campaign, which is being conducted by mail direct from the state office, is part of a nationwide appeal. The research center is being built at San Diego on a site donated by vote of the city residents. It is scheduled to open in 1963 and will be directed by Dr. Jonas Salk, the scientist credited with discovery of the Salk anti-polio vaccine which has protected countless thousands of youngsters against the ravages of paralytic polio.

Dr. Salk will be joined at the institute by some of the world's most eminent scholars in many branches of science. The institute will be devoted to research in fundamental biology, the cause, prevention and cure of disease and factors conducive to fulfillment of man's possibilities of physical and mental well-being.

"The Salk vaccine has dramatically shown how all American can cooperate with scientists in making life better," Mabey stated. "Through our contributions to the Salk Institute for Biological Studies we can be partners with the leaders of science in working to protect our children and future generations from disease and disability."

The site of the new institute consists of 27 acres overlooking the Pacific Ocean on Torrey Pines Mesa in the LaJolla area of San Diego and has been valued at $1 million. The institute will include three groups of buildings containing approximately 400,000 square feet and housing the laboratories, meeting house and quarters for Visting Fellows.

Dr. Salk plans for a staff of Senior and Visiting Fellows who will be "men of great excellence" in the fields of biology, genetics, biochemistry, physics and mathematics. There will also be philosophers, historians of science and others concerned with humanitarian pursuits. Provision will be made for a total staff of between 300 and 400, including laboratory technicians, administration staff, animal caretakers, maintenance workers and others.

Iron Range Men Complete Study

Some Are Placed in Jobs after Finishing Course

Frank T. Starkey, commissioner of the state department of employment Security this week issued a "box score" on the placement results of the first class graduated under the Area Redevelopment Act.

Of the fourteen welders who completed their training at the Technical School building in Virginia on May 18, Starkey reported the following results: Five were hired and are working for a Minneapolis boiler manufacturing firm; three more are still being considered by the boiler firm, and one failed its physical examination; one is employed by a powder company at Virginia; three are not working, and have indicated they prefer to search further for Range work before considering leaving the area; one of the graduates of the class could not be contacted.

Offices of the state employment service are doing everything possible to place graduates who are still unemployed, although Starkey pointed out that reluctance to leave "the old hometown" oftentimes is at the root of placement difficulties.

Starkey reported that a total of 123 additional persons are in training in classes conducted by the vocational training section of the state department of education, at Duluth, Eveleth, Virginia, Grand Rapids and Staples.

Classes include diesel mechanic, electronic technician, machine tool operator and weld.

Starkey added that the department is presently conducting surveys on job demands and worker qualifications for future classes that are planned under the new Manpower Development and Training Act, passed by Congress last month.

Extension Chief to Study Common Market in Europe

Skull Rutford Member of Eight-man Team Named to Gather Information

Skull Rutford, director of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service, will leave for Europe about June 15 as a member of an eight-man team which will gather information to help promote expansion of markets for U. S. farm products abroad.

Members of the team are selected state and federal cooperative extension workers.

They will conduct a first hand study of how U. S. farmers and professional agriculture workers may improve their understanding of European food and fiber needs; problems of export marketing, particularly with relation to European Common Market; and basic facts underlying a successful U. S. foreign trade policy.

The team is one of four extension groups which will visit major world areas to conduct similar studies for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The specialists, after returning home about July 23, will develop discussion material to be transmitted to urban and rural people and professional agriculture workers throughout the United States.

Rutford and his teammates will visit the United Kingdom, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and Denmark. They will study the effect of new European economic alignments on the marketing of agricultural commodities such as feed grains, wheat, tobacco, fruits and begetables.

The studies of all four teams will be made because of the need for farmers and others to be fully informed regarding the importance to the nation's economy of foreign agricultural markets, which last year took the production of one out of every six harvested American acres.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Psalms	8	1-9
Monday	Psalms	1	1-6
Tuesday	John	15	1-8
Wednesday	John	15	12-17
Thursday	Luke	8	4-15
Friday	Romans	12	9-18
Saturday	John	6	19-24

Lonely, gnarled, and neglected, but a thing of beauty, isn't it?

We know that trees are functional, that is, they hold the soil, the good earth, the rain. But more than that, each tree, in loneliness or forest, sings out the praises of its Creator, God.

Much more so, does man reflect the glory and image of God. He too then, must sing out the praise and honor to God, his Creator. There is a place for that worship and honor; it is your church. Whether lonely, solitary, or in crowds, He awaits you . . . to hear and to answer.

Jaycees Hear Reports from Committees

Officer Installation Will Be Held at Next Meeting on June 21

Reports on a number of projects were heard by the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting held Thursday evening at the Elks club rooms. Next meeting of the group will be Thursday, June 21, when installation of officers for Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees will be conducted at a joint session at the American Legion clubrooms.

Gene Belto is chairman of the installation meeting which is planned to begin at 8:15 p. m. Arrangements are being made for a smorgasbord luncheon to follow the program and business meeting.

Roger Tunberg reported on the Minnesota Vikings tour group visitation of the city which was held under Jaycee sponsorship on June 6. He noted that attendance was satisfactory with a large number of youngsters attending the event.

Ralph Foster, club president, reviewed the Miss Minnesota pageant at Rochester in which Miss Thief River Falls, Susanne Pitblado of Roseau, was named state winner in the talent competition. He stated that the Jaycees and this community should be proud of the representative and that such success was met in the very first year of Miss America preliminary pageant sponsorship.

William Ness reported on the bicycle safety project and Jerry Lydeen on the auto safety check, both of which were conducted by the Jaycees in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies and other organizations.

John McGinley was named chairman of the float committee and authorized to purchase a protective covering to protect the float which is now in storage. McGinley noted that the float had been purchased for $25 and about $55 spent in material for its construction. It will be used in forthcoming parades in the city this year and future years. The chapter is also interested in purchasing a trailer so that the float will not have to be removed from the trailer for storage.

Aquacade activities were reviewed by Roger Tunberg, general chairman of the project. He noted that the city auditorium had been secured for the August 3 dance and the high school auditorium obtained for the Miss America preliminary pageant on August 4. Charles Holmquist and Lloyd Tanem are functioning as the queen committee to select candidates for the Miss Aquacade title and Doug Remick will be in charge of button sales with the buttons now on order.

Terry Knutson, son of former Congresswoman Coya Knutson of Oklee, announced candidate for the state legislature, was scheduled to speak to the group. A telegram from Knutson was read, indicating that he would be unable to attend the meeting.

Lodge officers will exemplify the Flag Day ritual, and a short address will be delivered by Bryan Ulseth, vocal music director at Lincoln high school.

Lunch will be served at the close of the program, and there will be no charge, Broughton said.

Attending were Orville Hanson, cashier at Northern State Bank, and Mrs. Hanson; J. J. Womack, president of Union State Bank, and Mrs. Womack; and Justus Larson, director of Union State Bank, and Mrs. Larson.

Stelmas Gets Advanced Degree

Receives His Master of Education Degree at UND

Paul Stelmaschuk of Thief River Falls was awarded a master of education degree at the University of North Dakota commencement exercises June 3. He was one of sixteen students who won this degree.

Stelmaschuk graduated with a 2.6 average which is magna cum laude at the undergraduate level. His research involved a study of the 4-H safety activities in Pennington county. His major area of concentration was secondary school administration.

Stelmaschuk earned his bachelor of science degree from the University of Alberta in 1951. Prior to coming to Thief River Falls he taught school in North Dakota. The last six years he has served as Pennington county agricultural agent. He was promoted to assistant professor with the University of Minnesota in 1961, while continuing to serve as county agent.

City Purchases Front-End Loader Thursday Night

Second Reading Held on Ordinance Granting Gas Company Franchise, Here

Phillippi Equipment company of Minneapolis was awarded the contract to furnish the City of Thief River Falls with a new front-end loader as a result of action taken by the city council at its adjourned meeting on Thursday evening.

Five bids were presented to the council for consideration at the June 4 adjourned meeting and action was tabled until the Thursday session. The Phillippi company bid was for a Hough H-50 Payloader with one and one-half yard bucket at a bid price of $15,570. Trade-in price of $6,500 was allowed for the present city machine, leaving a purchase price of $9,070. The new machine will be equipped with a gas engine.

Second reading of an ordinance granting a 25-year franchise to the American Gas company for providing natural gas service to the city was held. The ordinance was amended to include a provision that drawings of line location and valves be provided to the city engineer. Upon completion of the third reading and publication, the ordinance would be in effect.

In recognition of the increased duties of Morris Owen as superintendent of utilities, the council granted salary increase from $5,796 to $6,300 annually, retroactive to May 16. Gordon Reierson, acting city clerk, was also granted additional salary of $35 per month retroactive to May 16, in recognition of his increased work load and effective until such time as the council employs a full-time city clerk.

Hearing on Area Jail Put off until Tuesday, June 19

A bill proposed for submission to the 1963 legislature, which would permit a group of Northwestern Minnesota counties to join forces for the establishment of detention facilities for prisoners will be discussed by members of county boards in this area at a meeting in Thief River Falls at the court house Tuesday, June 19, starting at 9:30 a. m., it was announced today by State Senator Karl Grittner, chairman of the legislative research committee. The meeting had previously been set tentatively for Saturday, June 16.

Increased Flow Noted in River Gates Wide Open

Increased flow in the Red Lake river, caused by further rains and more water being released from Red Lake, has resulted in all gates at the dam in Thief River Falls being opened again. The pool had been lowered above the dam to a sea level reading of 1114 and today was reported at 1115.4 feet.

The dam at Red Lake was opened last week to permit the release of 1,000 cubic feet per second rather than the 60 cubic feet per second which was previously being released. It takes three days for the water to reach Thief River Falls with a drop in elevation of 60 feet from Red Lake to Thief River Falls, according to Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities.

About 25 feet of the drop in elevation from the lake outlet to this city is in the area from Highlanding to the dam here. With a much steeper fall, water released at the dam here takes only a day to reach Crookston. This spring has marked the first time in 10 years that the gates of the local dam have been opened wide.

Complaint has been received about the dam here holding back water and causing flooding up the river. When the pool above the dam was lowered to the 114-foot level, the surface was only an inch above the intake pipe which draws water to cool the engines, Owen said. With the elevation at Highlanding being 25 feet above the dam here, it is easily understood that the dam itself does not hold back water for any appreciable distance.

Goodridge Plans Youth Recreation

Teams to Be Organized at School Tuesday Night

A summer youth recreation program is being organized for the young people of the Goodridge school area, Robert Towne, school principal, announced. Mr. Towne will serve as program director.

All boys interested in playing peewee or midget baseball are invited to attend a meeting to be held at the school Tuesday evening, June 12, at 7:00 o'clock. A swimming group for boys and girls is also being organized and those interested are requested to see or phone Mr. Towne so that bus routes may be established. The facilities at Thief River Falls will be used.

A soft ball league is in the planning stage, Mr. Towne states.

Cash, Narcotics Are Stolen from Starekow Clinic

Thieves Enter Window, Pry Open File Cabinet To Find Desired Loot

Cash estimated at $125 and a small quantity of narcotics was stolen from the Starekow Clinic early Thursday morning when thieves gained entrance through a window on the west side of the building and searched through desks and storage facilities in the building.

A tire iron was used to pry open a locked fire file and the cash and drugs were taken from the file. Checks left in the file were not taken by the burglars. The file was damagd to some extent but medical records and other papers were not disturbed.

Investigation of the case was begun about 8:15 a. m. Thursday morning when authorities were called after the theft was discovered. City police, county sheriff's office and state crime bureau are cooperating in the investigation and checking out of several leads turned up following the robbery.

Theft of money and narcotcs has also taken place at St. Louis Park on May 5, Hutchinson on May 18, Staples on May 21, Fargo on June 4 and a dental office in Warren on June 6. Unconfirmed reports of similar thefts at Frazee and Mayville have also been received.

Crop Prospects For Area Again Given Set-Back

Oklee Area Receives 5 to 6 Inches Friday As Rainfall Continues

Prospects for crops of any sort throughout much of Minnesota are growing dimmer as the rainfall so badly lacking last year continues to fall in abundance this season. This area received nearly two inches of rain during the past several days with reports of five inches at Oklee on Friday, six inches near Oklee and up to three inches of rain at other scattered points in the eastern portion of Pennington and Marshall counties.

While predictions call for partly cloudy skies today, tonight and tomorrow, scattered thunder showers are also forecast for this area tomorrow. Temperatures today should reach to the 72-82 degree range with lows tonight expected to be 55-62.

Report of a washout on the Great Northern tracks near Greenbush was checked this morning and railroad officials stated that no washout was known. It was noted, however, that a "pole driveway" used as a farm crossing had washed loose and floated against the railroad bridge midway between Greenbush and Strathcona, making it necessary to use a tractor to pull it to shore.

High and low temperatures during the past several days and precipitation noted at the municipal airport include 70 and 56 on Thursday with .02 inch; 71 and 59 on Friday with 1.15 inches; 74 and 55 on Saturday; 75 and 58 on Sunday with .64 inch; and a low last night of 56 degrees. June rainfall to date totals 1.88 inches, making a total of 9.41 inches of rain during May and June.

Mrs. Carl Green left last week for Sauk Centre where she will visit for some time at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Seline.

VALLEY HOME society of Thief River Falls is beginning to see the fruits of its labors as construction is underway on the new 67-bed home for the aged being built near highway 32 on the south edge of the city. The structure will be "T" shaped with a main section 316 feet long fronting on the east and a 107-foot wing built at the rear of the main building. Overall cost of the project, exclusive of moveable furnishings, is $319,000 and includes wiring, plumbing, heating and ventilation, kitchen equipment and building construction. Wet weather has hampered progress on excavation as indicated in the above photo.

State Filings for Office to Open June 13

State, District and County Candidates May File Wednesday

Secretary of State Joseph L. Donovan and the 87 county auditors will receive filings for offices to be filled at the 1962 general election beginning Wednesday, June 13. Filings close Tuesday, July 17 at 5 p. m.

The legislative reapportionment passed in 1959 to be effective this year changes the place of filing for many legislative candidates. Candidates for the state Senate from 31 of the 67 senatorial districts will file in Donovan's office. The remaining 36 districts are each contained in a single county and candidates will file with the county auditors. Those seeking a seat in the state House of Representatives from 10 House districts including the 66th (Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties), will file with the Secretary of State, those in 125 districts file with the county auditors. Legislative filing fee is $20.00.

Statewide interest is focused on candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, attorney general, and railroad and warehouse commissioner. DFL and Republican candidates for these offices in the September 11 primary, and minority party candidates or independents filing by petition, must file with the secretary of state and pay $100.00 filing fee.

The party primary ballot will carry the names of candidates for Congress in the eight new districts as apportioned at the second special session last year. Only candidates for the 5th district in Minneapolis will file in the Hennepin county auditor's office. All others file with the secretary of state. Congressional aspirants also pay $100.00 to file.

The non-partisan judicial ticket follows the "alley" system prescribed by law, whereby each setting judge holds a distinct office. Any candidate to replace one of them must file "for the office to which Judge Doe was elected for the regular term" or "appointed" as th ecase may be. Judges appointed after November 5, 1961, have until the 1964 election before they go before the voters. The judicial filing fee is $100.00. Filings are to be made with the secretary of state.

Two supreme court justices, William P. Murphy and James C. Otis, both of St. Paul, have terms expiring this year. Otis was appointed March 16, 1961. Murphy was elected in 1956 to his first full 6-year term, after appointment in 1955.

Twenty-three of the state's 59 district judges must be re-elected to retain office. Judges Arnold C. Forbes of Bemidji and J. H. Sylvestre of Crookston are among district judges whose terms expire.

Pennington county offices to be filled this year include county auditor, treasurer, register of deeds, sheriff, county attorney, judge of probate, surveyor, coroner, and county commissioners from the second and fourth districts, embracing the city of Thief River Falls, the incumbents being Don L. Olson and Merle A. Lindberg. All terms are for four years, except that of judge of probate, who serves for six years.

Lawrence Brown Gets UND Summer Science Grant

Sixty-one participants have been selected for the sixth annual summer institute for high school teachers of science and mathematics which begins today at the University of North Dakota. Included is Lawrence Brown, Lincoln high school chemistry teacher.

Under the direction of J. Donald Henderson, professor of physics and science teaching at UND, the institute is supported by an $80,600 grant from the National Science Foundation. Participants will each receive a $600 stipend plus allowances for dependents and travel.

The institute, which continues through Aug. 5, is the second in a sequential program started last summer. The plan anticipates a sequence of four summers with course offerings that will enable a qualified participant to work out a unified graduate program leading to a moaster of science teaching degree.

Northwest Dai
Da

THE MAN who has written Northwest Dairy Day in the chronicles of time is one Stuart McLeod, an incurable optimist with a kind heart for the dairy industry. A past Thief River Falls branch manager of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., McLeod retired in 1960 from that position. He helped to establish Dairy Day in 1950, served as chairman of the steering committee that organized the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, and has since served as president of the association.

"This is an event where the kids really take over," stated Stuart McLeod, chairman of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day. "Our budget of $4,500 goes to the youngsters in the form of prizes and awards. We hope we can help a little bit in building herds for the better dairymen of tomorrow."

Spreading of shavings on Second street between Main and Knight avenues will begin at 7 a. m., about the time the first animals begin to arrive at the courthouse parking lot. Calf preparation, distribution of hay and water, setting up of the show ring and registration of participants will get underway at 7:30 a. m.

Girls in the Thief River Falls trade area who have been residents of the area for at least six months and are interested in entering the contest are requested to contact Charles Holmquist or Lloyd Tanem as soon as possible. Contestants will be judged in evening gown, swimsuit and talent presentation.

Area Farm Bureau to Discuss Turkey Order Here Today

Issues in Referendum to Be Topic of Meeting in Rex Cafe at 9 p.m.

The upcoming referendum on the national turkey marketing order scheduled for June 18 to 22, will be the subject of a meeting to be conducted by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation in Thief River Falls tonight, Monday.

All interested turkey growers from an eight-county area surrounding Thief River Falls are invited to attend. Clarence W. Myers, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, announced the meeting, which will start at 9 p. m. in the Rex Cafe.

Myers said, "The results of the upcoming vote are very important to all farmers. Should the administration get a favorable vote on this control program, it might be an invitation for government control and regimentation of other segments of agriculture."

The Farm Bureau currently has resolutions which oppose national marketing orders, such as the order proposed for the turkey industry.

The purpose of the Thief River Falls meeting, one of six to be held throughout the state, will be to explain Farm Bureau's position and encourage support of that position.

MRS. DAVID NELSON

(No, not the one you're thinking of!)

With rhubarb at its tender best right now, and homemakers casting about for new and unusual ways to tantalize lagging spring appetites, we are happy to feature a variation on an old favorite spring dessert, rhubarb pie.

RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE PIE

4 c. rhubarb, diced
1½ c. sugar
2 Tbsp. minute tapioca
1 c. crushed pineapple, drained

Combine rhubarb, sugar and tapioca. Let this mixture stand while you mix the crust. Fill lower crust with rhubarb mixture and sprinkle pineapple over this. Cover with top crust, seal edges, and bake at 450 degrees for 40 minutes.

Mrs. Nelson comments that this is a favorite recipe with her family, and incidentally, with her, since it is so easy, and so quickly prepared. She says that by freezing rhubarb, the fresh appearance and taste of this formerly only-summertime pie can be duplicated at any time of year.

The Nelsons live at Middle River, and they have two children: a married son, Dwayne, who farms east of Middle River, and a daughter, DeAnne, a beauty operator at Warren, Minn. Mrs. Nelson enjoys baking, fancy work, and church work in addition to her duties as a homemaker.

Trees planted on Arbor Day often die from neglect by fall if they don't get good summer care. Extension foresters at the University of Minnesota say larger hardwood trees should be pruned back to compensate for loss of roots during digging and transplanting. Get rid of weeds and grass around small trees to eliminate competition for food and moisture. Support large trees with stakes to prevent wind damage. And keep soil black around the base.

"I believe in growing alfalfa to increase yields," says Stanley Kolstad, Dakota County farmer. After a crop failure in 1954 due to lack of fertility, he requested assistance from SCS technicians at Farmington. He now has a complete conservation plan which he has followed closely since 1955. Kolstad rotates all of his fields to a rotation of corn-grain-alfalfa brome. "I also have my sloping fields in contour strips which helps to save soil and moisture and increases yields," he adds.

Greenbush Sheep Day Winners Announced

As the 1962 Greenbush Sheep Days drew to a close on Wednesday evening, June 6, Governor Elmer L. Anderson, as banquet speaker, stressed the great untapped potential of Northwestern Minnesota which is yet to come. He added that a lack of promotion of our products is one deterrent to the development of this potential.

Music by the Johnson Sisters of St. Paul, the Timbertones of Bemidji and the Greenbush High School Orchestra preceded the governor's address. Claude Ebling of the Soo Line Railroad provided entertainment.

Shearing champions named in the afternoon were as follows: State senior champion, Gordon Clow, Lancaster who returned from retirement and edged last year's champion, Russell Croy of Lancaster. The junior shearing championship and trip to the national contest in Indiana in August went to Harley Christians of Fulda who squeezed by runnerup Raphael Gonshorowski of Greenbush, 281.1 to 276.9. Both these boys, however, will represent the state of Minnesota in the national contest. Dale Moser of Salol was third, just 2.3 points behind Gonshorowski.

The top 4-H & FFA judging team was the Wannaska 4-H team composed of Dale, Daryle and Tom Billberg of Wannaska. Top individual judges were Pat Offendahl, Mahnomen, who scored a perfect score of 200; Roger Haugen of Fertile, second; and Byron Olson, also of Fertile, third. David Duitscher of Lake of the Woods County was fourth. All of these top individual judges receive yearling ewes.

Results of other contests were as follows: Lamb fitting: 1st: Dennis Palmer, Frazee; 2nd, Jon Hall, Detroit Lakes; 3rd, Stuart Olson, Williams. Fat lamb trio contest: 1st, Daryle Billberg, Wannaska; & 2nd, Dale Billberg. Pens of 10 fat lambs: 1st, Paul Billberg, Wannaska; 2nd, Melvin Sele, Lake Bronson; 3rd, Norman Charles Scheafer, Greenbush. ¼ or coarser class, 1st, Charles Scheafer, Greenbush; & 2nd, Carol Olson, Middle River. ¾ or finer class: 1st, Raphael Gonshorowski, Greenbush; & 2nd, Loren Rasmussen, Middle River.

Plans Complete for 13th Annual Dairy Day June 12

ernoon with the awards program to begin at 3:30 p. m. at the judging site. Walter Schon of Fosston will be master of ceremonies for the program.

Awards Program

Prizes to be awarded include showmanship, breed champions, grand champion grade, grand champion purebred and year awards for participants. Coronation of the 1962 dairy princess by Miss Betty Johnson, Badger, 1961 princess, will take place at 4:30 p. m. Concluding event of the day will be the parade of champions at 5 p. m.

Judges for the cattle contest will be Henry Bartel of Hastings and Olaf Kjomme of Spring Grove, the same men who judged last year's successful event. A new public address system has been secured and all attending should be able to hear comments of the judges. Lew Conlon, one of the originators of Dairy Day, manager of the Mninesota Dairy Industry committee, will again be ringmaster, a position he has maintained since Dairy Day was originated in 1950.

Freeways Ban Use by Bikes and Horses

Should Use Service Roads Parallel to Freeways

A reminder was issued today by the Minnesota highway department to keep pedestrians, bicycles and horses off the freeways.

Using authority of section 169.305 of the Highway Traffic Regulation Act, the commissioner of highways has ruled that pedestrians, bicycles, other non-motorized traffic and slow-moving farm equipment should not use the freeways. Service roadways paralleling the freeways are provided for this traffic.

Of special note is Highway 494, adjacent to the Twin Cities Metropolitan Stadium. The popularity of baseball clinics for young boys of the area has led to large numbers of the boys walking or cycling to the stadium on the freeway.

The department policy has been that freeways are constructed for the safe, swift movement of motor vehicles. Mixing slow-moving bicycles, pedestrians and other traffic cannot be allowed on these expressways without serious interference with an inconvenience to the traveling public.

Rev. Julian Erickson directed the tour which included a visit to the state capitol, churches and cathedrals of several denominations, and the Augusburg Publishing Co. plant. Highlight of the three-day outing was a big league ball game in which the Minnesota Twins came out second best, the New York Yankees winning 10 to 1. Besides the two drivers the group consisted of eleven members of the confirmation class.

Gordon Caldis Is Head of District Girl Scout Agency

Gordon Caldis, attorney in Grand Forks, formerly of Thief River Falls, was elected chairman of the newly organized Project 11 Girl Scout organization committee at its first meeting held in Moorhead. Other officers elected are James Setnes, principal of the Central grade school, Wahpeton, N. D., vice chairman; Miss Janice Appelquist, Ramsey county, N. D., welfare workers, Devils Lake, secretary; and Donald Wanner, Jamestown, treasurer.

This committee has been set up to organize a Girl Scout council to serve the communities in the eastern section of North Dakota and the northwest section of Minnesota. Committee members will be assisted in their work by Miss Margaret Keeley, national field staff, Girl Scouts of the U. S. A.

The new Girl Scout council will include 34 counties with a present Girl Scout membership of approximately 4,000 girls and 860 adults. The council will apply for its charter from the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. by the end of 1963.

The communities are joining together to establish a council to strengthen the quality of the Girl Scout program and to extend membership opportunities to every girl, 7-17 years of age, who is interested in Girl Scouting.

Installment of Income Tax Due

Second Estimated Tax Payment Payable June 15

Taxpayers were reminded today by Gilbert A. Engel, acting district director of internal revenue in St. Paul, that the second installment of tax due on 1962 estimated income is to be paid by June 15, 1962

If the income expected to be earned during 1962 has changed, taxpayers should file an amended declaration of estimated tax. A blank form for use as an amended return is printed on the back of the bill which taxpayers receive for an installment of estimated tax Mr. Engel pointed out.

Regardless of amount or source of income, if the estimated tax liability can reasonably be expected to be less than $40.00 a declaration of estimated tax is not required since a change in the law was authorized by the 80th Congress.

Under the provisions of the law, a computation of estimated tax liability is recommended:

(1) If a person's estimated income includes more than $200 of income not subject to withholding, or

(2) If a person is single (other than a head of a household or a surviving spouse) and has estimated gross income in excess of $5,000 or

(3) If a person is married (but is not entitled to file a joint declaration of estimated tax) and his estimated gross income is in excess of $5,000, or

(4) If a person is married and has individual estimated gross income in excess of $5,000 and the combined gross income of both spouses is in excess of $10,000, or

(5) If a person is head of a household or a surviving spouse and has gross income in excess of $10,000.

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson

Manager Chamber of Commerce

The local economy is based on agriculture as is the economy of the state, nation, and world, for that matter. This is a fact that none of us can ignore.

At this moment it is safe to say that the membership of the organization is quite concerned about the farming situation in the Thief River Falls area; perhaps even more concerned than the individual farmers in many cases.

We do a great deal of talking about free enterprise within the business world because we believe in that system. There are those in this country who take exception to our views, who are proponents of extreme stabilization or management programs that would be administered by our government. These proposals may or may not have a great deal of merit. None of us professes to be the judge of what the Utopian setup might be. We do know however, that any man-made plan has its limitations.

Years ago, for instance, President Hoover's administration could not make it rain. Today, 1962, we'll guarantee you that the best minds in the United States cannot make it stop raining. Here is a local and fundamental display of what an imbalance of Nature's elements can do to all of the lofty, idealistic dreams of the planners. A mere surplus of precipitation from the skies has delivered a shocking, staggering blow to Northwest Minnesota.

We do not believe that pushing the alrm button is the answer to our local problem, however none of us can ignore the facts either. What will happen as a result of this rainy season is very difficult to tell just yet.

Each of us can learn a few things from our recent happenings though, and we hope that our memories do not fail us in the future. At this point one thing that can be illustrated is the value of livestock in a farming operation in this Thief River Falls area. Perhaps the advocates and participants of Greenbush Sheep Days, Northwest Dairy Day, and Red River Valley Winter Shows should be commended and encouraged for once again their sense of values appears to be quite sound. Even in wet years which are not infrequent or uncommon in this area, we have been notorious for our ability to produce grass and hay. These assets will prove to be quite valuable to the livestock man this year and perhaps his example should be followed more closely in the future. As a result the individual and the area would be blessed with an even more sound economy than is its tradition.

Let's not forget to visit Northwest Dairy Day at your local headquarters here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Population Trends in State Are Studied

Minnesota shows a high degree of economic specialization, with changes occurring at different rates in different parts of the state.

J. L. App, D. C. Dahl and K. H. Thomas, University of Minnesota economists, and W. B. Sundquist, economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service, divide the state into three economic complexes to illustrate the economic and population changes.

The Twin City-Southeast Complex provides about two-thirds of the state's total employment and 79 per cent of the employment in manufacturing. Other important employment is in agriculture and service industries. It contains 64 per cent of the population, and 67 per cent of the employment opportunities. Its people earn 23 per cent of the state's total personal income.

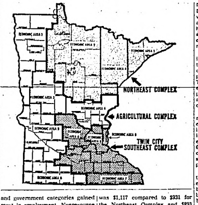
The Agricultural Complex is largely rural. In 1960 it provided [illegible] per cent of the state's agricultural employment, 12 per cent of the manufacturing jobs and 18 per cent of the jobs in other industry. It accounts for 23 per cent of the population and 22 per cent of the employment opportunities, but only 16 per cent of the total personal income.

The economic base of the Northeast Complex contrasts sharply with the rest of the state. Characterized by substantial employment in mining, forestry and tourism, the complex provided 82 per cent of the total state employment in forestry, fishing and mining in 1960. It provided 9 per cent of the employment in manufacturing.

While total population increased by nearly 15 per cent during the 1950's the proportion of Minnesota's population living in cities of 2,500 or more increased about 31 per cent. Population of rural areas decreased nearly 5 per cent; two of every three Minnesotans were urban residents in 1960.

Most striking decrease in employment was in agriculture, which supplied almost 30 per cent of the state's jobs in 1950 but only 20 per cent in 1960. Combined drop of both hired and family farm labor totaled nearly 100,000 persons. But other changes in agriculture, such as increased production, greater expenditures for production items and employment in related industries partially offset the decrease.

Employment in mining, forestry, fishing and transportation also declined.



Nonfarm proprietors, finance, insurance and real estate, services and government categories gained most in employment. Nonresource industries now provide 79 per cent of the state's employment and 71 per cent of total personal income.

Gaps in absolute per capita incomes between the complexes widened substantially during the fifties. In 1949 per capita income in the Twin City-Southeast Complex was $1,117 compared to $931 for the Northeast Complex and $893 for the Agricultural Complex. In 1959 income was $2,144 in the Twin City-Southeast Complex, up 82 per cent; $1,535 in the Northeast Complex, up 65 per cent; and $1,325 in the Agricultural Complex, up 48 per cent.

Economic area 6 had the highest per capita income, $2,310, in 1959. Lowest in the state was area 3 in west central Minnesota. Agricultural areas generally lagged well behind urban or suburban economic areas, even when allowing for lower living expenses typical of more rural areas.

The Twin City-Southeast Complex increased population by 23 per cent total personal income by 123 per cent and per capita income by 82 per cent during the 10-year period. That's well above national increases of 19 per cent in population, 76 per cent in total personal income and 48 per cent in per capita income.

Minnesota as a state economic areas 2, 4, 6 and 7 and the Northeast Complex had above average increases in total and per capita income and below average increases in population. Economic area 6 had the greatest recorded increases: 209 per cent in total personal income and 166 per cent in per capita income.

Per capita incomes in the Northwest Complex are growing faster than the U. S. percentagewise but slower on an absolute income basis. Population growth lagged behind that of the state and nation, reducing the potential total volume of economic activity.

The Agricultural Complex and economic areas 1, 3 and 5 experienced above average increases in per capita income but below average increases in population and total income. Economic area 8 in southwestern Minnesota was the only area of the state to show below average increases in population, total personal income and per capita income.

The Agricultural Complex grew the least percentagewise in both total and per capita incomes from 1950 to 1960. Further outmigration may be expected in that area unless nonfarm industry provides employment for persons not needed directly in farming.

App, Thomas, Dahl and Sundquist say that intelligent planning for the future requires awareness of trends in economic activity, markets and technology. Their complete report appears in the current edition of Minnesota Farm Business Notes, a publication of the Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service.

'U' Agronomist Offers Tips on Late Planting

The long spell of wet weather this spring means that many Minnesota farmers will need to take a second look at their crop plans.

Harley Otto, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota, says late seeding is likely to result in lower yields, grain diseases and lower grain test weight.

He adds that late grain seeding may be all right, but crop success will depend mostly on the weather later in the season. If it's cool and sufficient rain falls in late June and early July, late-planted grain will probably do all right. But hot wather could mean trouble—grain needs cool temperatures to form heads and grain properly.

Crop by crop, here are Otto's comments on late planting:

OATS—Late-planted oats may not suffer too much if weather is favorable this summer. In planting late, stick to the early varieties—Andrew, Minhafer and Goodfield—particularly in southern Minnesota. Where oats are planted late, many farmers may prefer to cut them for silage. That way, yield reductions may not be as marked as they would be if the crop were left for seed.

WHEAT—Mid-summer weather will determine crop success. Check the soil temperature. If soil is too warm at seeding time, there is more chance for root rot. But if the soil is cool, wheat starts faster and is more likely to outgrow the root rot organisms. Selkirk and Pembina are the most common hard spring wheats in Minnesota, and they are as good for late planting as any.

BARLEY—Research shows that if seeded after May 20, barley yeild drops sharply. Malting quality may go down, too—partly because the later it is sown the higher the percentage of thin kernels. But this, too, depends on July weather. There is also a variety difference in this respect — Traill, a thin-kerneled variety, is more severely affected by late planting than varieties of the same maturity which produce plumper kernels.

FLAX—From now on, Bolley and Marine are the best varieties for Minnesota. Since Marine is earlier in maturity, it is best for extremely late seeding. As with small grain, late flax planting raises the risk of disease and lower yields.

Another point in late planting—be sure to plant enough seed. Full seeding rates recommended per acre are: oats, 80 pounds; wheat, 1½ bushels; flax, 1 bushel; and barley, 2 bushels.

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARY LUNDIN

SOMETIMES IT IS EMBARRASSING to find out how little we really know. The human mind usually progresses through a stage of "knowing it all" to a period of "knowing nothing at all" to an advanced state of knowing a little about a lot of things and learning to listen to find out more. This final phase may be most accurately described as maturity.

One of the things about which the average citizen, including myself, knows very little, is flag etiquette. It was apparent in watching the American Legion convention parade that most viewers did not know how to act or what to do when the colors of our country passed before them. With Flag Day being observed nationally on Thursday, perhaps a few pointers from "The History of the United States Flag" would not be out of place.

Display of proper manners toward our flag is a matter of personal etiquette. There is nothing which legally requires a person to observe flag rules but the heritage of our country represented in the flag makes it a moral responsibility. Here are some of the rules adopted by Congress:

The flag should be carried on the marching right if in a procession with another flag or, if there is a line of flags, in front of the center of that line. It should not be draped over the hood, top, sides or back of a vehicle, train or boat. When it is displayed on a motorcar, the staff should be fixed firmly to the chassis or clamped to the front of the vehicle.

When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height and should be of about equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace. Crepe streamers may be affixed to spear heads or flagstaffs in a parade only by order of the President of the United States.

The flag should never be used for advertising purposes. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins or boxes or anything that is designed for temporary use and discard. When in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, the flag should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning.

When the flag is hoisted or lowered or passing in a parade or in review, all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention, and salute. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand, holding it at the left shoulder with the hand over the heart. Aliens should stand at attention. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag in the moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes.

When the new 50-star flag came into being as a result of the addition of Alaska and Hawaii as states, it became the nation's official flag. A White-house statement noted, "It would not be improper to display the 48-star flag or the 49-star flag after July 4, 1960, the birthday of the Union. With limited exceptions agencies of the federal government will continue to display the 48-star flag and the 49-star flag so long as they remain in good condition and until existing stocks of unused flags are exhausted. It is appropriate for all citizens to do the same."

OUR FLAG

Billow free above the fertile land;
Fly high where freedom's people stand
Below thee. May thy crimson streams
Ripple o'er our land of dreams—
Our Flag, Our Flag.

Stars of white against the deep blue field
Prove the strength which never thought to yield
To tyranny. One nation, under God,
Holds those in other nations awed—
Our Flag, Our Flag.

Ever may we call to mind the brave
Who gave their lives and all that thou shalt wave
Above the free. We offer fervent prayer
That thou shalt always flutter there—
Our Flag, Our Flag.

Public Notices

In loving memory of our dearly beloved son and brother, David, who was taken from our family circle June 11, 1960:

A ray of sunshine
Has gone from our home,
And a place is vacant today,
And the little boy
That we loved so well,
Seems so very far away,
But we're trying to live
Just day by day
Trusting the Father for light,
Knowing that some day
He'll be with us again,
In the Home in the City of Light

Bemidji Nips Prowlers 2-1 for Region 8 Title

Scoring an unearned run in the fifth inning to break a 1-all tie, coach Horace May's Bemidji Lumberjacks went on to defeat the Prowlers, 2-1, in the Region Eight high school baseball tournament finals that was concluded on a rain-soaked diamond at Fosston on Saturday night. The Bemidji squad will represent Region Eight in the state high school tourney to be played in St. Paul's Midway stadium this week.

In Region Eight semi-finals games, played on the Cass Lake diamond because of the wet grounds at Fosston, Bemidji trounced the Roseau Rams, 17-0, in a five-inning game; and the Prowlers, behind the steady pitching of righthander Tony Poole, edged the Fertile Falcons of District 30, 3-1.

In the championship finals game the Prowlers gained an early lead, and scored their lone run, in the top of the third inning. After Rick Jensen had grounded out, short to first, Jerry Erickson, Gary Klungness, and Paul Klungness drew successive bases on balls as Bemidji righthander Bill Barthelemy experienced control trouble. With the bases loaded, Barthelemy nicked clean-up batter John Aune with a pitched ball to force Erickson in with a run. The visions of a big Prowler inning were dimmed when Mike Aune and Larry Poole were strikeout victims.

The Lumberjacks came back with a run in the last half of the third inning to knot the game. Steve Dale led off with a single to right field, Wayne Peterson drew a walk, and when Marv Hanson looped a short single to left field, the bases were jammed with Jacks. John Dow sent a grounder to second base, but when Paul Klungness made a low and wide throw to the plate, Dale scampered in with a run. Jerry Fossand hit into a double play, pitcher to catcher to first base; and when Jerry Holter grounded to pitcher Jensen, and was out, pitcher to first, the Bemidji threat was ended.

Rick Jensen, who started on the mound for the Prowlers, was tagged for a pair of hits in the fourth inning, singles by Bill Hanson and Steve Dale, and, with two men out, righhander Tony Poole was brought in relief. Tony retired Peterson on a foul pop to third baseman Erickson to retire the side.

The Jacks scored what proved to be their winning run in the fifth. With one man out, Dow looped a double to left field, reaching second base on a close play. Fossand drew a walk. Bob Shadlo, a freshman, was sent to second base to run for Dow. Holter lofted a high fly ball to right field, and Shadlo, thinking that two men were out, took off for the plate. Larry Poole muffed the fly ball, and Shadlo scored, but the runner on first, who thought the ball would be caught, was forced at second base.

The Prowlers made a strong bid to tie the game in the top of the seventh. Gary Klungness led off with a walk, and then stole second. Paul Klungness beat out a hit to shortstop. John Aune struck out. Mike Aune sent a sinking line drive to left field, and the Jack's Wayne Peterson came up with the fielding play of the game when he made a diving catch of the ball. Larry Poole was called out on strikes to end the game.

In the afternoon semi-finals games, Bemidji racking the offerings of Gary Olson, Morris Halvorson, and Dennis Nelson for numerous extra-base hits, rolled up a 17 to 0 win. And in what was perhaps the best game of the tourney, and which developed into a pitcher's duel between the Prowlers' Tony Poole and Fertile's Rod Olson, coach Ralph Skay's club edged out the Falcons, 3-1.

A single by Jerry Erickson, a walk to Gary Klungness, an error, a bunt-hit by Paul Klungness, a passed ball, and a wild pitch gave the Prowlers two runs in the third inning.

Fertile, in the fourth, came up with a run on Gary Gullickson's lead-off single and, after Norm Jacobson and Ron Newell had been retired, a double by Paul Sannes.

The Prowlers added an "insurance" run in the seventh when, with two out, Jerry Erickson drew a walk, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on a Gary Klungness' ground single to center.

In the last half of the seventh, Poole, after retiring the first two batsmen he faced, gave up a ground single to Howie Slayter. But the Prowler righthander struck out Jay Mattson to end the game.

Public Invited to Visit Arboretum

Saturday, June 16, Is Visiting Day at Excelsior

Minnesotans are being invited to observe Saturday, June 16, as Arboretum Day by visiting the University of Minnesota's Landscape Arboretum near Excelsior.

The 160-acre tract of woodland and meadow constituting the arboretum is used for research in testing ornamentals and developing hardy varieties not formerly suited to growing conditions in this state, according to Leon C. Synder, head of the University's horticulture department. More than 300 species of native trees and shrubs growing in the arboretum are identified for the visitor. Last year 15,000 people used the arboretum for individual study as well as group instruction.

Guided tours of the grounds will be conducted for the public at 1 p. m. on Arboretum Day. At 2 p. m. a special program will explain work being done at the arboretum. The picnic grounds will be open at noon to anyone wishing to bring a picnic lunch.

During the tours visitors will see some of the more than 6,000 plants that have been set out in the arboretum since 1958 when the land was deeded to the University by the Minnesota State Horticultural Society. The present plantings represent some 2,000 species and varieties of ornamental trees and shrubs. Among some of the recent plantings are more than 100 varieties of azaleas and rhododendron, 80 varieties of flowering crabapples, 5,000 tulips, 70 choice varieties of daylilies, a peony collection, old-fashioned roses, mockoranges and a variety of evergreens.

Harold Macy, dean of the Institute of Agriculture, will open the program at 2 o'clock with a welcome to visitors.

Trail Will Host Motorcycle Climb

Canadian Riders Will Meet U. S. Cyclists

Trail will again be the site of the Northwestern Minnesota championship motorcycle hill climb with the date for this year's event set at 1:30 P. M. on Sunday, June 24. Canadian and United States riders will compete in the contest on toboggan hill which is located along highway 92.

Canadian cyclists will compete against U. S. riders in the event with $135 in prize money being offered and trophies awarded. Last year the Canadian riders swept the prizes with about 35 persons competing and a crowd of about 3,000 persons forming the crowd of spectators.

More riders are expected this year from both the United States and Canada. Sponsors of the hill climb note that the hill has been "improved" this year to make the motorcyle climb even more difficult. Free parking will be provided and children under 10 years of age admitted free. Admission will be 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

So Close

"That's a play we have been practicing all season." That was the statement of coach Horace (Offy) May of the Bemidji Lumberjacks following the Jacks' 2-1 win over the Prowlers in the Region Eight baseball tournament finals at Fosston on Saturday night. Horace accompanied the statement with a wink and a wry smile as he realized the good fortune that had turned an apparent "bonehead" play in the fifth inning into a game-winning and title-winning run.

In this dramatic inning, with Bemidji runners on first and second with one out, coach May sent in substitute runners for John Dow at second and Jerry Fossand at first. Bob Shadlo, a freshman, was the runner at second, and when Terry Holter lofted a high fly to right field, Shadlo, thinking that two men were out, took off for the plate. If the ball had been caught, Shadlo would have been a cinch double-play out, but unfortunately Larry Poole muffed the fly, and the Jacks had what proved to be the game-winning run.

Fact is, Bemidji was fortunate to have had this runner at second base to start the play. Dow looped a hit into left field, and he stretched the hit into a double when he gained a questionable decision at second base, just beating Rick Jensen's throw to Paul Klungness. But such are the breaks of the game.

And it must be acknowledged that Bemidji's left fielder, Wayne Peterson, with a speedy Gary Klungness perched on second base with the tying run in the seventh inning, saved the game perhaps when he made a diving catch of Mike Aune's bid for a hit. Peterson slid to the muck and mud of the outfield, but he managed to hang on to the ball. It was the fielding play of the game, and the tournament.

While the breaks undoubtedly went against the Prowlers in the finals, the locals received the benefit of several breaks in their semi-finals tilt against Fertile. The Prowlers won a well-earned decision over coach Chuck Johnson's powerful District 30 champions, but two of the locals' three runs were scored as a result of a passed ball and a wild pitch. It was quite a feat for the Prowlers to defeat Fertile and pitcher Rod Olson. He's the hurler, you will recall, who pitched a no-hit and no-run game against the Prowlers some weeks ago.

Golf League Play to Start

If the rains abate and the waters recede, city golf league play will get under way on Wednesday evening, June 13th. League play is already a week late because of the unfavorable weather and high water conditions. There is some question as to the course conditions this week. As of Sunday, holes number three and four were unplayable, being surrounded by the flooding waters of the Thief River.

Teams this season have been somewhat reorganized as the handicaps have been established on an over-all basis. Last year handicap arrangement proved to be to the advantage of the low-handicap teams and to the disadvantage of the high-handicap clubs. It is hoped that the new arrangement will be an equalizer.

And another innovation has been added in that the league will operate on a split season. At the end of six weeks of play, the top four teams will have earned playoff positions. A new six-week season will then start, and the four top teams in this season will gain the second-half playoff positions. The first round and second round teams will then play one round to determine the top four places in the city league standings.

It's Wednesday evening at the golf course for the start of league play.

Starting Up the Ladder

Fertile and Concordia college's Arlo Brunsberg began his professional baseball career this past week. Brunsberg, rated with the all-time greats in Fertile high school athletics, and in Cobber athletics, too, signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers of the American League.

Arlo was assigned to the Thomasville team of the George-Florida league, a Class D circuit, and joined that team this past week. He arrived into town late in the afternoon, and that night he was behind the plate catching for the Thomasville club.

Brunsberg is being tried as a catcher by the Detroit organization, but he has a potential as an outfielder, too. There was some question, at least that was the indication, given by San Francisco scout Dave Garcia some years ago, about Arlo's arm as a catcher. All the scouts who have watched him play have been impressed with his ability to hit the ball.

And another of the area's athletes is making a bid in professional baseball when it was announced that Ada's Kenny Weber had signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National league. Weber, a pitcher-infielder with the North Dakota Sioux the past couple of seasons, and with the Ada Athletics in the Norman-Polk league, is with the Grand Forks Chiefs of the Northern league.

Lag to Convene in Benson June 22d

A program is being planned for 7:30 p. m. Friday, with business sessions slated Friday and Saturday afternoons.

At 7 p. m. Saturday, a banquet at Trinity Lutheran church will climax the meeting. Main speaker will be O. A. Augustson, editor fo the West Central Daily Tribune at Willmar.

The Hartz Stores rolled up the week's most decisive win when, on Monday evening, they overwhelmed a young and inexperienced Thief River Grain team, 33 to 1. Kermit Malberg's snap-ball delivery proved puzzling for the Grain men.

This week's slate is featured by the Bridgeman's vs. Vets game on Thursday evening. The two clubs, along with Hartz, share first place in the league standings.

Raise Admission Fee at State Fair

Adult Admissions to Cost 75 Cents This Year

Admission prices to the 1962 Minnesota State Fair, August 25 thru September 3, will be brought into line with those of other major midwestern exhibitions, has been announced by Douglas K. Baldwin, secretary and general manager, following a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society.

Adult admission to the fair will be 75 cents. The charge for parking an automobile on the grounds will remain at $1.00, Baldwin announced.

The policy of admitting children less than 12 years old free every day will be continued. On the two Children's days, August 27 and August 31, children under 15 will be admitted free, as in the past.

"The raise in admission prices became inevitable because of rising costs of operation," Baldwin explained in his announcement.

"We held off as long as we could and, when the step finally became necessary, we adopted a formula which makes it no more costly for a Minnesota family to attend their fair than the people of Wisconsin and Iowa have been paying at their expositions for several years." A 1962 survey of 100 fairs which belong to the International Association of Fairs and Expositions reveals that 75 are charging 75 cents or more this year.

Persons parking in the State Fair lot south of Como avenue will be charged 50 cents per car, as they were last year.

"DON'T FRET about it, you'll do just fine." Characteristic words from Stuart McLeod, chairman of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, as he gives words of encouragement to Miss Betty Johnson, Badger, 1961 Northwest Dairy Princess, who will crown her successor at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Johnson is currently serving as secretary in the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office. Stuart doesn't often offer advice but his counsel is frequently sought and his word given careful attention.

A Man, An Idea, A Success . . .

Stuart McLeod Story Parallels Dairy Day

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

Born of frustration over the increasing failure of a previous promotion, Northwest Dairy Day is now past the stage of adolescence and blossoming into maturity. If a single individual is to be plucked from the many who have made the event successful through the years, that man should be an incurable optimist named Stuart McLeod.

No longer a young man at 69 years of age, Stuart is one of those few men who seem to have no age. With erect carriage and quickness of step that belies his years, possessor of a ready wit and calm disposition, McLeod has guided Dairy Day from the very beginning 13 years ago. The story of Dairy Day in Thief River Falls is his story—and it is worth telling.

Stuart himself is a native of Sleepy Eye in the southern portion of the state, but traces his local history back to 1916 when he moved to Goodridge and began farming. His first dairy animals were two Guernsey heifers, one bought at an auction sale for $20. In 1926 he was elected to the board of directors of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

Times were hard in the late 1920's and early 1930's. "I never seemed to have time to stop for a cup of coffee when I had business in Goodridge," he said. "There was a pool hall there, and there were farmers who would spend time playing pool but they were that kind of farmers, too."

Stuart worked hard on building his herd of Guernseys. "I remember I had a butterfat herd average of 404 pounds, tops in our testing association," he said. "I had about 60 head of cattle including 22 cows milking and things were looking pretty good."

Fate Intervenes

Then fate intervened. Dreaded Bangs disease cut 17 of his best animals from the herd in 1932, leaving him some young stock and aged cows. Three later checks of the herd cost him a total of 13 more animals, including most of the two-year-olds he had counted on to replace the first animals taken. His herd of 60 fine animals was reduced to 30 over half a year's time. Some of these were sold to repay money he had borrowed.

Hiring a man to care for his farm, he went to work for the Farm Security Administration in Norman county. The government lending agency is now known as the Farmers Home Administration. This position he held from December of 1935 until August of 1942 when he was named Thief River Falls branch manager of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

Always interested in dairying and having faith in the industry in spite of his own personal setback, he was active in its promotion. He served as president of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association from 1922 to 1930 and again from 1936 to 1954.

For several years the Commercial Club, now the Chamber of Commerce, had sponsored a calf show and sale for Pennington county 4-H club members. For several reasons the event was not considered successful and Stuart, as chairman of the agriculture committee, was faced with the problem of finding a replacement or dropping the entire idea.

Dairy Day Idea Born

Together with Lew Conlon, who had been hired by the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee as a promotion specialist and served as chairman, Stuart conceived the idea of an outdoor calf show for not only Pennington county but the surrounding counties. The idea took form about the first of April in 1950, the show was scheduled for June, and Northwest Dairy Day was underway.

Meetings were held with creamery operators at Fosston and Middle River. The idea met with approval. Hearty endorsement was given by the businessmen of Thief River Falls. A total of 160 calves were entered in the first contest and Marion Muller of Mahnomen was named the first Northwest Dairy Princess. "The princess contest was just a little frosting on the cake," Stuart recalls, "Nobody had the idea it would grow to the extent that it has and become as major an event that it is."

The agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce meeting to discuss the event included Stuart McLeod, chairman, J. M. Roche, W. E. Dahlquist, James Parkins, Frank Hobbs, Robert Lund, Norman Holen, George Werstlein, Fleming Gibson, James Muzzy, Morris Howick and Elmer Bratsch.

Guests were Richard Hugget and Irving Mead of Roseau, Marlin Ellingson of Grygla, Gust Mundinger of St. Hilaire, Russell Larson of McIntosh, Walter Schon of Fosston, Harold Elseth of Argyle and Chester Traaseth of Mentor. A steering committee was organized and included Roche, Hugget, Mead, Mundinger, Larson and Schon with McLeod as chairman, Glenn Carlson as secretary and Elmer Bratsch as treasurer. A temporary budget of $3,000 was set.

Perpetual Chairman

Ever since the time that Stuart chaired the steering committee meeting he has been at the helm of Dairy Day activities. In 1952 the Northwest Dairy Improvement association was formed to plan and operate Northwest Dairy Day. Stuart was elected chairman of that group and still holds the position.

Today Dairy Day operates on a budget of about $4,600. Of this total area creameries contribute about $1,400, banks about $700 and Thief River Falls businessmen add the bulk with about $2,500. All money collected is used for promotion of the day and returned to participants in the form of prizes, lunches and awards. The day is carried out on its own merits without carnivals, professional entertainment or free give-aways.

During the 13-year history of Northwest Dairy Day, the association has never lacked for enthusiasm, McLeod said. Everyone taking part in planning and carrying out the event is sold on the idea and carries out his phase of the operation.

"We do some work in setting the thing up," states Stuart, who is inclined to be a little modest. "Once the day starts the kids take over and it sure is fun to watch them perform. After all, this is for the kids. It's their show."

Quality of calves entered has shown marked improvement since the early years and the show has gained not only acceptance but prominence in the area. To be a winner at Northwest Dairy Day is an honor worthy of pride. The princess contest has grown to statewide and national proportions and 36 girls will be entered in the regional contest here this year.

And with all the hustle, furor, activity and excitement connected with Northwest Dairy Day this year, behind the scenes there will be a tall, quiet man who directs activities with a friendly smile and experienced hand. This is the story of Northwest Dairy Day. This is the power of Stuart McLeod.

Another Dairy Day

Prospects for field crops in this area probably have never been worse at this time of the year. The spring of 1950 was just as backward. That year a late frost made possible a fair harvest. That could happen again. But the prospect is far from bright.

In such a cheerless setting Northwest Dairy Day is especially significant, emphasizing, as it does, the importance of livestock in the territory that is served by Thief River Falls.

Over a period of many years the dairy industry has been our most dependable source of income. In recent years there have been important changes in dairying. We have fewer herds, but production is being maintained by larger herds of better cows, along with better management. And the industry is moving in the direction of more efficient marketing and manufacturing, giving the producer a bigger share of the product's market value.

Twelve years of Dairy Days have been helpful in maintaining interest in dairying and herd improvement in this area. Herds that average more than 300 pounds of butterfat per cow are no longer unusual. Testing has become a common practice.

Twelve years of Dairy Days have made dairying more interesting to the many hundreds of our young people who have participated—and to many of the parents of these young people.

Thinking of Dairy Day as just a one-day operation, it would be a costly promotion. But Dairy Day is just the pay-off for months of preparation and effort, and for the many contributors from the eleven counties of Northwestern Minnesota who make this program possible, this expenditure has been a very profitable investment.

In a backward season such as we are experiencing this year, the importance of our dairy industry is more readily appreciated.

Court Removes Barriers

Milk producers of the central states should benefit from a Supreme Court decision that outlaws the barriers that have kept their milk from the protected markets of the large eastern cities. This decision upsets a 25-year-old Federal milk-pricing system, according to the Wall Street Journal which states:

> "For there are more than 80 Federal "milk marketing areas," regions in which dairy farmers have succeeded in covering themselves with almost every protective device a bureaucratically controlled system can devise.
> "And all these years milk handlers bringing cheaper milk into those areas have had to make compensatory payments to the local area dairy farmers. The result has been to destroy any price advantage an "outside" handler might have enjoyed and to submerge competition almost completely. So while the marketing system was bringing about what the Government calls an "orderly flow" of milk in market areas—which are mostly urban — it also prevented prices from having any relation to the supply.

The protected farmers serving these areas enjoyed not only shelter from competition, and fixed prices from bottlers, but also had a guaranteed Federal minimum support price for all of the surplus they cared to produce in competition with that portion of the industry that was not protected—a factor in building up butter surpluses. On which the Wall Street Journal comments:

> "This coddling of an industry has been much more than absurd. Similar division of markets and fixing of prices in any other business would be illegal. Nonetheless, now that the Supreme Court has opened these regulated areas to milk from "outside", thus overturning the carefully-nurtured control system, the Agriculture Department with much wailing and gnashing of teeth is giving deep thought as to what can be done.
> "But it is pretty obvious by now that any artificial measures that try to supplant the workings of a free market simply pile up trouble, especially for the consumer. It is, after all, the consumer who has been paying the price for noncompetitive milk in protected areas.
> "If the department's marketing experts succeed in finding some way to reactivate the marketing system, one thing is sure: It's the consumer whose milk will be spilled all over again."

The Simple Solution

In Oregon the state legislature permitted the city of Portland to adopt daylight saving time but maintained standard time thruout the rest of the state. Citizens of the smaller city of Eugene also wanted to enjoy that extra hour of sunshine so they moved their work schedules ahead one-hour instead of tinkering with the clock.

That of course is the proper solution for a very simple problem. Here at the Times we adopted such a schedule many years ago. The employees were asked if they would prefer the work day to start an hour earlier and end an hour earlier and they approved the idea unanimously. Except for the season of clock tinkering each year they enjoy their extra hour of sunlight without confusion. The good citizens of Eugene, Oregon, point the direction for proper community action without that confusion.

They Want to Stay

Writing in the Wall Street Journal, John F. Lawrence gives us an interesting report on the important contribution that has been made over a period of years by church organizations in the development of backward nations. He cites the record of the American Friends Service Committee, an international association of Quakers with headquarters in Philadelphia, as typical of many church groups that have been working quietly but effectively in teaching the natives how to help themselves to improve their living conditions.

The AFSC was organized in 1917 to help civilians in war-torn Europe. Since then it has concentrated its international aid, now costing about $2.2 million a year, in lands involved in or threatened by political revolution. The committee supplies most of its help in the form of advisers and volunteer laborers.

Speaking of the program in Latin America, Mr. Lawrence states:

> "Some 3,500 people have taken part in the Latin American portion of the program. Each summer 75 Americans & 30 Latin Americans, mostly students, attend five work camps in Mexican villages. In addition there are three year-round projects each in Mexico and Guatemala.
> "The committee's resources naturally limit its activities. Its choice of Mexico and Guatemala stems from a belief that outsiders alone can accomplish little, that the real key to continuing progress in raising living standards and ending political unrest is building strong local institutions. These range from community service groups to branches of government agencies, the counterparts of our public health, agricultural extension and similar Federal services. Both Mexico and Guatemala are developing such organizations and the AFSC figures it will help more by assisting in this development than in tackling more backward countries.
> "In 1960, the committee, in line with a Mexican government program, borrowed a patch of land in the state of Puebla and planted hybrid corn. Now an area 15 miles long and 10 miles wide is dotted with fields of the high-yield grain. A local youth club organized by the AFSC picked up the idea and helped it spread.
> "Next fall, the AFSC will start a new program in Lima, Peru, to advance a city proposal for upgrading slums. AFSC workers will try to develop community government within slum sections, which in turn will be able to take advantage of the city's assistance in putting in sanitation and other public services.
> "The $1.2 million the AFSC has spent to date in Latin America is a flyspeck compared with Federal aid. But the AFSC's methods may be worth a closer look as President Kennedy's ambitious 10-year, $20 billion Latin American Alliance for Progress aid program begins its second year."

The AFSC helps to spread its influence by bringing Latin Americans into its work areas, Mr. Lawrence explains. This method trains them for leadership in their own areas. These people, many of the teachers or social workers from more backward lands, get a first-hand look at how Mexico is progressing.

Quoting one of the AFSC officials about their policy of maintaining their training centers within Latin America, Mr. Lawrence explains that the organization prefers helping the young people to attend schools in their own countries rather than to bring them to the United States. The reason, "when they come to the United States they always want to stay."

Then Shut Up

(Florida Times Union)

Rarely has anyone made a point more effectively by both precept and example, than did Rep. William B. Windell, of New Jersey, in a comment on bureaucratic inclinations toward verbosity.

"The Lord's Prayer," he said, "has 56 words, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address has 266, the Ten Commandments 297, the Declaration of Independence 300. But a recent government order on cabbage prices has 26,911."

It remains only to be noted that Rep. Windell's statement totaled 30 words. But it is a safe assumption that it will be read and understood by more people than will the government order on the price of cabbage.

There is still no better rule for the communication of ideas than the late Vice President Alben Barkley's prescription for an effective campaign speech:

1. Have something to say.
2. Say it.
3. Shut up.

Mississippi River Parkway

If you have had occasion to travel on either side of the Mississippi River anywhere in Minnesota or the states south of us through which the Mississippi River passes, you may have noticed the green and white highway markers in a pilot's wheel design with the designation around the edge, "Great River Road."

This is the official designation of a project that has been worked on by dedicated people for nearly forty years. The program has been to get a twin highway, one part on each side of the Mississippi River, all the way from New Orleans, to the source in Minnesota and beyond, to join with the transcontinental highway in Canada. This Mississippi River Parkway project thus includes nine states and two provinces of Canada.

What isn't generally realized is that it is now 60 per cent complete. A very large portion is in Minnesota and when the full impact of promotion develops, we will have much to offer in Lake Pepin, Fort Snelling, the Hiawatha Valley, the Oliver H. Kelley farm, the State Capitol, the Sibley House, Big Sandy Park, Lake Itasca and a host of other major attractions.

Ted Rowell, Sr. of Baudette is chairman of the Minnesota commission which promotes the parkway. Harold E. Olson is secretary.

When complete, the Great River Road tour could be developed into one of international note as one of the "Great Tours" of the United States.

Amalgamated Lithographers Union — The other day I attended a meeting of Local No. 10 (Twin Cities) of the Amalgamated Lithographers Union of America. In reviewing its history and record I could not help but conclude that here is a model of trade unionism.

It has as a fundamental principle that the craftsmen cannot prosper unless the industry prospers. It recognizes that the graphic arts trades are very competitive. It cooperates in every effort to modernize, improve efficiency, and lower unit costs. It has never resisted automation. Has this meant fewer jobs? No—the net result is more jobs, the highest average rate of pay in the graphic arts industry, and a position in the rapidly increasing lithography field.

The union opens its meetings to candidates of both parties. It concentrates on issues and benefits of interest to its members and does not get all involved in party politics.

Union elections are by secret ballot and complete financial information is available to members.

I don't belive this union is unique in these matters—but you may read so much that is adverse about some unions that I thought this report might balance your judgment.

"RIGHT THERE is where I was going to plant corn," states Darrow Lundeen to his neighbors as they survey the flood conditions resulting from heavy rains and overflow from the Red Lake river in Deer Park township about two miles southeast of the River Valley bridge. Others in the picture are Merle Lundeen and Verner Arveson. Eight acres of oats seeded early this spring are covered with water except for a small corner. Darrow, who has a herd of high-producing dairy cattle, has his animals in the barn because the pasture is under water. The group above is shown by the pasture fence just east of the barn.

Relief Expected for Flood Areas in Pennington Co.

Dist. Engineer Orders Reduction in Release of Water at Red Lake

Pleas to political officials in Washington by flood-stricken farmers in Pennington county have apparently been successful in securing at least temporary assistance. Heavy local rainfall, in addition to increased discharge of water from the Red Lake dam, resulted in a number of farms being flooded in the Kratka, Deer Park and Highlanding areas.

Farmers in these areas are protesting the length of time required to get action from the U. S. Corps of Engineers when a situation such as this week's flood occurs. Water poured out of the Red Lake river into drainage ditches and forced back water over large areas of farm land—some of which had been seeded earlier and were beginning to show good crop stands.

In the area of the River Valley bridge, the only way to see the river channel, which had been dredged about 10 years ago, was to note trees appearing on either side of the main current of water. About one and one-half miles east of the bridge, two tractors on the Albert Howard farm were standing in water near the axles on Monday. Many farmers with flooded pastures were forced to keep cattle in the barn.

Farmers in the area reported that water from the Red Lake river rose to such height that it pushed back across farm land and was running into the Clearwater river to the south. One farmer was particularly angered when he called the Corps of Engineers after noting water flooding from the river into ditches and was told by the St. Paul office that increased discharge from the Red Lake dam "would make little difference".

A delegation of farmers called Rep. Odin Langen in Washington late yesterday morning—and received a return call about 4 p. m. which noted that the flow from Red Lake would be reduced by the Engineers. A telegram from Sen. Hubert Humphrey was received by the Times this morning and also advised that the senator "received word district engineer can now reduce Red Lake dam

Board Accepts Bids on School Coal Supplies

O'Hara Low Bidder; To Act on Fuel Oil and Gas Bids June 18

At its regular June meeting Monday, the Thief River Falls board of education opened bids on fuel oil and coal for the coming year, for gasoline for the buses and for bread for the school lunch program.

The O'Hara Fuel & Transfer Co. lowest of four bidders, was given the contract to supply Elkhorn coal at $20.30 per ton; No. 2 Kentucky Premium at $19.55; and No. 3 screenings at $17.85.

Jung's Bakery's bid of 17 cents a loaf for bread was accepted, one other bid having been received from an out-of-town firm which was fractionally lower.

Action on acceptance of one of the six bids submitted on fuel oil and six on gasoline was deferred until an adjourned meeting Monday, June 18.

The board accepted the resignation of Allen Staley, commercial teacher, who plans to continue his education, and three new faculty members were appointed. Gordon Hanson, a 1962 graduate of Bemidji State college, will succeed Olaf Dahlen as teacher of the auto mechanics course. Arthur Welter, a 1962 graduate of Mankato State college, will teach mathematics, and Mrs. Elaine Dyer of this city will teach elementary subjects. She taught last year at Newfolden.

L. N. Bennes, local insurance man, presented to the board a payroll deduction plan for annuities for some employes of the school district, no action being taken.

George Stockman, elementary school director, and Quentin Jones submitted a proposal for an expanded program of athletics, physical fitness and recreation in the grades. The men were asked to work out the plan in greater detail, and to report at a later meeting.

Supt. Marshall Hankerson read a letter from Guy O. Tollerud, director of school plant planning with the state department of education. He wrote, "There is so much to gain in building junior high school facilities on an adequate new site that I will not want to approve plans for new construction on the present site".

Rev. and Mrs. M. G. Hagen of Moorhead spent Sunday afternoon at the Alfred Lande home.

Tax Collections up to June 1, 1962 Top 1961 Figure

Collections of real estate and personal property taxes in Pennington county to June 1 this year aggregated $749,239.22, or more than $33,000 above receipts of $715,966.15 for the same period in 1961, County Treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson announced today. He added that 129 more receipts had been issued this year.

Republicans Endorse Seven at Convention

GOP Candidates in State Election Are Selected Saturday

The seven-man slate of candidates chosen by the delegates at the Republican state convention Saturday in Minneapolis is headed by incumbents, Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, Auditor Stafford King and Treasurer Val Bjornson. They, plus four candidates for offices now held by the opposition party were elected in a burst of colorful demonstrations.

Also endorsed were C. Donald Peterson, two-term legislator from Hennepin county, as Gov. Andersen's lieutenant-governor running mate; Robert L. Kunzig of Deephaven for attorney general; Norbert McCrady of Owatonna for secretary of state; and Robert M. Johnson of Lakeville for railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Peterson won the nod for Gov. Andersen's running mate in a hotly contested race with two other candidates, Wheelock Whitney of Wayzata and Carl M. D'Aquila of Hibbing.

The assistant minority leader of the House won on the first ballot. Both Whitney and D'Aquila moved to make the endorsement unanimous.

Kunzig, a transplant from the East, captured the imagination of the delegates with his friendly but forceful platform appearnces. The addition of a German name to the ticket was hailed by many.

McCrady has the experience of two terms as Steele County treasurer to bring with him into the campaign, plus a solid Republican background and a wide knowledge of Southern Minnesota. He beat out Edward G. Bayuk of White Bear.

Johnson is no stranger to the GOP ticket. He ran for the same office in 1960 and polled more than 654,000 votes. His opponent, Arthur C. Hanson of Minneapolis, withdrew during the convention before balloting.

The convention opened Thursday and ended Saturday with an estimated 2,000 delegates, alternates and guests taking part.

Gov. Andersen brought forth bursts of applause when he addressed the gathering Friday morning telling of his record, his program for the next four years and taking well aimed jibes at his DFL opponent.

National Committeeman Congressman William E. Miller told

Local Woman Is Injured Sunday by Rifle Bullet

Mrs. Wallace Vagle Hit When Bullet Narrowly Misses Her Daughter

Investigation of an accidental shooting injury which could have been a good deal more serious was completed early this week by the Thief River Falls police department. Charges are still pending in the incident which occurred at about 6:20 p. m. on Sunday.

Mrs. Wallace Vagle was standing with her little girl in the garden of their home at 317 East 11th street in this city when she felt something strike her right leg. The bullet from a .22 caliber rifle had struck with enough force to draw blood although it did not penetrate the leg of her slacks. A few inches difference would have resulted in the bullet hitting the little girl in the head.

Mrs. Vagle was taken to Northwestern hospital where she was treated and released immediately. Upon investigation by the police department it was determined that the bullet was fired by one of two boys two blocks away who had each fired one shot with a 22 caliber rifle.

Police patrolman Raymond Bren, serving as juvenile officer for the local police department, called attention to the fact that the shots were fired inside the city limits. He noted that the near escape from serious injury by the little girl should be a reminder of the dangers of such shooting.

City ordinance forbids the discharge of firearms of any kind within the city limits of Thief River Falls and also applies to air rifles, bow and arrow and slingshots.

Producers Take Note!

Turkey Marketing Order Vote Will Open on Monday

With the national turkey marketing order referendum only a few days away, Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee, today reminded prospective voters of eligibility requirements and balloting procedure. Balloting will begin Monday and continue thru June 22.

Eligible voters are "producer-growers" who marketed more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys in 1961 and "contract-producers" who in 1961 had a risk-of-loss contract in turkeys produced by a producer-grower. Cooperative associations may vote for their producer members provided they have qualified to do so by June 8, 1962.

All voters must certify the liveweight volume of their turkey marketings in 1961. Producer-gorwers may certify by mail (on forms sent to them by the ASCS county office — where they also cast their ballots) or in person at the county office when they vote. Contract-producers and cooperatives voting for their members were required to file certifications by June 8 in the ASCS state office for the state in which their principal place of business is located. If they operate in only one county, however, they may file in that county.

In each case, the volume certified will be marked by state or county ASCS officials on the ballots given or mailed to voters after they have registered and certified their volume of marketing. Each voter will receive with his ballot an envelope marked "Ballot" and another bearing the voter's return address and addressed to the State or county ASCS office in which his vote must be cast.

If a voter casts his ballot by mail, he should mark it "yes" or "no", place the ballot in the envelope marked "Ballot"; seal it, and place it in the envelope addressed to the ASCS office. Ballots sent by mail will be accepted if they are postmarked not later than midnight, June 22. If the voter wishes, he may receive his ballot and vote it in person at the ASCS office.

The question to be voted on by producers and growers will be, "Do you favor issuance by the Secretary of Agriculture of the proposed marketing order regulating the handling of turkeys in the production area?"

Andrew Skaar to File for State Legislative Post

Pennington Co. Farmer To Seek Position from Pennington-Red Lake

Andrew Skaar

Andrew (Andy) Skaar, Pennington county farmer, announced this week that he will file for election as state representative from Pennington and Red Lake counties in the 66th legislative district.

A native of Pennington county and graduate of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston, Skaar has been active in farm and civic projects for many years. He helped form and served as president of the Northwest Farm and Home Development association, has been a member of the Pennington county, and Minnesota Crop Improvement associations and Red River Development association. Active in the Red River Valley Winter Shows, he served as chairman of the recent fund drive for the new Winter Shows building at Crookston.

"I am extremely grateful to my friends and acquaintances who have encouraged me to run for this important office," Skaar said. "If I am elected it will be my intention to give all the people of the 68th District conscientious representation in the State Capitol."

RECIPIENT of a $200 scholarship fund from the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, the first such award in the 13-year history of Northwest Dairy Day, was 18-year-old Gary Erickson of Badger. Because of previous calves being won in the Erickson family, Gary declined the calf offered to the person showing the grand champion grade animal at the show. His aged Holstein cow was breed champion as well as grand champion grade and Gary capped his performance with first place in the showmanship contest.

Kathleen Hjelle, Argyle, Is Crowned NW Dairy Princess

Perfect Weather And Large Crowd Mark Dairy Day

Old father sun smiled benevolently through clear blue skies Tuesday and the 13th Annual Northwest Dairy Day paraded before one of the largest crowds in recent years. With field conditions far too wet for spring work throughout the entire 11-county area, farmers flocked to Thief River Falls to witness their own or neighbor's youngsters compete in the dairy calf show or princess contest. The afternoon program and concluding parade drew huge crowds.

Nineteen-year-old Kathleen Hjelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertel Hjelle of Argyle in Marshall county and an attendant at last year's contest, was crowned the new Northwest Dairy Princess by Miss Betty Johnson, Badger, who won the title in 1961. Kathleen is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, is a brown-eyed brunette and will be a sophomore majoring in home economics at North Dakota State University in Fargo next year.

Selected as attendants to the princess were 17-year-old Paulette Knott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knott of Red Lake Falls, and 17-year-old Dolores Rolandson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rolandson of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. R. Mosbeck Named to State Retarded Board

Three area persons represented the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children Friday and Saturday at the 11th annual convention of the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children held at Augsburg college. They were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Richard Mosbeck of Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. Mosbeck was elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of the state association. Dr Donald Berglund of Northfield was elected president. He is associate professor of music and director of the St. Olaf college orchestra.

Dr. Oliver P. Kostoe, chairman of the special education department at Southern Illinois University, spoke on the problems of finding jobs for mentally retarded young people and cited research which indicated that those who found jobs had vocational skills and were able to use them well. These young people came from homes where they were held responsible for their own behavior, had good health and physical appearance, were able to mix well with employer and employees and had the ability to concentrate on their work.

Dr. M. J. Carver, associate professor at Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, discussed phases of future research in mental retardation. He outlined advances to date, such as the discovery of inborn errors in metabolism which cause mental retardation.

A number of other speakers took part in the convention and a special award was presented to the Minnesota Mrs. Jaycees for outstanding services to the retarded.

Elks to Observe Flag Day Tonight

Bryant Ulseth, director of vocal music at Lincoln high school, will speak this evening, Thursday, at 8 o'clock at Flag Day exercises to be sponsored by the local Elks lodge in the club rooms. WINNER of a purebred dairy calf of her breed choice is 15-year-old Shyrl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Peterson of Pinewood in Beltrami county. When Gary Erickson of Badger declined to accept the calf after showing the champion grade, Shyrl was named the winner. Her sister Sue won the event in 1961 and received a purebred Guernsey calf this year. Erickson declined the calf because of the number of previous winners in the family, and the directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, in an unprecedented action, voted to give the youngster a $200 scholarship fund.

PUREBRED champion at the 13th Annual Northwest Dairy Day held in Thief River Falls on Tuesday was Daleford Comre Daisy, a holstein calf shown by nine-year-old Jerry Muzzy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Muzzy of rural Thief River Falls. Too young to accept the trip offered to the International Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia., Jerry relinquished the trip to 14 year old Larry Workman, Borup, whose registered Jersey calf was named breed champion.

Barbara Myhrer Married To Jacob DeHaan May 5th

Baskets of yellow roses and white mums against a background of ferns provided the setting for vows exchanged by Barbara Jean Myhrer and Jacob Henry DeHaan at St. Bernard's Catholic Church of this city on May 5, with Rev. G. Robert Pry of performing the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. DeHaan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Myhrer of TRF, while the groom is the son of Mrs. Gertrude DeHaan and the late John DeHaan of Red Lake Falls.

Traditional nuptial music was played by Miss Arrin Carlson, with sacred vocal music rendered by the members of the St. Bernard school choir.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. In a waltz length gown of white lace over taffeta, designed and fashioned by her mother, she also wore a fingertip veil which was held in place by a crown of Chantilly lace and pearl sequins. She carried a bride's white missal, the groom's gift, topped with red roses and white carnations.

Serving as bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Miss Elaine DeHaan of Red Lake Falls, who wore pink net over taffeta; and as maid of honor, Miss Carol Morben of Kenmare, N. D., a cousin of the bride, in a gown of green net over taffeta. Both gowns were fashioned in street length with matching head bands. The attendants wore pearl necklaces and white gloves, given them by the bride, and carried matching bouquets of yellow roses and white mums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Gerard DeHaan, of Red Lake Falls, as best man, and by Thomas Morben of TRF, the bride's uncle. All the men in the wedding party wore business suits.

The bride's mother selected an apricot sheath with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, while the groom's mother wore a blue print dress, also with white accessories. Their corsages were of yellow roses and white mums.

A wedding dinner, given by the bride's parents and attended by about one-hundred guests, was served in St. Bernard's parish hall following the ceremony. It featured a four-tiered, pillared wedding cake topped with three wedding bells and trimmed with red roses, and was baked and decorated by Mrs. Gilford Sannes and served by a great-aunt of the bride, Mrs. James Zavoral of T. R. F.

Hostesses were Marie Cernousek, Mrs. Robert Davidson, & Mrs. Walter Czeh; waitresses, Miss Sharon LaCoe, Susan Krankkala, Sandy Halvorson, Beverly Naplin, and Karen Mosbeck. Miss Pearline Blazek had charge of the guest book, while Mrs. DuWayn Thygeson served punch. The gift table was presided over by Mmes. Roger Swanson, Dennis Johnson, and Martin DeHaan.

Those at the punch and gift tables wore corsages which they received from the bride, and the hostesses and waitresses wore aprons, also presented to them by the bride.

Out-of-town guests were from Illinois, Nebraska, Kenmare and Grand Forks, N. D.; and Warren, Red Lake Falls, Middle River, Argyle, Crookston, and Grygla.

The young couple are at home in Thief River Falls. The groom is employed at the Red Lake Falls Rendering plant.

NEWLY WEDS Barbara Myhrer and Jacob Dehaan, who spoke their vows at St. Bernard's Catholic church recently, are making their home in this city. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Myhrer, TRF, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Gertrude DeHaan and the late John DeHaan of Red Lake Falls.

First Dinner-Dance Held at Golf Club

Members of the TRF Golf club enjoyed their first dinner dance of the season at the club house Saturday, June 9. Theme of the event was "The Tee-Off," and decorations carried out this motif, with each table covered with cloth representing one hole of the fairway, complete with mounted figures of players teeing off, miniature trees and tee boxes.

A social hour preceded the dinner, and dancing to the music of the Harold Kelly orchestra followed.

Mrs. Robert Flynn was general chairman of the successful affair, assisted by Mrs. Milton Reierson, Mrs. N. H. Kortuem and Mrs. J. J. Womack.

Plans are now taking shape for the proposed barbecue which the club will sponsor later, probably early in July. Exact dates will be announced as the plans develop.

Elaine's CHATTER

We have always admired people who live on a budget. There is something so business like and efficient sounding about it, like as if you were well adjusted.

We have tried it more than once, spent hours putting down neat little rows of figures, allowing so much for this and that. But somehow we always run into trouble. At the end of the month we always had gasoline but no groceries, and you can't substitute one for the other. One thing we always had left over was the "deficit."

It's also interesting to read in the papers that the President is having trouble with the budget. The increased financial budget for the one year amounts to 93 BILLION dollars. If someone had started spending $1,000 an hour, 24 hours a day, two thousand years ago, by now you would have spent only one-fifth of what the President is asking in just one year for extra spending.

At this point we are willing to let the experts in Washington figure this out. Right here at home we are more interested in selling budget-priced summer merchandise for women.

You'll find cotton dresses in Junior, Miss and ½ sizes from 3.99—5.98—7.98 and up to 29.98 at Elaine's. Here are prices and sizes that will fit any budget. Look through our big selection of summer sportswear.

Right now every one of our all wool spring Coats are reduced to ½ price.

All hats, regardless of color reduced to $1, $2 and $3. Many of these were $8.98, but out they go.

All we can say to end this is that what ever your budget is, you'll always find something at Elaine's to fit your budget, and you are always assured it is in latest styles and best quality.

Ben Wichterman of Plummer withdrew his name from consideration as a candidate for Seventh District Congressman at the reconvened district convention of the Democratic Farmer-Labor party held Sunday at Detroit Lakes. The withdrawal gave Dr. Harding Noblitt of Concordia College in Moorhead a unanimous endorsement by the convention delegates.

At the original convention session held on April 29, neither Noblitt nor Wichterman could receive the required two-thirds vote needed for endorsement and voting was halted after 22 roll-call ballots had been taken. "I'm a team ball player. I shall not make an attempt to block endorsement," stated Wichterman in obtaining the floor and announcing his withdrawal before any votes were taken.

Wichterman stressed the need for party unity and said district endorsement is vital because a primary battle to select a DFL candidate would only mean a divided party.

Dr. Noblitt, who himself had withdrawn two years ago "on behalf of party unity" from a contest with state Sen. Roy Wiseth of Goodridge, paid tribute to Wichterman and his high-level campaign in his opening remarks. He cited the contest between himself and Rep. Wichterman as a key factor "in helping the DFL organization in Minnesota's new Seventh District get off to a good start".

The 41-year-old professor who has been studying and teaching political science for 20 years, the last 12 at Concordia, announced plans to open a campaign headquarters office in Moorhead soon. He claimed the conservative voting record of the present representative, Republican Odin Langen of Kennedy, "indicates he does not represent the majority interests of the district."

"We want to bring the goals of the New Frontier into reality," Noblitt concluded. "Send me to President Kennedy and send Langen back to Kennedy, Minn."

NW Dairy Day Draws Large Crowd Tuesday

Judges for the contest were Mary Stans Conners and Axel Hanson of Minneapolis and Ray Wolf of St. Paul.

Although Northwest Dairy Day is the oldest of all such observances, this year's event was not without unprecedented activity. Winners in both the purebred and grade championships declined their prizes, the former because the winner was too young to make the trip to the International Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia., and the latter because his family has already received two purebred dairy calves from the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of the show.

Winner of purebred honors was nine-year-old Jerry Muzzy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Muzzy of Thief River Falls. His trip was awarded to Larry Workman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Workman of Borup. Muzzy showed a Holstein calf and Workman showed a Jersey calf with Workman's animal being the Jersey breed champion.

Erickson Declines Calf

For 18-year-old Gary Erickson of Badger, whose aged Holstein cow was selected as the top grade animal of the show, a registered calf was not to be his. On the basis of calves being awarded to other members of his family during the second and third years of Dairy Day, he declined the calf, just as he had done nine years ago when his animal was champion but his family would have won three successive years.

In compensation for what was termed "a real fine gesture" by Stuart McLeod, association president, Gary was presented with an unprecedented $200 scholarship fund by the sponsoring organization. The purebred calf of her choice was awarded to Shyrl Peterson, Pinewood, whose sister Sue showed the grade champion last year and received a purebred Guernsey calf from the Andy Morkassel herd at Warren at this year's Dairy Day.

Showmanship honors went to Erickson who had an extremely victorious day. Second place went to Shyrl Peterson of Pinewood and third place in the showmanship event was awarded to Steve Gullickson of Fertile. The calf show drew about 210 animals from about 180 exhibitors in the 11 counties of Region One. Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, again served as ringmaster during the day.

Breed Champions

Breed championships included the following: Guernsey, Shyrl Peterson, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Peterson of Pinewood, two-year-old grade cow; Milking Shorthorn, Jeffrey LaVol, 17, Fosston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis LaVol, three-year-old purebred cow; Holstein, Gary Erickson, 18, Badger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Erickson, aged grade cow;

Also Brown Swiss, Sharon Yonke, 17, St. Hilaire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Yonke, aged purebred cow; Ayrshire, John Katzenmeyer, 17, Lake Itasca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Katzenmeyer, purebred aged cow; and Jersey, Larry Workman, 14, Borup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Workman, purebred calf.

Attendance Plaques

Attendance plaques were awarded to Jerry LaVol, Fosston, and Erling Olson, Roseau, 11 years; Shirley Okstad, Gonvick, and Lyle Visser, Ada, 10 years; Gary Erickson, Badger, nine years; Jeffrey LaVol, Fosston, Linda Tollefson, Red Lake Falls, Bruce McWilliam, Winger, Leon Bilker, Ada, Byron Henesh, Ada, and Roger Driengel, Kennedy, eight years.

Seventh year plaque winners were Brian Roragen, Fertile; Karen Svendsgaard, Goodridge; Mark Bruggeman, Thief River Falls; Lloyd Dunham, Roseau; Steve Gullickson, Fertile; Dwight Benesh, Ada; Rosemarie Peterson, Plummer; Sharon Yonke, St. Hilaire; and Dennis Hagen, McIntosh.

Walter Schon of Fosston was master of ceremonies for the afternoon program with Henry Bartel of Hastings and Olaf Kjomme of Spring Grove, judges for the event, respectively presenting awards for breed champions and showmanship. Harry Nelson of Hallock presented the award to the exhibitor of the grand champion grade and Conrad Kvamme of Ada gave out the champion purebred award. Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent, made the year awards presentation.

The parade of champions, featuring floats, princess contestants, bands and calf contest winners, made its way through city streets to complete the day's performance. Several parade pictures will appear in Monday's Times.

Officers of the sponsoring organization are all from Thief River Falls and include Stuart McLeod, president; Klemens Gigstad, vice president; Roland K. Larson, secretary; and J. J. Womack, treasurer. Other directors include Gerhard Kersting, Waubun; Russell Larson, Bemidji; Harry Petry, Ada; Vernon Stardig, Middle River; Walter Schon, Fosston; Sam Hauge, East Grand Forks; Conrad Swanson, Gully; Harry Nelson, Hallock; Clifford Skime, Roseau; Chester Traaseth, Bagley; Andy Erickson, Badger; Gene Belto, Paul Stelmaschuk and Wallace Jordet, Thief River Falls.

Relief Expected In Flood Areas of Pennington

discharge as long as heavy rains do not reoccur."

Sen. Humphrey also noted that his administrative assistant, William Connell, will accompany Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag to this area this afternoon on an inspection trip through the flood area. The two men are expected to meet with local persons about 2:30 p. m. in the Rex cafe in this city.

Richard Rustan of the Pennington county highway engineer's office, told the Times this morning that water is receding in the areas previously mentioned. He also noted that Rep. Langen had stated in his telephone call yesterday that he would work with local persons on a solution to control of the Red Lake dam as soon as possible. Present work on agricultural legislation prevented his leaving Washington at this time to visit the area, he said.

Drying Weather Noted Today But Crop Hopes Dim

Temperatures reaching into the high 70's and low 80's today with a stiff south wind blowing should help considerably in drying the saturated farm land in the Times area. Flood conditions which existed at a number of points in the area are now partially abated. Crop prospects are still very dim.

Riverside park in Thief River Falls was the scene of one flood as water from the fast-running Red Lake river spilled over the banks and left most of the park under water. A considerable amount of farmland was also under water as a result of river overflow earlier this week, particularly in Kratka, Deer Park and Highlanding townships.

High and low temperatures during the past several days included 73 and 57 on Monday, 75 and 50 on Tuesday, 77 and 49 on Wednesday and a low last night of 58 degrees. Only .02 inch of precipitation has been recorded this week, that falling on Monday. No additional precipitation is predicted in the immediate forecast.

Former Local Man Beaten to Death by Father-in-law

Delmar Ness, Father of Six, Is Death Victim in Minneapolis on Monday

A Minneapolis father of six children was bludgeoned to death in his home early Monday by his father-in-law, who told police he feared the younger man was about to beat his wife.

Police are holding Roy Craven, 66, of 1321 Lyndale Ave. N., in connection with the slaying of Delmar R. Ness, 32, of 1502 Lyndale ave. N., Minneapolis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ness of Thief River Falls.

Craven told police he had been baby-sitting with the Ness children. He said Ness and Mrs. Ness had gone out separately. Mrs. Ness had returned at 7:30 p. m. When Ness came in at 1:30 a. m. he kicked open the door of his wife's bedroom and started to curse and threaten her. Craven said he grabbed a grub-ax from a closet and chased Ness out of the bedroom into the kitchen where he struck the younger man twice. Police said either blow might have been fatal.

The body of Mr. Ness has been returned to Thief River Falls, and is now at the Green Funeral Home. Funeral rites have been set for Saturday afternoon, June 16, at 2 o'clock from the Evangelical Free church, with Rev. Joseph Swan officiating. The body will lie in state at the funeral home until Saturday at 11 a. m. and at the church one hour preceding the services.

City Police Ask Bike Licensing

Tuesday and Wednesday Set for New Emphasis

Special effort will be put forth by the Thief River Falls police department on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to accomplish the registration and licensing of as many bicycles as possible in the city. Bicycle registration will be taken from 1 to 4 p. m. each day at the police department.

City ordinance requires that all bicycles be licensed annually and if operated without license are subject to impoundment by the department. With the license fee set at only 35 cents, sufficient to cover only the cost of the license itself, the cost should not be a reason for failure to have a bicycle licensed.

During the afternoon sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday, the department will check all bicycles for safety defects and attach reflectorized tape as an added safety feature. All owners of bicycles in the city are urged to comply with the licensing ordinance and save themselves the inconvenience of having their bicycles impounded.

Local Boys Are Selections for All-State Band

Ron Kvikstad and Jerry Erickson, members of the Thief River Falls Lincoln high school band, have been selected as members of the all-state band which will perform at the Minnesota Education association in Minneapolis, according to John K. Moum, instrumental music instructor at the school.

Kvikstad, who plays the drums, and Erickson, who plays the trumpet, were selected at auditions held this spring. They will be members of the 145-piece band which will be directed by Dr. Frank Benericutto, director of the University of Minnesota band. Richard Stenberg, also a member of the local band, was selected as an alternate for the clarinet section.

Highway Dep't. Plants Trees on City Approaches

At the request of the Thief River Falls park board, the state highway department recently completed the planting of a number of trees along highways approaching the city, according to Roy Barzen, chairman of the board.

On Highway 59 east from First street to the area of Barnick's Furniture Mart, the department planted 20 Colorado blue spruce, 34 green ash and 80 Almey flowering crab trees. On highway 1 from Arnold avenue west past the fairgrounds a total of 58 green ash and 16 Colorado blue spruce were planted.

From 10th street north to the end of curbing on highway 32, the department planted 46 green ash and 110 Tatarian maple trees. "Within a few years these plantings should provide a great deal of beauty to the city's approaches," Barzen said. "The park board appreciates the cooperation received from the state highway department.

The list includes freshmen who attained an average of B or higher and were enrolled in twelve hours or more of class for the second semester, according to Dean D. J. Robertson. Grand Forks Pitcher Bob Morstad Holds TRF Juniors without a Hit

It was a win and a loss for coach Ralph Skay's American Legion junior baseball club this past week. On Tuesday evening, in a game played on the Fair Grounds diamond, the locals defeated a highly-rated Lake Bronson club, 6-4. And on Wednesday night the local club dropped a 3-0 decision to coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks Legion squad.

Grand Forks' pitcher, southpaw Bob Morstad, hurled a no-hit and no-run game against the local team, racking up eighteen strikeouts. Righthander Tony Poole went the route for the Thief River club against the North Dakota team, and in only the fourth inning, when Grand Forks scored three runs on four hits, was the local pitcher in trouble. Poole doled out but one walk during the game.

In Tuesday evening's game, a three-run rally by the locals in the fifth inning regained the lead and gave coach Skay's club and pitcher Rick Jensen the decision over the heavy-hitting Lake Bronson squad.

The locals will travel to East Grand Forks this afternoon, Thursday, for a district conference game against the East Grand Forks Juniors.

The line scores:

Rain Halts Play in Penn-Ro-Shall

Last Sunday's Schedule Canceled Due to Rain

Wet grounds forced the postponement of the entire slate of games in the Pen-Ro-Shall league last Sunday, with the result that the league standings remain unchanged and Badger holds a half-game bulge over the runnerup Greenbush and Grygla teams.

This Sunday's schedule will be featured by the Grygla vs. Badger game at Badger. The Grygla club will rely on righthander Howie Hendrickson to check the heavy-hitting Badger team. The former Goodridge high school Huskies' star has been very effective in Pen-Ro-Shall league play.

Manager Wally Grovum's Thief River Falls Bums will entertain the Greenbush club on the Fair Grounds diamond here Sunday afternoon.

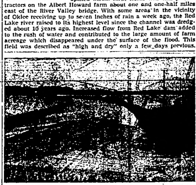
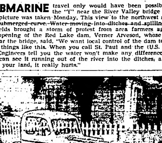
STRANDED in water which backed up ditches and spilled across farm fields was this pair of tractors on the Albert Howard farm about one and one-half miles east of the River Valley bridge. With some areas in the vicinity of Oklee receiving up to seven inches of rain a week ago, the Red Lake river raised to its highest level since the channel was dredged about 10 years ago. Increased flow from Red Lake dam added to the rush of water and contributed to the large amount of farm acreage which disappeared under the surface of the flood. This field was described as "high and dry" only a few days previous.



SUBMARINE travel only would have been possible on the "Y" near the River Valley bridge when this picture was taken Monday. This view to the northwest shows the submerged curve. Water moving into ditches and spilling unto fields brought a storm of protest from area farmers against the opening of the Red Lake dam. Verner Arveson, whose farm is near the bridge, said, "We want local control of the dam to prevent things like this. When you call St. Paul and the (U.S. Corps of) Engineers tell you the water won't make any difference, and you can see it running out of the river into the ditches, and across your land, it really hurts."



CHANGES have been made which will provide a faster and more entertaining brand of excitement at the Falls Speedway this summer. Cars competing will be Class A modified stock cars this year with some Class B cars also running in the same races. Among the field of 16 entries expected for the Sunday opener at the speedway will be the above car entered by "Spud" Manning of Thief River Falls. Modification consists of using the overhead valve V-8 constructed engine with a maximum of 310 cubic inches. Modifying the old flathead V-8 and overhead 6 has also been allowed. The wheelbase has been shortened to a minimum of 90 inches, a change of about 20 inches from older type cars. Design and size of bodies has been left to the owner of the car.

Falls Speedway To Open Action On Sunday Night

Something new in cars and racing action will be unveiled Sunday evening at the Falls Speedway located one and one-half miles northwest of Thief River Falls. Class A modified stock cars will be used on the track this year with 16 entries expected for the opening race.

Time trials will begin at 6:45 p. m. with a 20-lap feature planned for the evening. Among drivers competing will be "Spud" Manning, Lyle Bjorge and "Red" Monroe of Thief River Falls, Bruce Stordahl of Gary; Rodney Bockwitz of Humboldt and Fritz Larson of Grand Forks.

Cars have been set back, shortened and narrowed to provide for easier handling. Engine modification has been made more liberal to give racing fans faster and more competitive action. All persons who thrill to the roar of engines and the heat of competition are encouraged to be on hand for the speedway opener Sunday.

Driver Training Is Available Here During Summer

Adults in the Thief River Falls area are reminded that Driver training is available during the summer months through the area vocational school. This training is by individual appointment and arrangements can be made by calling Clayton Restad, the instructor, at MU 1-2115.

Ask Registration of Swimmers in Red Cross Class

Registration for youngsters interested in the Red Cross water safety program to be offered at the Tindolph Park pool this summer will be held Monday. Youngsters interested in beginner, intermediate and advanced instruction are asked to meet at 10 a. m. and those in Junior and senior lifesaving at 11 a. m.

This meeting will be for registration only and youngsters need not bring their swimsuits to the session which will be held at the park beach. Instructors in the program this year will be Bill Herzog, Roger Dorn and Rae Carlson.

Crookston Edges TRF Thieves 5-4

In a game that found all the scoring clustered into the first three innings of play, the Crookston Pirates, behind the steady pitching of lanky Rex Rupert, defeated the Thieves, 5-4, in a Norman-Polk league tilt played on the Fair Grounds diamond here Wednesday night.

Thief River Falls will play at Fertile on Sunday night in a Norman-Polk league contest.

In Wednesday night's game, Crookston's Rupert survived a shaky first inning in which the Thieves clubbed out four hits, including a double by Joey Poole, and scored three runs to take a 3 to 1 lead. Crookston had tallied a run in the top of the first inning on an error, a single, and an infield out.

In the second inning (and one factor that accounted for the early-inning scoring was the blinding sun that made fielding and throwing plays at first base a hazard) the Pirates shoved across four runs to take a 5-3 lead. In this inning the visitors tagged lefty Freddy Jensen for three hits, took advantage of an error and a pair of walks to mark up the three runs.

The Thieves came back with a run in the last half of the third inning when Les Olson led off with an infield single, stole second base, and rode home on Joey Poole's second double.

From the third inning on, the game developed into a pitcher's duel between the Thieves' Jensen and the Pirates' righthander Rupert. The former Northern league performer (Rupert pitched for the Grand Forks Chiefs several years ago) put on a stellar performance, being particularly effective with men on bases. In the seventh inning, Dick Williams led off with a looping single into left field, and Jensen followed with a ground single past shortstop. Rupert struck out Harlie Drees, retired Olson on a pop fly to shortstop, & struck out Joey Poole, getting the Thieves' manager on a called third strike.

Like Money in the Bank

"There's nothing to worry about now", said Myles Jackson, president of the Thieves' baseball club when, in the last half of the tenth inning of the Thieves vs. Fosston Norman-Polk league game here last Wednesday night, Harlie Drees came up to bat with the winning run perched on third base. Harlie came through with a solid single to drive in Dennis Bakke and give manager Joey Poole's club an 8-7 win over Fosston.

Such late-inning pressure hits by Drees are the rule rather than the exception. Ever since the St. Hilaire athlete joined a local club, and he became a Prowler varsity squad member back in 1954 in his freshman year in high school, he has been "like money in the bank" when a vital or game-winning hit is required. Harlie played four years of high school ball, and was co-captain of the 1959 club that won the Region Eight title and participated in the state tournament.

During his high school and Legion baseball career, Harlie was a sturdy and hard-throwing pitcher, but a year or so ago he injured his arm, and while it has mended he doesn't intend to do any pitching for the Thieves. But he is a valuable member in the Thieves' infield.

And what is promising for future baseball, high school and Legion ball, is the fact that another Drees is making his appearance on the local diamond. Referring to Harlie's younger brother, Dick, a sixth grader, who is enrolled in the Eagles' Midget baseball program. And in addition to the younger Drees there are a couple other St. Hilaire youngsters playing in the Eagles program, and they are a son of Woody Almquist and a son of the late Donny Johnson. With the baseball backgrounds of these boys, they should be A-1 prospects.

High Hopes

Jerry Jorgenson, who has just completed his junior year at Harvard, returned to town last week. Jerry, who was a valuable member of coach Cooney Welland's Harvard hockey squad this past season, earned his second varsity "H" in the winter sport.

Jerry reports that the Harvard football coaching staff has high hopes for a successful season this fall, and one of the reasons for these bright hopes is Crookston's Bill Taylor. Taylor, a right halfback for much of last season, is rated as one of the better backfield men in the Ivy league. The former Crookston athlete carries a solid 202 pounds on a five-foot eleven-inch frame. According to Jerry, Taylor is a powerhouse.

Start of a Fued

That Minnesota football coach Murray Warmath isn't afraid of taking on heavyweights as indicated by this report culled from the Canadian Press item datelined Montreal.

Warmath was in the Canadian city as guest coach of a two-day coaches' clinic, and referring to Winnipeg's Blue Bomber coach, Harry (Bud) Grant, he made these remarks: "He's been in my hair for a long time, and I can do without that fellow (Grant)."

Warmath added, "I don't fancy his recruiting methods around the Minnesota club. I consider him a distrubance and he gets no help from me or my staff."

Grant is rated by many as one of Minnesota's greatest all-round athletes, but as far as Warmath is concerned "he's not welcome around Minnesota."

"Grant has just grabbed one of our good prospects for 1962," continued Warmath. "That's a boy named Blakeley. Just out of the services, and he has one more year of eligibility and we sure could use him. Just another reason why I want no part of Grant".

Well, those are brave words by the Minnesota Gopher coach, who has never been charged with lack of courage. But they aren't wise words It is not surprising the number of home-state athletes who have become disillusioned with Gopher football.

Municipal League to Meet at Grand Rapids

"Financing Municipal Government for Modern Needs" will be the theme of the 48th annual convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities to be held in Grand Rapids, June 20-22.

Present and potential sources of revenue for cities and villages will be explored by guest speakers who will include the following out-of-state experts:

John R. Kerstetter, associate director of the American Municipal Association, will speak on "Municipal Revenue Needs and Non-Property Taxes." Mr. Kerstetter heads the research and municipal information services of AMA and is in charge of the Chicago office.

L. L. Ecker-Racz, assistant director of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations will describe the 'State and Federal Interest in Sound Municipal Revenue Systems." "Municipal Service Charges: Their Justification and Use," will be the subject of an address by Harris Stevens, director of finance, Oak Park, Ill.

Mark Bortman, Boston, chairman of the civic committee of the People-to-People Program will speak on the "Town Affiliation Program" under which U. S. municipalities affiliate with "sister cities" in all parts of the world.

William O. Winter of the Local Government Center, Southern Illinois University, will discuss "The Proper Role of Special Assessments." Dr. Winter is considered one of the few real experts on special assessments in the United States.

Frederick N. MacMillin, director of the Wisconsin Retirement Fund, will speak on "Financing Municipal Pension Systems." Mr. MacMillin was long-time executive secretary of the Wisconsin league of municipalities before he took his present position.

Prophets with honor in their own state will also be featured speakers. Minnesota Tax Commissioner, Rolland F. Hatfield, will address the convention twice. At a general session he will talk about "Revitalizing the Property Tax" and he will also speak to the annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Local Assessors on June 21.

Mayor Arthur Naftalin, Minneapolis, will speak to the mayors and councilmen on the "Proposed Constitutional Amendment on State Debt." Mayor Naftalin's years of service as State Commissioner of Administration have given him an excellent understanding of the need for a debt amendment.

The annual banquet of the League will be held Thursday evening and will feature greetings from Governor Elmer L. Andersen and a speech entitled "Municipal People From a Point of View" by Winston K. Pendleton, Newspaperman and public relations consultant, from Washington, D. C.

On Friday, June 22, the biennial legislative conference of the League will be held to determine the proposals which the League will support during the next session of the Minnesota Legislature. Twenty one recommendations will be on the legislative conference agenda.

Pawlak Appointed District Engineer at Detroit Lakes

Frank J. Pawlak, presently assistant district engineer for construction at Rochester, was elevated Tuesday, June 13 to the post of district engineer at Detroit Lakes. He will occupy the position recently vacated by Lynn M. Carlson who was brought into the St. Paul office to succeed Paul M. Staffeld as head of the planning division after Staffeld had been appointed deputy commissioner.

Pawlak has received several field promotions since his first job in the department in 1933 as a chainman, rising in civil service grading. He has served in various districts, but principally in the Mankato area where he was project engineer at the time of his transfer to Rochester.

Pawlak came originally from Belle Plaine and is a graduate engineer of the University of Minnesota.

Shipment of Tree Seedlings Ending

State Nurseries Supply Total of 38 Million Trees

The last of some 38 million tree seedlings will be leaving Minnesota forest nurseries within the next few days on their way to private purchasers and state agencies, the conservation department reports.

Trees were grown from seed at the three nurseries operated by the Department's division of forestry. Nurseries are located near Willow River in Pine county, at Badoura in Hubbard county and at Carlos Avery in Anoka county.

This will wind up one of the most hectic tree shipping seasons in recent years, according to Ray Clement, forest nursery chief.

"The frost didn't go out of the seed beds at the General Andrews nursery at Willow River or at Badoura, the two biggest producers, until well after the southern half of the state had opened up. People in the southern part of the state with trees on order were wondering why they were not receiving them. They were naturally anxious to get them planted as early in the spring as possible.

"On top of that we had rain right after the frost went out and we were afraid the trees would begin to grow in the seed beds. This would tend to reduce the survival rate on the trees since the shock of transplanting is least when the tree is dormant."

However, by adding personnel and working overtime, seedlings were shipped rapidly, and with soil moisture conditions the best in many years due to the heavy rains recently, Clement said the young trees should get off to a good start and the survival rate should be excellent.

He said the forest nursery operation was expanding gradually with the object of reaching a production of 50 million trees annually.

Cut in Turkey Output Reported This Year

It looks as though turkey, America's favorite bird, will still remain the favorite throughout 1962—but there just won't be so many of the succulent gobblers around.

This marks a sharp reversal in the situation which prevailed this past year when the market was literally glutted.

Turkey experts point out that growers, realizing that there is such a thing as raising too much of any given commodity, have on their own initiative taken the gobbler by the snood, so to speak, and cut production.

Roy C. Munson, executive secretary of the Minnesota Turkey Growers Association, quoting statistics issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, stated that the following changes have taken place in the turkey world:

1. Nationally, the crop of turkey poults in the period of January 1 to May 1, 1962 has been reduced by 21 per cent over the same period of 1961; and the breeder hen testing was reduced by 11 per cent during the eleven month period of July 1, 1961 to May of this year.

2. Storage holdings of turkeys were substantially reduced during the first five months of 1962. As of May 1, 1962, there were 59 million fewer pounds in storage than on January 1, 1962.

This self-help effort to solve an industry problem gets the hearty approval of state commissioner of agriculture, Duane Wilson.

Says Wilson, a sincere spokesman for agricultural prosperity within the state: "The turkey industry has gone ahead on its own to solve a serious problem. The growers have shown real initiative in cutting production to the point where they can make a reasonable profit on their turkeys and still give the consumer a wonderful meat value. I think that Minnesota quality turkeys will be in demand as much as ever; with the national crop reduced we'll still have an edge at the retail level, because folks know that turkeys raised in Minnesota are the finest they can buy."

Aqua Follies Set for Aquatennial

World-famous Swimmers to Perform July 11 to 23

Pretty girls, on stage and in the water, lavish costuming and elaborate water props, some electrically lighted, are features of the all new, 23rd edition of Al Sheehan's Aqua Follies which opens a 12-day engagement Wednesday, July 11, at Theodore Wirth pool in Minneapolis.

Ranked as one of the country's most imaginative show world productions, Aqua Follies is a highlight of the annual Minneapolis Aquatennial. Following the Minneapolis premiere, the entire cast will move on to Seattle where Aqua Follies opens as extended World's Fair run beginning July 26.

Heading this year's cast, handpicked by Sheehan from across the nation, will be pretty Lynn Burke of Flushing, N. Y., Golden Girl of the 1960 Olympics in Rome. The 19-year-old Lynn won two gold medals and captured the hearts and admiration of Olympic crowds against the world's greatest collection of women swimmers.

Aqua Follies has achieved world recognition as the one combination water-and-theatrical extravaganza where the best of swimming, diving and stage talent may be seen in one production. Outstanding Broadway singers, including Burt Hanson and Richard Knoll, tenors; Phyllis Arick, soprano and Henri Noel, baritone, are among the entertainers on this star-studded program which also includes several stage headliners; a 15-man band and a crew of the nation's most competent and colorful divers.

$868 Per Acre

A new estimate of the cost of diverting Missouri River water to irrigate 250,000 acres of North Dakota farm land adds $35 million to the total. The original estimate was $182 million, which figured out at a cost of $728 per acre to make this land more productive. The $35 million increase will step this per-acre cost up by $140.

So our government would spend $868 per acre to make North Dakota land more productive and at the same time pay out millions of dollars to other farmers for taking their land out of production. This proposal, and others equally crazy, have been getting serious consideration. These are the kind of projects our left-wingers think are wonderful.

More and more people are becoming aware of the danger that goes hand-in-hand with such stupidity. We hope that the majorities will be alerted to the dangers before it is too late.

Why Did We Fail?

Pakistan gained independence 15 years ago and adopted a parliamentary form of government. It now is governed by President Ayub Khan who is a dictator.

Ayub Khan tells us why the parliamentary democracy failed in the following excerpt from a recent broadcast to his people. He told them:

"The trouble is that we have not yet attained several sophistications that are necessary for its successful operation. For it to work you need—training in the spirit of give and take, and dispassionate consideration of problems. You need a much higher level of education, prosperity, public spirit and integrity. Above all you need a really cool and phlegmatic temperament, which only people living in cold climates seem to have. Also it requires a long period of probation. For instance, the British took 600 years of trial and tribulation to reach this stage. Looking around the world you notice that the (parliamentary) system has only worked successfully in Britain and the Scandinavian countries. Elsewhere it has not taken real roots."

There is considerable truth in what Ayub Khan said. The backward nations of the world are not ready for self-government as we think of it. A parliamentary democracy can be successful only in a nation of informed people, disciplined in self-restraint.

It would be interesting to know why Ayub Khan concluded that parliamentary democracy had failed in our country.

Population Bulge

According to United Nations guesstimates the world population passed the three billion mark last year and is increasing by more than 50 million annually, a rate which is expected to become higher with each succeeding year.

According to Dr. Harold F. Dorn, writing in Science magazine, there were only a half a billion people on earth in 1620 and by 1820 the total was only one billion Global population will double in the next 35 years, he says.

The areas of most rapid growth will be Latin America, Africa and Asia, the areas that are least advanced industrially and the least able to support and educate their present populations. They are the areas too that will control the United Nations organization if it lasts that long.

Well, it looks like the young people who graduated from high school this year are going to have a few problems of their own 35 years from now when there will be so many more people thruout the world to complain about our selfishness.

Boating Safety

The Grand Rapids Herald-Review reminds us that boating is dangerous, and that it is becoming more dangerous as it becomes more popular year by year. "Boating enthusiasts who now spend $2½ billion on boating are expected to triple that figure by 1970," we are told. The editorial states:

"Already one of every five boat-owning families has two boats. By 1970, 60 million boaters (20 million more than today) will be taking part in the fun. Today's six million outboard motors will double by 1970. Almost two million boat trailers are used today.

"With the boating boom has come an expected rise in boating accidents. Nearly 1,300 persons die each year in boating accidents.

"Most of these boating fatalities result from capsizing and operator negligence, the National Safety council points out. Typical situations involved are falling overboard, reckless operation, making too sharp a turn, standing in a boat and overloading: largely a failure to use common sense.

"Conditions have become so congested in some areas that many boaters feel they might actually be safer driving their cars down a crowded highway. Modern boating's speed, power and abandon-of-cares attitude combined with the illusion of wide open spaces creates a situation loaded with accident potential."

As the National Safety Council points out, most boating fatalities result from operator negligence. Unfortunately many of those who lose their lives are the innocent victims of the other fellow's negligence. Boating is dangerous when there is recklessness.

Advice—Good and Bad

In Singen, Germany, there is a small bridge that cost 1,520,940,901,926,042 Marks. It was built in 1923 during the time of Germany's post-war inflation. As a reminder to future generations the cost was inscribed in stone at one end of the bridge. As many old-timers will recall, the German Mark lost value gradually at the start, then its loss in value gained momentum and finally it had no value at all and Germany had to start from scratch in establishing a new monetary system.

At the end of the second World War the Germans were in trouble again and our government, through the Marshall plan, helped them re-establish their economy. Our government, besides extending credit, also was liberal with advice. We sent smart fellows over there to tell them how to manage their affairs so that they could regain prosperity.

One of the advisers was an economist named Heller, who told them all about the tricks of an expanding economy. They shouldn't worry about a little inflation and printing press money had its place.

Well the Germans didn't take Heller's advice. They remembered their experience back in the 'twenties. They decided that the right way to rebuild was the hard way and they tightened their belts and went to work.

We all know the rest of the story. The German people, hard working, thrifty and smart, recovered, and it has been a remarkable recovery.

The thing we had in mind when we started this item was the fact that the fellow whose advice the Germans didn't take is now President Kennedy's chief advisor on economic matters.

The fact that our gold reserves are leaving the country and that there is talk of another devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold suggest the possibility that the President is not getting good advice.

Japs Growing Bigger

Erwin D. Canham, writing in the Christian Science Monitor, tells us that the Japanese are getting bigger—fast. At the rate of increased size it is estimated that in 40 years they will be as tall as Europeans.

Reason for the increase in size is said to be the vastly improved national diet. For about a dollar a month the youngsters get well-balanced meals at school with the big emphasis on milk. According to Canham, the demand for milk is increasing thruout Japan and to the increased consumption of milk is attributed the cause for a healthier, happier people.

That is a happy though for Dairy Month.

Opposition Understandable

(John Weber in Murray County Herald)

School bond issues in Minnesota this year have been getting defeated almost as frequently as the Washington baseball club, and the reason becomes fairly apparent when one looks over a report of the governor's committee on school aids and formula.

According to the committee, headed by publisher George Rossman of Grand Rapids, school costs in this state have been soaring for the past five years and apparently taxpayers are determined to call a halt.

Rossman's committee said that local tax levies for school purposes increased 47.8 percent in the last five school years. During the same period maintenance costs for schools increased 75 percent and the outlay for capital improvements was up 61.4 percent. Only increases in property valuation kept the local mill levies from being increased at an even greater rate.

These continual boosts in school costs can be readily explained. An expanded curriculum, more well equipped institutions, higher pay for faculty members and employees, fewer students per teacher—any number of other reasons many of which can be attributed to the inflationary spiral and price increases. But is the taxpayer who supports these institutions willing to accept these explanations or is he going to revolt at the thought of being further bit where it hurts the most, in the pocketbook?

Some taxpayers want the impossible—more for less. Others, who have been reluctant as far as school expenses are concerned, are slightly more realistic. They want a good basic education for their children, but they expect it to be brought about in the most economical manner possible.

"We are on this earth to learn and the hardest of all lessons is to learn to live. Books, lectures, and even examples of right living, all must yield to personal experience that is, to actually doing it."

"Remember this also, my son, that every man must shuck his own prunes; he must swallow the pits or hide them for himself; no man can do it for him. In other words, and to make the matter clear to thee, one man may eat his broiled lobster with impunity while another must chank his teeth on dry toast."

Motorists Urged to Drive Safe Car

Should Keep Car in Top Mechanical Condition

All the driving skill in the world won't help you if your car is not in good mechanical condition, warns the state highway department safety division.

Faulty brakes, bald tires, "burnt out" emergency brakes, broken windshield wipers, cracked and discolored windshields, "dead" horns and headlights — any of these can cost you your life, limb and property.

An automobile must have both a foot-and emergency hand-brake. Motorcycles and motor schooters must have at least one brake which may be operated by foot. All vehicles except buses must have brakes which can stop them within 25 feet at a speed of 20 miles an hour on a hard, level, dry surface.

All motor vehicles should have both front and rear bumpers and rear view mirrors enabling the driver to see 200 feet or more to the rear. Muffler cut-outs, bypasses or similar devices are forbidden.

You may have a spotlight, but never shine it at or across the path of another car. Spotlights should be aimed at the right side of a road when meeting another car and should cast a beam not more than 100 feet from your car.

A horn should be used as a warning signal to others, not to announce your arrival, call your passengers or express anger at other drivers. Bells, sirens, whistles or foghorns can't be used on any except emergency vehicles.

Signs, posters or labels (except those required by law or authorized by the commissioner of highways) are not permitted on any window or windshield. If you must carry something in or on your car, it cannot extend beyond the fenders on the left side, nor six inches beyond the fenders on the right side.

For further information on your car and how to drive it, see your Minnesota drivers manual, available at any driver examining station or at the highway department.

Maruska Shows Slides of Holy Land to Rotary

Canadian Visitors Ask American Attendance at Red River Exhibition

Harveydale Maruska of Angus, who made a trip to the Holy Land in February, showed colored slides of his trip and reviewed the Biblical significance of places visited when the Thief River Falls Rotary Club met Monday noon in the Elks club rooms.

A special visit was also paid to the club by a group of Canadians who were promoting the Red River Exhibition to be held in Winnipeg on June 22-30. Morley Decker, assistant general manager of the Manitoba Travel and Convention association, introduced Pat Little, Miss Manitoba; Mrs. June Little, Pat's mother; and Roger Savoie, member of the Canadian champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers professional football team.

Decker noted that Saturday, June 23, is American Day at the exhibition with the feature attraction being the musical ride staged by a special unit of the Royal Candian Mounted Police. The musical ride features 32 Mounties in red tunics performing precision drills on horseback, at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday, June 24, the downtown exhibition parade will be held.

Some of the features of Saturday's program will be the fat stock show, baton twirling competition, light horse show, American band competition, grandstand show, appearances by the District Heights Majorettes of Washington, D. C., and square dancing. Other communities visited by the Canadian tour group included Crookston, Detroit Lakes, Bemidji, Hallock, Warren, Grand Forks and Fargo.

Maruska, who was forced by a broken ankle to give his slide talk while seated, used one of his crutches as a pointer in accenting points of particular interest in the slide series. He was introduced by Gene Beito, program chairman for the month of June.

In a moment, the organist will strike a chord. There will be a sudden hush in the church, then the strains of the wedding march will peal forth and she will take her father's arm and start up the aisle, her measured steps symbolic of the very real hesitation she will be feeling.

She would not be human if she did not hesitate. These steps she is about to take are the most important steps of her life. She is poised on the threshold of another existence in which the pronoun she uses will be "We" and not "I." Soon she will learn to think of another before she thinks of herself. Presently, she will come to know fully the meaning of the word "share."

As she moves forward, she falters for just a second. Then her step becomes sure, her lips curve in a smile. The church through which she walks is dear and beloved to her—and so is the man who stands waiting for her beside the altar. Her marriage, blessed by faith, is beginning where all marriages should begin—in the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Farmers Review Crop and Livestock Plight

Visiting Dignitaries Given Reports from 10 NW Minn. Counties

Serious nature of the crop and livestock situation in northwestern Minnesota counties was impressed upon visiting legislators and representatives of governmental agencies at a group meeting held Thursday afternoon in the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls. About 80 persons, including extension agents, ASC office managers and chairmen and interested farmers and businessmen attended the session.

Included in the group studying area problems were Minnesota Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag, acting Governor while Gov. Elmer L. Anderson was a guest at the world's Fair; Robert Bergland, Roseau, Minnesota chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee and state disaster committee; and William Connell, administrative assistant to Minnesota Senator Hubert Humphrey.

Bergland presided at the meeting and stated that the purpose of the visit was to hear first-hand accounts of the situation and determine what action could be quickly taken at a state level to best assist the areas affected. Main phases discussed were emergency credit, emergency feed programs for livestock and land rehabilitation under ACP practices.

Situation Reviewed

Ben Wichterman of Plummer, state representative, was called upon to review the situation existing in his area. "In years that I have served this area as representative, I have never seen the outlook more serious than right now," he said. "I have never seen a spring where we were unable to get our seed in the ground. As it looks now, there will be no seeding—much less a harvest—in this area this year."

Wichterman also called attention to a serious problem in hay and pasture for livestock, noting that hay growth was good but fields were too wet to permit operation of haying equipment. "With no money from a crop last year because of the drought," he said, "our financial picture is anything but good."

Connell, who had been called from the meeting to answer a long-distance telephone call, related a message received from Sen. Humphrey. It noted that the U. S. Senate had unanimously passed a bill on Thursday which made a permanent law permitting the cutting of soil bank hay in counties which had been declared emergency disaster areas. Connell added that the bill was expected to pass the House of Representatives in the immediate future.

U. S. Geological Survey Crews at Work Here Again

Rollis, Middle River, Greenbush Quadrangles Being Mapped This Year

U. S. Geological Survey crews are again at work in this area with four two-man crews now working on topographic mapping, according to J. D. Roetzel, acting project engineer. The general office this year is being maintained in Middle River.

Mapping is being done on the Rollis, Middle River and Greenbush quadrangles this year. Last year, when the office was maintained in Thief River Falls, work was completed in much of the Middle River quadrangle and in the four sections of the large Thief River Falls quadrangle. Some mapping was also done in the Angus area.

Crews have been at work since the end of May and had about 459 square miles to map at the beginning of the season. About 420 miles now remain to be mapped. With additional crews expected to assist with the work this summer it is hoped that the mapping will be completed this fall, Roetzel said.

John E. Bird, topographical engineer, is working out of Thief River Falls with Wayne Harder as field assistant.

Reach Agreement on Wildlife Area in East Marshall

U.S. and State Agencies Agree to Cooperate on Development of Area

The Minnesota conservation department's game and fish division and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service have drawn up an agreement calling for cooperation on wildlife management projects on state and federal wildlife lands in eastern Marshall county.

Conservation department game and fish director James W. Kimball said that the agreement provides for cooperation by the two agencies in developing and administering the state-owned Mudlac, Elm Lake and Eckvoll wildlife management areas and the adjacent Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

Work will start this year on the construction of hunter access roads and trails and parking areas on the state lands. Long range plans call for managing the habitat for waterfowl, deer, moose ruffed grouse and sharptailed grouse.

The 21,000 acres of state land will be posted soon with "Wildlife Management Area" signs. Posting of boundaries and improvement of access will help hunters to locate and to use the areas.

State lands will be opened to public hunting during the regular seasons. Federal lands will also be opened where hunting will not conflict with waterfowl management measures.

Emergency Group Plans TRF Meeting

IMAGINE The inward feelings of James Parkins, Lions International Counselor, when he awakened Friday morning to find a sheep grazing contendedly on the hedge in his front lawn. Trimmed in lion fashion, with shaggy mane and long tail ending in a sporty tuft, the ram was a "gift" of the Newfolden Lions club. Members of the Newfolden club tied the sheep to a tree in the Parkins yard late Thursday evening. The unsolicited gift was not a Thief River Falls resident for any length of time, however, as local club members "passed the buck" to a member of the McIntosh club in like manner Friday night.

State and Federal Agencies To Answer Assistance Questions

To map possible steps for economic recovery in the water-logged Red River Valley area, an area emergency planning conference will be held Saturday at the municipal auditorium in Thief River Falls. The all-day session will begin at 10 a. m. with businessmen, farmers, disaster committees and township and county officials of more than a dozen area counties attending, according to Charles Kotaska, Thief River Falls, conference chairman.

Major part of Saturday's session would be devoted to hearing reports of conditions and suggestions for action from representatives of the counties and communities which have been affected by the excessive moisture, Kotaska said. Representatives of about 15 state and federal agencies are expected to attend, answer questions and explain possible assistance which might be available.

Preliminary estimates are that 20,000 farms would be affected by the flooding or excessive rainfall and that crop loss for the year could mount as high as $70 million. An initial survey of the valley indicated last week that considerable land has not been seeded and that prospects in many areas were for half a crop or less this year.

Agencies Expected

Among agencies expected to be represented are U. S. and Minnesota departments of agriculture, Small Business Administration; Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, state employment service, state railroad and warehouse commission, U. of M. Institute of Agriculture, state ASCS committee, state disaster committee and chamber of commerce.

USDA agencies will include the rural area development program, farmers home administration, agricultural conservation program, soil conservation service and federal crop insurance program. John A. Baker, director of agricultural credit services with the USDA, highest ranking official in the field of farm credit, will attend the meeting.

State Departments

State personalities will include Robert Bergland, chairman of the state ASCS committee; Duane Wilson, commissioner of agriculture; Art Hanson, director of the Farmers Home Administration; Ron Anderson, railroad and warehouse commissioner; and Herbert Fleck, soil conservation service.

Dr. B. E. Youngquist and staff members of the Northwest School of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Crookston will discuss

Remind Citizens of City Bicycle Licensing Effort

City residents are reminded by the Thief River Falls police department of the special effort for registration and licensing of bicycles which will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday. Registration will be taken from 1 to 4 p. m. on each of the two days at the police department in the municipal auditorium.

City ordinance requires that all bicycles be licensed annually and if operated without license are subject to impoundment. All bicycles brought to the auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon will be checked for safety defects and reflectorized tape attached. Persons owning bicycles not now licensed are urged to take advantage of the special effort by the department.

Medical Self-Help Training To Open

Civil Defense Classes To Begin Here Wednesday

Area residents are reminded of the Medical Self-Help program which is being undertaken as a pilot study in Thief River Falls, according to Kendall Gustafson, director of the Pennington County Civil Defense program. Initial training session will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the cafeteria of Northwestern Hospital in this city.

Persons interested in taking the course are requested to contact Gustafson, Ellsworth Jorgenson, deputy director, or Norman Peterson, hospital administrator, or be in attendance Wednesday evening. This city is one of 11 in Minnesota selected for the pilot study, Gustafson said, and local Civil Defense heads are anxious to complete a successful program.

CLOGGED THIEF RIVER C HANNEL CAUSES FLOODING NORTHEAST OF CITY

Water rushing into the Thief river and forcing its way over the banks to flood surrounding farm land has resulted in severe flooding conditions in the area northeast of Thief River Falls, near the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge. Much of the difficulty has been attributed to a river channel partially blocked by trees, narrow bridges and even an old rock dam which has been noted on previous engineering surveys.

Where the channel is adequate a few miles below the flooded area, flooding conditions are much relieved. The picture at the right above shows a portion of the channel which readily handles the flow in spite of local run-off from frequent rains which have deluged the area. Although saturated from the heavy rainfall, farmland here has been relatively free of flooding damage.

Marshall county commissioners will meet Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the county courthouse in Warren to review the situation and hear testimony in regard to requests for river cleanout. It is believed that tree removal to help clear the channel and placement of culverts at the ends of narrow bridges would give considerable help toward preventing a recurrence of the flooding noted this year.

The Library Corner

By Eleanor Olson

Ernest Hemingway was something of a legendary character while he lived and has become even more so in the year that has passed since his death. Not long ago I heard an interesting interview with the proprietor of a Parisian book shop which he had patronized since the "twenties." When he was asked what sort of a man Hemingway was she replied, "Oh, he was so alive." Leicester Hemingway has written a book which confirms this description of his brother Ernest who was 16 years his senior. Ernest was certainly too "alive" to suit his parents. His writing horrified them. His manner of living disturbed them even more. It is little wonder that at twenty-one Ernest was kicked out of the parental nest as a loafer and a bum. Although they were later reconciled with their wayward son, relations always remained somewhat awkward.

If the elder Hemingways regarded Ernest's books as bawdy, even indecent, they resented more the stigma of divorce that he brought to the family name. His father, a prominent physician in the Chicago area, remarked at that time "I'd rather see him in his grave." His parents' spirits, would have dropped still further had they known that two more divorces would follow the first calamity.

"My brother, Ernest Hemingway" is full of reminiscences that only a member of the immediate family could provide. Details of hunting and fishing trips, adds and ends of Hemingway's achievements from infancy through adolescence are included. Leicester depicts his brother as bluff and tough, a hard living ambitious person *never far removed from a whis*key bottle. The book includes forty-five illustrations hitherto unpublished.

As a young man lying wounded in a Milan hospital during World War I, Ernest wrote his family that he thought it better to die, going out in a blaze of light, rather than to live in a worn-out body, his illusions shattered. Forty years later this must still have been his conviction when he found a way to trip the hammers of the shotgun over which he leaned.

Leicester's biography of his brother is solidly written and will be interesting reading to all those who followed with interest the adventures and writing of Ernest Hemingway during his brilliant career.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. CONNIE BURRELL

We are featuring another dessert recipe today, but for the warm months we would appreciate your sending in recipes in other catagories, such as summer salads, hot dishes that tote well to picnics, recipes for outdoor cookery.

Mrs. Burrell says that the butter pecan cookies we present today please everyone. She states further that they are fancy enough for parties (and how about wedding receptions?) and yet are so good that you could enjoy them every day.

BUTTER PECAN COOKIES

Cream:	Add:
1 cup butter	2 cups flour
¼ cup sugar	¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix well. Add 1 cup chopped pecans. (Walnuts are a good substitute.) Mix again. Shape into rolls the size of dates. Bake at 350 degrees on ungreased cookie sheets until delicate brown. While they are still hot, roll them in powdered sugar. Cool, then roll in powdered sugar once more. (We like to use a slotted mixing spoon for the handling of the hot cookies.)

Mrs. Burrell's husband is employed at the Lake Agassiz Refuge.

They have three children, Randy, Brenda, and Julie.

Mrs. Burrell says that they all enjoy fishing and picnics, and that she, especially, is fond of reading, hunting, and bow-and-arrow shooting.

Marshall Co. ASC Reminds of Wheat Signup Deadline

Farmers who wish to be considered for a "new wheat farm" allotment for 1963 on a farm which does not now have a wheat allotment should get in touch with the ASCS county office right away, Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today. Such farmers have until July 2 to file applications for such an allotment.

Under the wheat allotment-marketing quota program, a new farm is a farm on which there is no wheat acreage history, including acreage considered as wheat under the Conservation Reserve program, for any of the years 1960, 1961, or 1962.

The chairman emphasized that formal application for a "new farm" application must be made in writing on a form provided for that purpose, and the application must be filed at the ASCS county office by the July 2 deadline.

Farmers Review Plight of Crop and Livestock

10 Counties Present

Counties represented at the meeting and whose situation was expained included Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson, East Polk, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Clearwater, Beltrami and Koochiching. Summary of county situations follows later in this article.

Bergland emphasized that a request for declaration as a disaster area must come from the county disaster committee which includes the chairman of the county ASC committee, county extension agent and supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration. He urged documentation with the request, stating "what you want and why you want it."

In general, persons at the meeting believed that soil bank land should be released for hay and pasture; that emergency credit should be provided to farmers; that payments should be made under the ACP program for working land not planted to crop this year in preparation for seeding next year; and an emergency feed grain program to permit livestock farmers to obtain grain for their stock at less than market price.

It was also noted by the visitors that the Small Business Administration steps in when a county is declared a disaster area and offers assistance to business—including loans to businessmen at three per cent interest.

County Comment

County summaries included the following:

Pennington — Winton Knutson, chairman of the county ASC committee, estimated only five per cent of the county's cropland was seeded. He added that with soft pasture conditions, cattle ruined as much grass as they ate and pastures will be left in poor condition. Ground is far too soft to get haying equipment on the fields, he said, and much of the hay, if it could be salvaged, would be of poor quality due to the wet soil conditions.

RED LAKE — Paul Thureen gave a report from the disaster committee, noting that about five per cent of the crop had been seeded and that about 50 per cent of that figure had been drowned out by water standing in fields. The report requested permission to graze and make hay on conservation reserve acres.

Marshall — Andrew Strandquist, ASC office manager, stated that 26 townships have less than 5 per cent seeded, eight have up to 75 per cent seeded and the remainder have 15 to 30 per cent of the seed in the ground. Hay and pasture for livestock will be needed, storage for oats will be needed and an ACP payment was requested for working land this summer which was too wet to plant this sprnig.

Kittson 8 Two inches of rain added to the problem on Thursday morning. About 20 per cent of the grain was seeded but new pasture and hayland seeded last year are totally lost.

East Polk 8 In two major areas about 25 per cent of the crop is seeded. In about 10 townships there has been no seeding whatsoever. The farmer reporting stated he had 60 head of Holstein cattle which were "walking around in the mud" on the seven acres of pasture he had left above water. The Lost river had flooded his farm four times this spring, he said.

Roseau — Five per cent of the crop seeded would be an average figure for the county with about 20 per cent seeded in a strip about two miles wide and eight miles long in one portion of the county. Soil bank land would be of value in producing hay and pasture. Caution was given to persons intending to graze soil bank land since such land must be put back into original conditions after grazing has been completed. Soft fields torn up by cattle would be expensive to recondition.

Lake of the Woods 8 Fifteen per cent of crop seeded would be about right for the county. Some potatoes in the certified seed production area are being planted and about 25 per cent of a normal crop can be expected. Plenty of hay is available but fields are too wet to permit farmers to cut it.

Clearwater — Twelve inches of rain in May and an additional four inches in June resulted in only about 10 per cent of the crops being planted. Fifty per cent of this total is planted on the knobs of hills. Not a wheel has been turned for spring work at the north end of the county. Cattle turned out for pasture on hay meadow have ruined the meadow.

Beltrami — About 75 per cent of the crop seeded on light soils in the southern part of the county. North part of county in the Grygla area is without hope for a crop this year. Soil bank land release for hay and grazing would offer some assistance to livestock farmers.

Koochiching — About 20 per cent of the crop has been planted with land in such condition that little more can be seeded. No feed grain is on storage in the county but hay is plentiful enough so that soil bank land release would not be needed. Feed grain would be needed in the near future, however.

late crops which might still be planted if weather conditions are favorable.

In addition to Kotaska, others on the committee sponsoring the conference are Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union; Youngquist; Odin C. Hanson, Pennington county commissioner; George Veito, president of Northern State Banks at Thief River Falls, Gonvick and Oklee; and Everett Battles, state legislator from Roseau county.

EVERY SO OFTEN YOU HEAR of something that makes you feel a little better about people in general. Like maybe everybody in the world isn't selfish, or rude, or arrogant, or penny-pinching, or unkind. And it makes you think about how you would act yourself under similar circumstances and causes you to wonder how you really stand in the world after all.

Now, for instance, take an 18-year-old dairy farm boy named Gary Erickson of Badger. He likes cattle—good cattle—and he knows how to take care of them and help them to produce. The least that could be said of him is that he is deserving of whatever good fortune might come his way.

He was fortunate on Tuesday of last week when his animal was selected as Holstein breed champion and then grand champion grade at the Northwest Dairy Day festivities in this city. He also won first place in the showmanship contest. The grade championship entitled him to a purebred dairy calf of his choice of breed.

There is little doubt that Gary would have liked to own such a calf. It would be a prime addition to his dairy herd, maybe a stepping stone to future achievement. But this is where a person can gain inspiration for things on the higher plane of life. Gary said, "No, thanks, I won't take the calf."

Way back in Dairy Day history, a purebred calf was awarded two years in succession to the Erickson family through grade championships. Nine years ago, at the fourth calf show, Gary showed the grand champion grade. Three years in a row the family would have won. Gary said, "No, thanks", at that time, too. His father, Andy, a hearty supporter of dairying and dairy day, announced at that time he would buy a calf for Gary himself to replace the one that was declined.

But there is more to the story than that. A couple of years later the Erickson barn burned and the Erickson herd of cattle was lost. Gary's calf also perished in the flames. Other dairymen in the area rallied to help Andy and his family rebuild the herd. One of the calves contributed came from the Earl Glidden herd at Hallock.

Gary's champion aged cow at last Tuesday's show was that Glidden calf. It must have taken courage for Gary, after turning down a fine purebred animal nine years ago, to again decline a calf this year. And it is ironic that his winning animal was a replacement for a calf that he never did receive. It was entirely fitting that the Northwest Dairy Improvement association awarded the Badger youth with a $200 scholarship fund in recognition of his sportsmanship and ability.

To you, Gary, a true gentleman, congratulations on teaching a fine lesson in making this a better world.

Six-year-old Billy told his dad that he and five-year-old Mary next door had decided to get married. Her dad was building her a playhouse, and they could live in that, he said, and with both getting a weekly allowance they should be able to live comfortably. "Sounds quite practical," his father said, "but what about provisions for the children?" Billy was ready. "We've discussed all that too," he said, "and we've decided that if she lays any eggs we're going to step on them."

Nobody will argue the fact that we have had more than enough moisture this spring. Just a little later than this last year, cutting of soil bank hay was permitted because of the drought. Now grazing has been permitted on soil bank fields in neighboring counties because of water. One reason has been set forth as to why this spring was so wet. An area clergyman was heard to remark that it was because people started praying for rain too late last year.

Mixed emotions has been described as the feeling you have when your mother-in-law drives over a cliff in your new car. Equally as mixed are your feelings when the family hits you up for some cash to buy a Father's Day present.

SCOURGE OF SUMMER

One heathen creature heaven blessed
With reproductive vim and zest
I would prefer, without a jest,
Had been much less prolific.

The buzzing insects, prone to veer
And whine or drone beside my ear
I wish had never been placed here—
Mosquitoes meant, specific.

However, like the sun and sea,
We must accept them as they be;
But strictly betwixt thee and me—
Wow! Ain't they been terrific?

Preparing Rhubarb

As I go out in the country as well as in town I see much rhubarb that is ready for the freezer of the can. The best quality product is when the stalks are crisp, tender, and of good color.

In the preparation, remove the leaves and woody ends. Discard blemished and tough stalks. Always wash thoroughly and cut into 1-inch lengths. Do not scald.

For freezing cover with sugar syrup, 3¼ cups sugar to 1 quart cold water. A dry pack without sugar may be used for only a few months storage. The rhubarb pie is a favorite among several families, so for freezing rhubarb for pie pack with sugar, 1 cup to 4 cups of rhubarb. No additional sugar will be needed when making the pie.

If you wish to can your rhubarb you prepare the product in the same manner as for freezing. Then add ½ to 1 cup sugar for each quart rhubarb. Mix well. Let stand 3 to 4 hours. Heat slowly to boiling. Boil ½ minute. Pack, hot, into hot jars. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath.

Chicken and Cider

Have you ever used apple cider in preparing chicken? It adds a different flavor if you wish for a change. The recipe goes as follows:

1 fryer chicken,
2 tablespoons butter,
⅓ cup flour,
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon,
½ teaspoon ginger,
1 teaspoon salt,
1 medium onion chopped,
¾ cup cider or apple juice.

Dip chicken in flour, cinnamon, ginger and salt mixture. Let set 10 minutes. Melt butter in a shallow baking pan in a hot over (400 degrees F.). Remove from oven, add ½ of the cider. Dip chicken again in flour mixture and place in pan; turn to coat with butter. Sprinkle with onion. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Turn chicken. Add remaining cider. Bake until tender.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

"Rainfall over five inches above normal". "The wettest year since 1916". Where are those people who last summer were predicting a drouth?

"Good weather for ducks", you say. We are not so sure about that either. Water conditions are good in Minnesota, South Dakota, eastern North Dakota and central Manitoba, but rains came too late or not at all in western North Dakota, southwestern Manitoba and southern Saskatchewan. Heavy rain in late May and June can flood out duck nests so even ducks can have too much water if it comes at the wrong time.

How about fish? Certainly we can't have too much water for fish. Actually, this too is a mixed blessing. The heavy snow provided good run off in most areas. This filled the grassy sloughs adjacent to lakes and provided better than average spawning conditions for northern pike. Recent rains have held this water up and prevented the northern eggs from drying or getting too warm. However, excessive water permits young northerns to get back where they may get stranded as water recedes. By and large, it should be a good production year for northerns.

The excessive water was badly needed to fill many lakes, especially in the central portion of Minnesota. But usually high water does not result in good fishing.

Many lakes "winter killed" last winter. The good part of this was the reduction or elimination of carp. After heavy stocking with walleyes these lakes frequently produce good fishing in a year or two. But the heavy rains and flooding have provided highways for the carp to restock these lakes in abundance—they are traveling everywhere.

Last winter was a poor one for carp removal but this spring our carp traps are full everywhere. People are calling from all over telling us where carp can be trapped. We know it but the limited number of men doing the job have more than they can handle.

What is the wet year doing to our pheasants. Nothing good. The spring roadside counts made by biologists, wardens and managers are not complete but early indications, as expected, show winter loss due to storms and starvation. We also know that wet, cold weather in May and June is not good for pheasant production. It is too early to make reliable predictions but it will be a pleasant surprise if pheasants are as abundant this fall as last. Last fall was really quite good. We harvested close to one and one-third million pheasants.

All of which may prove that sportsmen—and Game and Fish directors complain about weather and women. But darned if we can change either one of them. And who said we wanted to?

Rain Continues To Fall Daily

Scattered Showers Are Predicted for Tomorrow

Precipitation continued to be the daily rule rather than the exception during the past several days, according to the weather summary provided by the North Central Airlines office at the Thief River Falls municipal airport. Showers and thunder showers are predicted for the area today and tomorrow with temperatures expected to be slightly warmer tomorrow. High readings will range from 55 to 65 degrees today with lows in the 50's tonight. Considerable cloudiness is expected to continue today and tonight.

High and low temperatures during the past several days included 72 and 58 with .01 inch of rain on Thursday; 82 and 60 with .02 inch of rain on Friday; 80 and 62 with .39 inch of rain on Saturday; 70 and 52 with .21 inch of rain on Sunday; and a low of 48 degrees last night with another .01 inch of rain recorded.

The Art of Pitching

The handful of baseball fans who were in attendance at the Fair Grounds diamond on Wednesday night were treated to an entertaining brand of ball by the Crookston Pirates and the local Thieves as they engaged in a 5-4 Norman-Polk league game. Except for the opening innings, when it appeared that the light conditions were handicapping the fielding and during which all the scoring was made, the game was a pitcher's duel between the locals' lefty Freddy Jensen and Crookston's veteran Rex Rupert.

It was an education to watch Rupert, a lanky righthander, "work" on the Thieves' batsmen. He paced himself very well, and after experiencing a shaky first inning, during which the locals touched him for four hits and three runs, he came on stronger as the game progressed. He mixed up his assortment of stuff very well, showing a respectable fast ball, a good curve, and a change-up. As the innings moved along it was apparent that he had the Thieves' batsmen guessing at the pitch that was to be thrown, and in these guessing contests the odds are always with the pitcher.

And that was a pretty strong lineup that manager Rod Olstad brought over here, even though it was liberally sprinkled with "outsiders". Rex Rupert and first baseman Dale Perusse are from Grand Forks; catcher John Sipple and outfielder Fritz Forrester are from Warren, and left fielder Orv Bergman is from Alvarado. In addition they have on the roster, although he did not accompany the team here, Dick Palmer the East Grand Forks school teacher. The Pirates will be in contention for the league championship.

Some Remarks

Danny Gallivan, one of eastern Canada's top broadcasters, was a featured speaker at a Winnipeg Blue Bomber gathering in Winnipeg last week, and he expressed the opinion that Sandy Stephens, the high-priced Minnesota quarterback who signed with the Montreal Alouettes this season, would not be the number one quarterback on the club. Gallivan gave the call to Joey Francis.

And on the subject of Stephens, John Michels of the Winnipeg Blue Bomber coaching staff made this observation: "Sandy Stephens is the greatest thing ever to hit Canadian football. Just ask him."

It appears that the feeling between the two clubs, Minnesota and Winnipeg, is getting quite heated. It is unfortunate that this should happen as there are a number of former Minnesota athletes, Mike Wright, Roger Hagberg, Bob Burkholder, and others on the Winnipeg squad.

A Sense of Humor

The New York Mets of the National baseball league are experiencing a futile and discouraging season as far as the won-and-loss column is concerned, but they have a goodly number of fans. It was quite a gesture by the New York fans when they turned up in such numbers, 55,000, for the double-header with San Francisco last week. It is evident that New York will support a National league team.

The New York Yankees, in the many years of their success in winning the American league championship and the World's Series, have not been able to develop a grass-roots loyalty with the New York fans.

And speaking of the Mets, their venerable manager Casey Stengel, in spite of the many losses absorbed by his club, is able to keep his sense of humor. In conversations last week, discussing his ball team, and one player in particular, these words were quoted: "That feller can hit the ball to the centerfield wall", said Casey of one Met regular, "if only they don't curve it first."

And the Mets have been experiencing an epidemic of men-left-on base, and on this subject Casey made this remark: "You pick up the bases and bats and balls when you finish a game, but home plate is supposed to just sit there all day. My players still can't find it."

Agronomist Writes on Late Seeding Problem

By Olaf C. Soine, Agronomist
Northwest School, Crookston

Due to the prevailing weather conditions, many people are asking the question, "When is it too late to plant?" Unless our weather clears immediately and the soil dries out, it will soon be too late for some crops like spring wheat, corn, and soybeans. Early seedlings of small grains at the Northwest School and Experiment Station have been better than late seedings of the same year, but a late spring has not always produced a poor crop.

According to the Station records at Crookston, the average date of seeding for spring wheat for the past fifteen years has been April 28. More important, however, than the date of seeding is the date of emergence of the crop and this average date for wheat has been May 11. The earliest seeding was in 1959 when wheat was sown on April 14, but the crop did not emerge until May 4. The latest seeding was in 1950 when wheat was sown on May 26 and emerged on June 5. The average date of maturity has been August 5. In 1952 and 1955, the wheat was ripe on July 26, which is the earliest date, and 1950 was the latest date when wheat ripened on August 28.

The number of days needed to mature the crop (date of emergence to date mature) for this same fifteen-year period has been 85 days. The longest maturity period of 96 days was in 1958, and the shortest period of 79 days occurred in 1956.

Lee wheat has been grown continuously in our trails for the past fifteen years and has averaged 29.83 bushels. In 1959, the date of earliest seeding, Lee yielded 46.2 bushels, which is the highest yield for the fifteen-year period. The latest seeding was in 1950 when Lee yielded 28.4 bushels. The lowest yield of 18.4 bushels occurred in 1960 when the crop was sown on April 21, emerged May 13 and ripened on August 2.

Six of th past fifteen years have been average in date of seeding and have yielded 34.7 bushels of Lee; six have been early and have yeilded 27.7 bushels; and three have been late and have yielded 29.4 bushels.

In the past fifteen years, the average date of seeding for oats has been April 30, for barley April 30, and for flax May 10. Six seasons have been early for oats, four late and four average. Andrew oats has averaged 57.7 bushels for the early seeding and 80.8 bushels for the late. Five seasons have been early for barley, five late, and five average. Kindred barley has averaged 39.6 bushels for the early seeding and 46.4 bushels for the late. Five seasons have been early for flax, seven late and three average. Bison flax has averaged 16.4 bushels for the early seeding and 14.7 bushels for the late.

There are several factors that may affect the yield of small grain and other crops sown at this late date; namely, diseases, insects, hot weather, continued rain, drought, and early fall frost. Some of these factors nearly eliminate the possibility of getting a crop of spring or durum wheat if sown at this late date.

The possibility for a good yield of barley seeded at this late date is only fair. The present recommended varieties of barley have rather poor resistance to blight and Septoria which develop during the hot weather. If the weather should turn hot during the time the kernel fills out, the malting quality will be poor.

Oats offer the best possibility if planted at this late date, but only the early maturing recommended varieties like Andrew, Burnett and Minhafer should be used.

Flax is another crop that offers some possibility for late seeding; however, our records show that the early maturing varitiles should be used. Marine and Bolley are the earliest maturing and have given the best yields when sown late.

The growing season for corn and soybeans is getting shorter each day and the possibility of fall frosts is increasing if these crops are sown now. Corn can be used for silage if growing conditions this fall don't favor the production of ear corn. The earliest maturing varieties of both these crops should be used.

Sudan grass is a good short season crop that can be used for pasture, silage or hay. It can be planted around June 15 to June 30 and will produce good pasture for late July and August. It also produces a good tonnage for silage. The hay is not easy to cure or of good quality but can be used as an emergency crop. Piper is a good variety of sudan grass.

Millet is a short season crop that produces a fair yield of grain. It is usually sown around June 15 to June 30 and serves as an emergency crop.

JUDGES —at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday were Olaf Kjomme, left, Spring Grove, and Henry Bartel, Hastings. The two men are pictured as they discussed showmanship and fitting of animals for the ring at the morning demonstration program of the 13th Annual Dairy Day. While Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Diane Kramer, demonstrated showmanship technique, the two judges gave pointers for the benefit of persons watching the demonstration.

DEMONSTRATING showmanship technique to a large crowd of interested spectators at opening activities of Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls on Tuesday was Diane Kramer, Princess Kay of the Milky Way. Judges for the calf show gave tips to showmen as Princess Kay led the animal around the show ring. As a 4-H club member, Miss Kramer has won several grand championships in showmanship competition.

PKM Electric Has Meeting in Warren

Minnkota Chief Speaks to Association Monday

Lignite Power Cooperative will not give up the fight for establishing a mine-mouth source of power at the lignite coal fields in North Dakota, Andrew L. Freeman, manager of Minnkota Power Co-op., Inc., Grand Forks, told members of P.K.M. Electric Cooperative at the annual meeting held in the Warren high school auditorium last Monday afternoon.

More than 700 people attended Monday's meeting of the Cooperative at which they learned that the cooperative is showing excellent progress in its financial picture.

David Fischer, McCrea Township farmer, was elected to serve on the board of directors for a 3-year term to succeed Andrew E. Strandquist, veteran director, who was not a candidate for reelection. Mr. Fischer won the election over Einar Strandquist, Argyle, son of the retiring director by a vote of 156 to 90.

Two other directors, Edward Reitmeier, Jr., of Fisher for Polk county and Stanley Johnson, Hallock, for Kittson county, were re-elected without opposition. They each polled 198 votes.

There were 319 registered members present for the meeting which was one of the best attended in recent years. The cooperative served 660 lunches during the afternoon. The Vega Immanuel Church ALCW served the lunch.

Unfortunate Demand

Senator Homer Capehart has demanded that the United States invade Cuba and replace the Castro regime with a new government. There no doubt are many Americans who feel as Senator Capehart does about Cuba, but a statement of that kind, coming from a United States Senator, serves no good purpose and probably does considerable harm.

We know that there will be no invasion unless there is new provocation that would justify it, so the demand is idle talk. But it will be used effectively against us thruout the world in those places where we are represented to be evil people who have well-developed plans for world conquest.

Senator Capehart should know better.

Shorter Work Week

Organized labor is considering a nationwide campaign for a 35-hour work week with no loss of take-home pay. Advocates of this shortened work week argue that it is necessary in order to provide work for the unemployed.

There are several things that are obviously wrong with the proposal. In the first place the shorter work week would add very substantially to production costs which would have to be passed along in the form of higher prices for goods and services. This would mean that the week's pay check would have less buying power.

Adding to the production costs in our country would put us at a greater disadvantage in competition with other industrial nations. One of the main reasons for our present unemployment is our inability to compete with foreigners who are willing to work longer hours for lower wages.

In Switzerland the question of work-hours was submitted to the people in a referendum. The vote was strong in favor of a 48-hour week rather than a 40-hour week. The Swiss people voted that way because they believe that if they work more they will have more. The result is that Swiss watchmakers are busy while ours are unemployed.

We already are pricing ourselves out of world markets—and even our own market here at home. One way to create more unemployment in our country would be to adopt the 35-hour work week. The gap between production costs in other countries and ours probably will gradually narrow. Eventually wages and working conditions in leading industrial nations probably will find a common level. In the meantime there will be more ringing of cash registers in those countries where people work longer and produce more at lower costs to sell for less.

Kennedy's Campaign Issue

President Kennedy has officially opened the 1962 political campaign and has defined what he thinks is the most important national problem. At a Democratic party rally in New York recently he called for a clear-cut majority in both houses of Congress that would be favorable to his program. He is asking for the defeat of those Democrats who are conservative. In the New York speech he said:

> "What we are now talking about is whether the United States, now and after the 1962 election, shall have such a balance of power in the Congress and in the executive that nothing will be done. That's the ismple and clear issue. And those who think that nothing should be done, should regard this as an unimportant election.
> "But as long as we have so many issues facing us in so many parts of the world, and our own country — so much unfinished business involving all kinds of issues which go to the well-being of our people — as long as we have a necessity for action as the leader of the free world, I believe we should have the opportunity and not have the kind of balance in the Congress which will mean too many more years of inertia and inaction. That's why this is an important election. Five, ten-seats one way or another can vitally affect the balance of power in the Congress and vitally affect our future."

The President is asking for a Congress that will be subservient to him and in fact give him dictatorial powers. He has already made it clear that it is his intention to lead the liberals farther to the left and in the direction of radical change; into changes that will give him, as President, greater personal power than it is now intended a president should have.

Commenting on the President's recent declarations, David Lawrence, in his syndicated column, said:

> "Few Presidents have gone as far without law to regulate the economy and social life of the nation by executive orders as has Kennedy. He realizes that the only check could come from Congress. He has today virtually a two-thirds majority of his party in both houses of Congress. But this, in his opinion, isn't enough. It is a shaky majority because the non-radical and non-socialists do frequently break away from party lines.
> "The mention of "war and peace" and "fear for the free world" in the context of political speech-making is somewhat puzzling. For Republicans and Democrats in Congress, whether or not they are conservatives, have generally supported the President on international policies for many years, irrespective of the party affiliation of the man in the White House.
> "The real issues are on the domestic side. Kennedy wants enough non-conservatives elected on the Democratic ticket for Congress in the north to cancel out the power and influence of the conservative Democrats of the south and perhaps even to take away their committee chairmanships if they fail to join the "rubber stamp" contingent and go along with presidential edicts.

Why 17 Years?

A 17-year amendment to the Constitution, guaranteeing to the taconite industry that it will not be subjected to more onerous taxes than are imposed on other industries has been suggested as a compromise measure. We can see no justification for a time limit on any portion of our Constitution.

Either the proposed amendment is right and justifiable or wrong and unjustifiable. As we understand the matter, the proposed amendment is justifiable and is in the best interests of the people of the state of Minnesota. The taconite industry is not asking for any special tax consideration. All that it seeks is a guarantee against discriminatory taxation, and anyone who knows anything about the tax record of the Iron Range communities will understand the industry's fears and its unwillingness to make more large investments in our state.

It is unfortunate that this question has been made a partisan issue. At the start it had the support of liberal members of the legislature from Iron Range districts, several of them being sponsors. Then the left-wing leaders in the DFL party stepped into the picture and started misrepresenting the facts. It now is doubtful that the amendment can be passed and a development program that would mean much to the Range and to the entire state probably will have to be postponed again.

The Lingo of Fishermen

From Art Suel of the New Prague Times comes the following contribution of a vocabulary all fishermen will understand:

"The following commentary is not couched in a strange foreign language but is the lingo of fishermen of which Minnesota and the New Prague community have probably the largest per capita devotees of any section of the entire fifty states of the U.S.A.:

"Hiyamac." "Lobuddy." "Binearlong?" "Cuplours." "Ketchanenny?" "Goddafew." "Kindarthay?" "Bassencarp." "Ennysizetoom?" "Cuplapowns." "Hittinard?" "Sordalite." "Wahchoozin?" "Gobbawurms." "Fishanonaboddum?" "Rydonnaboddum." "Igoddago." "Tubad." "Seeyaroun." "Yeahtakideezy." "Guluk."

NEA Didn''t Give Facts

(Fargo Forum).

The Macomb, Ill., Journal calls attention to the fact that the April issue of the National Education Association magazine contained a number of photos of school buildings in bad repair, and that they were offered as evidence of the need for federal aid to education.

The publication of the photos stirred William Flythe, an editor of the Republican congressional committee newsletter, to an investigation since he surmised there was misrepresentation of the true situation.

Three of the pictures, says the Journal, carried cut lines identifying the run-down schools as property of Carter County, Tenn. Mr. Flythe checked with Carter County. He was informed that these schools had been replaced in a new construction program—financed with local tax funds.

Another picture was of a Brooklyn, N. Y., school, which was taken before repair work had been done. It was found that $20,000 had been spent on renovation.

Then there were pictures of three run-down schools in Phoenix, Ariz. A check revealed that citizens last year voted a $1.5-million local bond issue to renovate these schools.

Says the Journal: "Dr. John M. Lumley, NEA lobbyist, was asked why his organization gives only one side of the story and never emphasizes nyew local construction achievements. His repl was: "To us, there is only one side."

We are certain that this sort of thing would not meet with the approval of the vast majority of the members of the NEA, but it was the members' magazine that published the photos. It is disturbing that their magazine would get so far out of line.

Interesting Opinions

"Too many people have forgotten the old-fashioned premise that a business is started with the hope and intention of making a profit, not just to create jobs.

"Who among you would say: 'I will start a business so that I will be able to provide jobs for my unemployed friends — I will not be concerned whether it will pay its way nor provide me with a return on capital invested.' Silly idea, isn't it? Yet this apparently is the basic philosophy of a large segment of our society today."

T. Edmondson, president, Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association

W. L. B. Said:

"When a stranger approacheth thee with a proposition whereby thy money may earn thee 50 per cent from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same, place not thyself in the sucker class by giving heed to his broadcasting."

GUERNSEY breed champion at Northwest Dairy Day was shown by 15-year-old Shyrl Peterson of Pinewood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Peterson. The two-year-old grade cow was named reserve champion grade animal of the show and Shyrl was named winner of a purebred calf when the person who showed the grand champion grade declined the calf. Shyrl's sister Susan showed the champion grade last year and received a purebred Guernsey calf at the show this year.

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

Minnesota at the Seattle Fair

You would have been proud of Minnesota's representation at the Seattle World's Fair had you been there June 12, on Minnesota Day.

Minnesota had the largest delegation any state has sent — over 500 — and drew the biggest crowd to its program. In fact, there were two programs — the usual one in the morning and a two hour concert in the afternoon. Large crowds attended both.

Representing Minnesota were the Fairmont high school band which played a fine program, the Gaylord over-60 band which attracted a lot of attention, the Proctor high school band which put on a very impressive marching exhibition, and the Minnehaha Academy band which I had the fun of conducting as it played the Minnesota Rouser. In addition to the four bands there were the Owatonna high school choir, and the chorus from the University of Minnesota, Morris branch, both superb organizations.

In addition, two lovely queens—Pamela Jo Albinsen of the Minneapolis Aquatennial and Penny Hicks of the St. Paul Winter Carnival—together with officials of these great festivals, added a great deal to the occasion.

Hundreds of Minnesota tourists were on hand—and a host of Washingtonians who were born and raised in Minnesota. I met a great many. The whole affair was much in the Seattle news and on TV—All very favorable to our young people and our state. In fact, the theme of the news reports was "Everything is big in Minnesota". It didn't hurt any that the Twins were leading the American League that day.

I had a brief visit to the science pavilion designed by Mr. Yamasaki under direction of a commission headed by Dean Spilhaus of our University of Minnesota Institute of Technology. This is a great educational experience for young and old.

Tom Swain, commissioner of business development, who co-ordinated the Minnesota visit and did a great job, was with me. We visited the observation tower of the 600 feet high "Needle" and had breakfast in the revolving dining room. It revolves once an hour giving diners a panoramic view.

Crowds are running 50-60,000 a day (our state fair goes over 100,000) and waits are quite long to get into some of the attractions. People I met praised the Fair and felt their trips out there worthwhile.

Survey as to Fallout Shelters in State Is Now Half Completed

Colonel W. B. Strandberg, St. Paul district engineer, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, and Colonel Hubert Schon, Minnesota civil defense director, today announced that Phase 1 of the National fallout shelter survey program has been completed in the State of Minnesota.

The first half of the survey was launched early in October of 1961, and since that time seven architectural engineering firms in the State of Minnesota have been engaged in surveying existing buildings that have a potential capability as shelters for use during an emergency for protection against radioactive fallout.

Phase 1 of the survey has revealed that throughout the state of Minnesota approximately 10,000 shelter areas have a potential of providing protection against radioactive fallout within certain minimum criteria established by the Department of Defense for preliminary consideration. Shelters located have a capacity of 50 persons or more per shelter, and while all buildings so identified meet the minimum criteria established for Phase 1, officials pointed out that increased shielding, improved ventilation, and standby electrical power will be required in most of the facilities in order to render buildings fully capable of providing the degree of protection and habitability required.

In addition to the shelter areas existing in buildings that were identified during Phase 1, approximately 350 special facilities, such as tunnels, cave and mines were located throughout the State. Many of these facilities exist in connecting underground tunnels at State institutions.

The second part of the survey or Phase 2 of the program is to further refine the data which has been collected on the buildings identified in Phase 1 and determine the extent to which additional shielding must be added to these buildings to increase the protection potential as well as to determine the extent of additional improvements required in order to make these buildings more habitable for use during an emergency.

Contracts for Phase 2 for the entire state are now in the final stages of negotiations.

Teams will study shielding, ventilation, power, and access to determine what changes are necessary and the estimated costs thereof to improve the protection and habitability elements of identified shelters.

Estimated costs for improvement to facilities will be available through Civil Defense officials only after detailed office computations are made subsequent to the survey. Determination will then be made by the Minnesota state civil defense department in coordination with the U. S. Department of Defense as to the extent of building modifications to be made based on the requirement for shelter space in various areas.

Handbook Written for State Schools

Publication Deals with Experimental Pratices

Now available to Minnesota school personnel is the "1962 Handbook of Experimental Practices in Minnesota Public Schools" published by the Junior League of Minneapolis in cooperation with the research section of the state's department of education, headed by Dr. John E. Bicknell.

This handbook summarizes experimental programs initiated during the past five years by various elementary and secondary schools throughout the state, gives the purpose of each program, the procedures employed, and the results.

Material included in the book, taken from questionnaires sent to school district superintendents, indicates that greatest experimentation is currently being done in the field of developmental reading programs. Other programs carried out by schools range from such as "team teaching", and "education for the gifted student" to "inservice training for teacher" and "pre-kindergarten speech therapy".

Purpose of the handbook is to enable educators throughout the state to keep abreast of current developments in school curriculums and to facilitate the exchange of information. The handbook will be revised as methods and programs continue to change.

Copies are being mailed to superintendents of the state's independent and special school districts and are available to other supervisory school personnel upon request from the Research Section, Department of Education, State of Minnesota, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

PRINCESS of 1962 Northwest Dairy Day, 19-year-old Kathleen Hjelle of Argyle, rode in regal splendor in the parade of champions which concluded the 13th annual event Tuesday in Thief River Falls. Attendants to the princess also riding on the float were Dolores Rolandson, 17, left, Thief River Falls, and Paulette Knott, 17, Red Lake Falls. Miss Hjelle succeeds Betty Johnson of Badger as Northwest Dairy Princess and will compete in Princess Kay state competition at the Minnesota state fair this fall.

HOLSTEIN Breed champion at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls was this aged cow shown by Gary Erickson of Badger. The animal was also named top grade animal at the show. Gary, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Erickson, was also the champion showman of the day. It was his second grade championship in nine years of exhibiting at Dairy Day.

Large Attendance at Annual Women's Camp

New officers were elected at the business meeting of "resident" Women's Camp members at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, in session June 12-15. Elected for the 1963 Women's Camp were Mrs. Kenneth Koester of Glyndon, president; Mrs. John Thompson of Newfolden, vice president; Mrs. Myrtle Wells of Grafton, N. Dak., secretary; Mrs. J. H. M. Awrey of Hitterdal, treasurer; and Mrs. Bernard Myers of Thief River Falls, sergeant-at-arms.

In attendance at the camp were many women from the Red River Valley counties of Minnesota and North Dakota. An all-time record of attendance was held by Mrs. Ella Anderson of Crookston for her 35th year. She was presented a corsage.

Campers receiving the 25-year (silver) award were Mrs. R. D. Love of Baudette and Mrs. Conrad Brandt of Bagley; 12-year award (linen)—Mrs. Karen Hafsten, East Grand Forks, and Mrs. Conrad Melo, Newfolden; and 4-year award (certificate)—Mrs. Kenneth Koester of Glyndon and Mrs. Verner Peterson of Stephen.

In addition to members "in residence" for the entire period of the camp, a large number of women from county homemakers' groups in the Red River Valley attended the "Day Campers" day on Thursday, June 14.

The women enjoyed a four-day program of interesting lecture-demonstrations on homemaking, travelogues and films, health, music, handicraft work, and recreation.

Officers who served for this year's camp were: Mrs. Harold Kagg, Viking, president; Mrs. Kenneth Koester, Glyndon, vice president; Mrs. Florence Eastgate, Bismarck, N. Dak., secretary; Mrs. Emil Dyrud, Newfolden, treasurer; and Mrs. Elmer Mikkelsen, Sabin, sergeant-at-arms.

Gov. Anderson Is Good Samaritan

Helps 5 Stranded State Boys Return from Seattle

Five Minnesota boys are on their way home from Seattle on a passenger train, their troubles behind them thanks to a friend named Andersen.

The youngsters are Arnold Langmade, Jerry Schwartz and Mike Hamilton, all 17, Roger Cummins, 16, and Eldon Nahring, 18, all of St. Francis, Minn.

They were driving to the Seattle World's Fair last Saturday when their car's brakes failed. The car and a truck colleded at Ellensburg, 100 miles east of Seattle. The car was smashed beyond repair.

Eldon was cited for driving with defective equipment, and the boys spent almost all their cash paying the fine.

They came on to Settle by bus, and a minister found them bed and board with Mr. and Mrs. Al Will, former residents of Cambridge, Minn. The boys went to the fair Monday, hoping to find work, but no jobs were to be had.

They had $15, enough to see them through Tuesday, Minnesota Day at the fair.

In desperation, they went to their governor, Elmer L. Andersen, who was officiating at ceremonies at the fair.

"They didn't ask for money or transportation, just for any idea I might have of what they could do," Andersen recalled. "I told them I would call them before flying back to Minnesota."

But the governor couldn't reach the boys before he flew home. Someone else did, though. A man from a railway station notified them there were five one-way tickets to St. Paul waiting for them. Said he:

ASC Lists '61 Payments Totaling $1,489,609

Listed below is a summary of Pennington County ASCS office activities administered by the Pennington County ASCS office during the 1961 program year ending March 1, 1962. Twelve farm programs were active during the year. A brief statement relative to the intent of the programs, the accomplishments, and the dollar contribution by the federal government follows. Federal funds paid out here totaled $1,489,609.

Agricultural Conservation Program: The intent of the Agricultural Conservation Program is to conserve the soil and water resources of the nation, improve the productivity of our soils, protect the soil from wind and water erosion, and retain a state of productivity that will supply an adequate diet for our present and our expected future population. 487 farmers participated in this program in 1961 and established permanent vegetative cover on 8,049 acres of cropland. 43 stock-water reservoirs were constructed on 37 farms. 14,528 acres of farmland was benefitted by surface drainage. 593,050 cubic yards of earth was excavated in the construction of farm ditches on 114 farms. 6,144 acres of legumes were seeded in 1961 which will be incorporated into the soil during 1962. The intent of this practice is to increase the fertility of the soil. 47 farms participated in the stubble-mulch practice. The intent of this practice is to prevent the blowing or washing of the soil, and for the retention of a snow cover on the land during the winter months. The federal government contributed $100,723.50 or about one-half of the actual cost of performing these practices. The government also contributed $2,825.50 to the Soil Conservation Service for the technical services which are required on our pit and ditching practices.

Commodity Credit Corporation Wool Incentive Program: 332 wool producers were paid $16,080.60 for increasing wool production and producing a higher quality of wool. The intent of this program is to promote or increase the production of wool in the United States. This legislation was authorized by the congress because the nation's producers are producing only 79 per cent of the wool that our present population needs, which necessitates the importation of wool from foreign countries which may be difficult in time of war or other international difficulties.

Conservation Reserve Program (Soil Bank): 750 individuals were paid $872,535 for reducing the production of excess commodities on 94,342 acres of farmland in 1961. This program has been in effect in this county since 1957. Federal expenditures under this program were in excess of the total dollar value of all production marketed from the 1961 crop as of March 1, 1962.

1961 Emergency Hay Program: Approximately 48,000 acres of soil bank hay was released to 480 livestock producers in Pennington county during 1961. The release of soil bank hay was authorized by Sec. Freeman to relieve a serious forage shortage which existed as a result of severe drought conditions experienced in this county in 1961. Approximately $28,000 was recovered for the government under this program.

PLANTING of flowers on the traffic island on Highway 59 east was accomplished last evening by a group of workers from the Sow and Hoe Garden club and other volunteer assistants. Soil for filling the island was provided by park board employees with leveling work being done by the club. Flowers for the Highway 59 island were provided by the club with the park board furnishing flowers alerady planted on the Highway 32 traffic island at the south approach to the city. Number of workers in the above photo is small, but about 30 persons turned out during the course of the evening to assist with the soil preparation, planting and watering.

Council Says No 1962 Wage Raise

Authorization of a letter notifying local union No. 664 that the city council would "stick to its original propostion" in granting no across the board wage increases to city employees during 1962 was given at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday evening. The decision was reached by unanimous vote of the council members present and was prompted by a letter from union negoliators in regard to requests for wage increases again this year.

Robert Wurst, city attorney, was instructed to write the letter, noting that some wage adjustments have been made and will continue to be made in accordance with increased responsibilities for some city employees. A previous letter from the council to the union noted that wages of city employees were equal to or in excess of wages for similar positions in the community and in other municipalities of comparable size.

Dakota Electric of Fargo, N. D., was awarded the contract for furnishing the city with 10 standards and luminaires for street lighting on Knight avenue from the Great Northern tracks to Third Street. Cable and other equipment was included in the bid of $2,449. Five bids were submitted on the project.

One bid was received on gasoline facilities for the Thief River Falls municipal airport and action on the bid was tabled pending investigation by the airport commission. Roy Jorgenson, chairman of the airport committee of the council, reported that Dave Gustafson had offered to

Men Praised for Work on Traffic Island Planting

Sow and Hoe Club Head Gives Credit for Work Devoted To Big Project

Planting of flowers on traffic islands at two approaches to Thief River Falls was completed Wednesday evening when members and associate members of the Sow and Hoe Garden club gathered to conduct the planting on highway 59 east.

"All the credit for such work should go to the men of the club," stated Mrs. Inga Geving, club president. "They have provided the muscle needed for planting and watering the flowers this year and last year and without their work the flowers just wouldn't have grown.

"Last year when rainfall was at a minimum, the men hauled water to the two traffic islands on many evening to assure the flowers an adequate supply of moisture. So many times we think our work goes unnoticed, but the city is well aware of the sacrifice of time and energy given by the men in these beautification projects."

Mrs. Geving noted that a number of the workers are not actual club members but are interested in the beautification program and have volunteered to assist with it. Named for their assistance were Palmer Lorenson, Claude Davidson, Herman Christopherson, M. C. Gulbranson, Carl Finstad, Robert Kloubec, Axel Engelstad, Arnold Gunderson, Frank Heinze, Mons Engelstad and J. P. Rosengren.

"In addition to their services with the planting and care of flowers, the men have taken charge of programs on a monthly basis," Mrs. Geving added, and a number of interesting and informative programs have been presented. On July 1 a picnic under the direction of M. C. Gulbranson is being planned for the Relerson farm at Fosston."

Lawrence Brown New Grand Knight of KC Council

Lawrence Brown of Thief River Falls was elected Grand Knight of Our Lady of Lourdes Council No. 4619 of the Knights of Columbus at the annual meeting of the council held recently. The new slate of officers will take office at the July meeting to be held on Thursday, July 12.

Other officers include Gene Sack, TRF, deputy grand knight; Fred Protz, TRF, chancellor; James Solsten, TRF, secretary; Joseph W. Mrkonich, TRF, financial secretary; Virgil Burger, TRF, treasurer; Rev. Paul Cardin, Oklee, advocate; Rev. Keough Patnode, TRF, chaplain; Robert Lasha, TRF, warden; Clayton Moran, Red Lake Falls, inside guard; guard; Ted Kusmak, TRF, E. J. Shukle, Red Lake Falls, and Dennis Bachand, Oklee, trustees.

Three More File for Pennington County Offices

Only three filings for Pennington county offices in the 1962 election have been made this week in the office of County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr. These are in addition to the five aspirants who filed on the opening day, June 13. Latest to enter their names are L. W. Rulien, incumbent, and Curtis Charlson, both seeking the office of county attorney; and William Frolland, who filed for reelection as register of deeds. He is now completing his first term.

ON TOUR of Hawaii this week is Miss JoAnn Odegaard, Gonvick, national winner in the senior division of the Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest sponsored by the National Wool Growers association. Miss Odegaard first won at the district contest held in Thief River Falls last December, then won state and national competition. Entry blanks for the 1962 contest are now available from Mrs. G. Milford Peterson, Crookston, district director.

Soo Investigator Checks Out Spike Driven in Track

Incident Monday Could Easily Have Derailed Faster-Moving Train

Investigation of an incident which should serve as a warning of dangers involved in children playing around railroad tracks is being conducted this week by Myron Haroldson, special investigator for the Soo Line railroad.

Haroldson reported that a large spike had been driven between sections of rail on the Soo Line tracks south of the Land O'Lakes turkey plant and was hit by a slow-moving north-bound freight train on Monday. The train broke the spike and flattened it in passing over the spot.

Had the train been a fast freight or a passenger train traveling at the normal rate of speed, Haroldson said, railroad cars would have been scattered in a complete derailment, resulting in a large amount of damage and probable injury or loss of life. It was fortunate that the slow-moving freight was the first train to arrive after the spike had been placed in the track.

Haroldson urged parents to speak seriously with their children about the possible results of placing objects on the rails or playing near the tracks. Signal devices known as torpedoes and fuses are also left for use by railroad personnel and are explosive in nature, also creating a hazard to children who might find them and use them as playthings.

"If parents will just tell their children of the dangers involved, both to themselves and others, much of the problem can be eliminated," Haroldson said. "If children do not play on or near the tracks there will be no need for further cautioning as to dangers involved."

Rotary Given Review of NW Hospital Plan

$702,000 Expansion Program Will Serve Special Area Needs

Review of plans for the $700,000 addition to Northwestern hospital which will house facilities for rehabilitation and convalescent nursing home care was provided to the Thief River Falls Rotary club at the noon meeting on Monday.

Speakers on the program were Dr. O. D. Beich, trustee on the hospital board and members of the building committee; Norman Peterson, hospital administrator; and Dr. H. Paul Wendt, vice president of the medical staff and member of the rehabilitation committee. Introductory remarks were given by James Winjum Sr., hospital board president.

Beich outlined the planned construction of the three-story structure which would provide 20 beds for care of the chronically ill and 16 beds for convalescent nursing home care. Also included in the basement level would be an expanded x-ray room with added facilities.

Dr. Beich noted that this area has more residents over age 65 than the state average and that only one other hospital within a 60-mile radius of this community offers therapy and care for the chronically ill. All admissions to the new facility will be by recommendation of an attending physician.

Cost Estimates

Peterson noted that government approval for federal funds through the Hill-Burton act was received about two weeks ago. Projected estimates place the building cost at about $702,000 with additional equipment amounting to $73,392. This would include $30,000 for diagnostic x-ray equipment. Hill-Burton funds would provide, on the basis of current estimates, about $261,000 of the total amount of money needed for construction.

The hospital currently has $152,000 invested and by funding one-half of its depreciation schedule, the institution plans to handle financing of the addition without public fund solicitation.

Dr. Wendt called attention to the need for such a facility, stating that average length of life is increasing each year and that standards of care for the aged are being constantly raised. He noted that the new building would provide two basic purposes rehabilitation where intensive care would be provided to patients of all ages, and convalescent nursing home care where treatment and supervision could be provided to elderly patients who could not be adequately cared for in a custodial nursing home.

Peterson reviewed the operation of the 17-bed chronic unit which has been used at the hospital on an experimental basis. This unit

Emergency Planning Conference Saturday

50-YEAR awards were made to two charter members of Council 521 of the United Commercial Travelers in Thief River Falls at the 50th anniversary banquet held last night at the American Legion club rooms. Seated in the above photo are Dave C. Gustafson (left) and Andrew Anderson who received diamond pins and plaques denoting their 50-year membership. Standing at left is Emory Traver, city, local senior counsellor, and at right is Arthur Platt, Fargo, grand senior counsellor for United Commercial Travelers in Minnesota and North Dakota. About 65 persons from Thief River Falls and Crookston councils attended.

Discussion of area problems relative to crop situations, livestock feed and rural credit will take place at an area emergency planning conference to be held Saturday at the Thief River Falls municipal auditorium. The session will open at 10 a. m. and has been described as an all-day meeting by Charles Kotaska, Thief River Falls, conference chairman.

Major personality to appear at the session will be John A. Baker, director of agricultural credit services for the U. S. Department of Agriculture and highest ranking official in the field of farm credit. A number of other USDA divisions will be represented. Duane Wilson, Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, will head a list of state dignitaries expected to attend the session.

Word was received here this week that all of East Polk, Norman, Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties had been designated as disaster areas by the Secretary of Agriculture. The designation will permit the grazing of cattle on conservation reserve land and the cutting of soil bank plantings for hay. A similar designation was received for Pennington county last year because of drought conditions.

The meeting, which has been billed as non-political, has been called to review the needs of the area and provide information on what can be done to provide assistance to farmers who are unable to plant crops due to the long, wet spring season.

Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent, attended a meeting called by Duane Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture, at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston on Tuesday. County extension agents and vocational agriculture instructors attended the meeting and reviewed their respective county situations.

Still Time to Plant

Stelmaschuk reports that there is still sufficient time remaining in the season to mature any crop except corn and soybeans in this area. Weather must be cooperative, however, if grain is to meet maturity and permit time for harvest. In 1950 at the Crookston experiment station, wheat emerged on June 5, was harvested August 26 and averaged 26 bushels per acre. First killing frost of the season that year was on October 3.

Provided that heavy rainfall does not continue, it is expected that most sunflowers and millet for the Valley Feed and Supply company which has contracted acreage here will be planted. If sunflowers do not reach maturity due to adverse weather, they may be salvaged to some extent for use as silage.

Fair Ass'n Opens Membership Sale

Canvassing of the Thief River Falls business district for the sale of $5 memberships in the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., will take place between now and July 4, according to Jon Metusalem, general chairman of the business district campaign. Rotary and Lions clubs and Chamber of Commerce are cooperating in the business district drive.

Metusalem represents the Rotary club as its chairman with James Parkins heading the Lions club committee and Fred Sorensen in charge of Chamber of Commerce participation. Each group has been assigned a third of the business area to contact.

The rural membership sale, which has now neared stages of completion although several areas have not reported or completed their canvasses, has resulted in about 280 memberships being sold. Total rural membership should hit the 300 mark before the campaign is terminated, according to Silas Hanson, general drive chairman.

"With the substantial endorsement for county fair continuance noted by the rural sale," Metusalem said, "residents of the city may now be assured that there is sufficient rural support for the event. The county fair has become a county institution and annual tradition, and it provides the county and area with an excellent opportunity to display the quality of its produce and ability of its residents."

Membership being sold in the new fair association is on a lifetime basis with full voting privileges. The membership, however, has no resale value, pays no interest and is non-transferrable. Persons holding membership would be allowed to attend meetings of the association, voice their opinions, vote and hold office.

The Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., has been organized at the request of a citizen's group and the present board of the Pennington County Agricultural Society, a private corporation, which has operated the fair since its inception and will do so again this year. The board has publicly stated that it will not operate a county fair after this year.

Individual Basis

"Residents should be reminded that membership is on an individual basis and should not be considered as a contribution from a business place," Metusalem noted. "The low life-membership fee of

Reiner and Star Farmers Invited To Planning Meet

The committee urges all farmers in the two townships to attend the Friday evening session.

LRC Reviews Problem Of Area Jail Needs

"We did not come here to prescribe something to solve your problem. We are now aware of your problem and urge you to keep bending to the oars in attempting to find a workable solution." This was the statement made by Sen. Carl Grittner, St. Paul, chairman of the Legislative Research Committee, at the conclusion of a hearing on multi-county jail facilities held Tuesday morning at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

The hearing was called to review a proposed bill which would "enable counties to cooperate to provide adequate jail facilities with suitable work programs and rehabilitation and teatment services for persons whose commitment to a county jail is required by law". General concensus of opinion by those present at the hearing was that the proposed legislation was acceptable.

Approximately 50 county commissioners, sheriffs, deputies, county officials and other interested persons attended the hearing. Accompanying Sen. Grittner were Robert McLane, representing the state department of corrections; Louis C. Doweller Jr., director of research; and Joseph Bright, revisor of statutes.

Legislators attending the meeting were Senators Donald Sinclair of Stephen, Louis Murray of East Grand Forks and Roy Wiseth of Goodridge and Representatives Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle and Victor Johnson of Lake Bronson.

Agree on Need

Persons testifying at the meeting were in general agreement as to need. It was reported that none of the eight counties (Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Mahnomen and Norman) have county jails which meet state specifications. Sheriffs and county commissioners noted that something must be done to provide for persons sentenced to jail terms between 90 days and one year.

State institutions care for prisoners whose terms are in excess of one year, it was pointed out at the meeting, while counties are responsible for facilities when prisoners are sentenced to jail terms of shorter duration. Most of the problems arise from prisoners who are convicted of gross misdemeanors, law enforcement officials said.

Too often judges are compelled to mete out 90-day sentences followed by a probationary period rather than longer sentences because of inadequate county jail facilities, the persons testifying said. Counties have no provisions for rehabilitation and confinement is generally an idle existence for persons sentenced.

Sheriff Knutson Talks

Carl Knutson, Crookston, Polk county sheriff, opened the discussion by stating that he did not

Jeanette Nelson Wed to David Schwartz June 16

Rev. Milton Wilson officiated at the wedding ceremony Saturday, June 16, which united Miss Jeanette Nelson and David Schwartz, both of rural Thief River Falls. The double-ring ceremony took place in Silver Creek Lutheran church at 8:30 p. m.

Candleabra, altar bouquets, and floor baskets of white gladioli and pink carnations provided the setting as the organist, Miss Carmen Pederson, played the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Janet Torgerson as she sang "Lord, Who at Cana's Wedding Feast", "O, Perfect Love", and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, was gowned in a floor-length dress of white satin and Chantilly lace. The gown, designed and fashioned by the bride, featured lace medallions appliqued down the front of the full bouffant skirt, and unpressed pleats and gathers at the waist, falling into a chapel train. The fitted bodice featured a Sabrina neckline of lace. Long sleeves came to a point over the hand; and her fingertip veil of French silk illusion was caught on a crown of pearls. An orchid, on a Bible covered with white satin and lace, made up the bride's bouquet. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Marjorie Schwartz, sister of the groom. Miss Emily Nelson, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Both wore deep pink street length dresses of satin, with bouffant skirts, fitted bodices, short cap sleeves and scooped necklines. These gowns were also made by the bride Small flowered hats, white gloves and shoes completed their attire. Each carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

Usherettes were Linda and Leigh Foulks of Saskatchewan, Canada, the bride's twin cousins. Both wore light blue street length dresses of embroidered cotton with bouffant skirts, fitted bodices, and short cap sleeves. Small white hats, white gloves and shoes completed their attire.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nelson chose a beige suit with beige accessories. Mrs. Schwartz wore a blue lace dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for 300 guests. The serving table was centered by a five-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Harvey Odegaard and Mrs. Emma Billet, aunts of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. Ray Knutson, aunt of the bride, cut cake, while Mrs. Louis Parma and Mrs. Orvis Sletten, aunts of the groom, served the wedding cake. Miss Eileen Knutson, cousin of the bride, registered the guests. Gifts were arranged by Misses Marlys Schwartz, sister of the groom, Sandra Nelson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Rudy Peterson. Serving as waitresses were Misses Annette Harder, Yvonne Harder, Corrine Nabben, LaVonne Nabben, Beverly Nelson, and Karen Witt. Kitchen hostesses were Mrs. Seymore Nelson, Mrs. Hans Harder, Mrs. Herman Witt, Mrs. Obe Omlid and Ella Overum.

For going away, Mrs. Schwartz chose a blue figures jacket-dress with white accessories.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at Tunberg Motor Co. in this city. The groom attended Newfolden high school and is employed by Land O'Lakes Creameries in this city.

After a wedding rip to the North Shore, the couple will be making their home on a farm near Thief River Falls.

Out of town guests came from St. Hilaire, Red Lake Falls, and Goodridge, Minn.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Chicago, Ill.; Pheoniz, Arizona, and others from Sask. and Manitoba, Canada.

Women Golfers Stress Putting

Hostesses to the women of the TRF Golf club Tuesday, June 19th were Louise Rullen, Madlyn Johnson, Eunice Flynn, Joyce Fox, and Gladys DeBrlyn.

First prize in bridge was won by Dorothy Holzknecht; second prize went to Dorothy Boyer, and consolation honors to Madlyn Johnson.

The golf contest was a test of putting skill and was won by Sylvia Edmiston.

Red Lake Falls held their invitational golf Tuesday. Those members who attended from here were Keks Lee, Phyllis Mourn, Mary Jane Wurst, Marvel Van Rooy, and Betty Waldera. Keks Lee was runner-up in the first flight and Betty Waldera champion of third flight.

Elaine's CHATTER

An American tourist in India, while sight seeing, noticed an old man in native Indian dress, sitting on a low bridge, dangling his feet in a small stream of water. Day in and day out this same old man just sat there. Being a very curious American, the tourist stopped and talked to the old man, after philosophizing, the old man told this story:

"You Americans are always so busy rushing around, we people here believe that we have lived many lives before this one and will live many more afterwards. So, I'm just sitting this one out."

It occurs to us that nothing would be better than to just "sit this one out." Unfortunately, our beliefs are different, we like to eat and have a place to sleep . . . so we have to keep working.

The only reason a great many American families haven't bought an elephant is that they have never been offered one for one dollar down and a dollar a week.

In our time we have bought some "white elephants" but not on the above terms, we've paid hard earned cash for them . . . now if you don't want to find yourself knee deep in elephants, shop early!

To begin with, we suggest you stop in at ELAINE'S and pick up one of the many dresses we have reduced. All our hats are now $1. Coats at 1/2 price. Some blouses and car coats reduced.

We could go on and on about many items you would like, but it would take to long and too much reading, just stop in at Elaine's and have a look, our store is air conditioned, so shopping is comfortable.

NEWLYWEDS are Mr. and Mrs. David Schwartz (nee Jeanette Nelson) who were wed on Saturday evening, June 16 at Silver Creek Lutheran Church of rural Thief River Falls. Rev. Milton R. Wilson officiated at the 8:30 P.M. double ring candlelight service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nelson, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwartz, both of rural Thief River Falls.—Photo by Neal Fox Studio.

Rev. and Mrs. Ole O. Sande Feted at Golden Wedding

The golden wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. O. O. Sande was observed Sunday afternoon, June 17th in the Evangelical Free church of Thief River Falls. The program was led by Rev. Joseph Swan, pastor of the church. Other pastors present who gave words of greeting were Rev. J. O. Jacobson, former pastor of the church, now living in Minneapolis; Leonard W. Lindholm of Roseau, J. A. Rivenes of Karlstad, Kenneth Mickelson of the Lutheran church here and Lowell Jacobson of Thief River Falls, also Mr Jesse Vedum, one of the church deacons.

Telegrams came from Salem Gospel Tabernacle in Brooklyn, N. Y. pastored by Rev. A. M. Johnson, a former Thief River Falls man; also from Blue Cross Rescue Mission and several others in Brooklyn, N. Y. and one from Farsund, Norway. Floral pieces were two dozen red roses from the Norwegian Christian Home for Aged in Brooklyn, N. Y. where the Sandes served as supervisors a number of years, and an arrangement of yellow roses and mums from the Everett Healy and Peter Olson families in St. Paul.

Music was furnished by Miss Carolyn Swan at the organ and by Mrs. Swan at the piano. Mrs. Everett Kompelien and Mrs. Roger Nygaard sang "All the Way My Savoir Leads Me". Mr. and Mrs. Engelbretson of Karlstad sang three numbers. In closing the program, the Sandes responded with thanks. Nearly three hundred people attended. There were relatives from Chicago, Canton, Ohio, Bemidji, Kelliher, Ada, Warren, Viking and Newfolden.

The reception was held in the lower auditorium of the church where the Womens Missionary Society served lunch of decorated sandwiches, cookies and ice cream. The beautiful wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Clarence Moiskness. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Clifford Schantzen of Red Lake Falls and Miss Esther Drotts of Warren, their distinction being that Mrs. Sande took care of them as new-born infants when she was a young girl. Mrs. Halward Anderson of Viking served punch, and Mrs. Emil Pearson of Warren and Mrs. Arthur Rud of Newfolden poured coffee.

The Sandes were married at the bride's parental home, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Rud south of Viking, June 9th, 1912, by the late Rev Werner Drotts. The groom's sister Miss Ida Sande, who at the wedding 50 years ago sang the Norwegian wedding song "Brudesangen." Rev. Sande was born at Vik, Helgeland, Norway, and came to this country in his youth. He has served as pastor of several Evangelical Free church congregations in Minnesota and South Dakota, as well as superintendent of an old people's home in Brooklyn, New York, for about 15 years.

ASC Payments in 1961 Hit Total of $1,489,609

purpose of this program is to afford producers the opportunity of borrowing money at a reasonable rate of interest on their crops shortly after harvest, and retain the grain on their farms until the market price advances to the point that they can dispose of the grain at a reasonable price, in lieu of selling at the time of harvest when prices generally are at their lowest. Activity in this program was about 10 per cent of normal during 1961 due to the loss of production caused by the drought of 1961. Total loans disbursed on 1961 production was approximately $161,000. Interest rate on this money is 3½ per cent per annum.

Farm Storage Facility Loan Program: The intent of this program is to encourage the building of granaries on the producer's own farm, in which they can store food and feed grains. This program was made available by the congress in the belief that our food supply would not be so easily destroyed if stored on thousands of farms over the nation, in lieu of being stored in a limited number of warehouses which would become easy targets in case of an atomic attack. Borrowers can secure government loans for the material used for the building at 4 per cent interest. These loans run for a period of 5 years. 98 loans were serviced in this county during 1961. Government funds outstanding on these loans is $118,734.71.

Commodity Reseal Program: This program was made available several years ago. The purpose of the program is to encourage the storing of food and feed grains on farms throughout the agricultural areas in preference to assembling large quantities of grain in terminal elevators. Under this program producers receive a storage payment somewhat lower than that charged by warehouses, to store the grain on their farms. The storage payments paid to Pennington county producers during 1961 was $127,790.00.

Wheat Acreage Allotment and Marketing Quota Program: This program has been in effect since 1954. However it was in operation in the early forties but was discontinued after it had solved the over-production problem in 1943. The purpose of the program is to equalize and adjust the acreage and production of wheat in line with the nation's requirements. 912 Pennington county wheat producers cooperated in this program during 1961. Compensation for their cooperation consisted of assuring them Commodity Credit Corporation loans at a guaranteed price if they restricted their acreage to the allotment.

1961 Feed Grain Program: 223 corn producers cooperated in the 1961 Corn Program. The purpose of this program was to reduce the acreage and production of corn over the nation. This program was considered to be necessary in order to reduce the huge surplus of corn now under government storage. The program was authorized by the congress in 1961. Producers in Pennington county received $30,042.54 for reducing their normal 1959-1960 acreage of corn by 45 per cent.

Wheat Stabilization Program: This program was put into operation for the sole purpose of reducing our surplus of wheat which is in the neighborhood of 1,200,000,000 bushels. The program became available on October 1, 1961, however it applies to the 1962 crop. 241 producers signed up in this program last fall, and were paid $23,474.28 for reducing their acreage by no less than 10 per cent of their normal seedings.

Government Bin Site Program: The government has storage space available for 523,000 bushels of grain in Pennington county. There was no activity in this program during 1961 due to poor crops in our county in 1961.

The total administrative cost in the operation of these programs during 1961 was $37,133.40. This amount includes salaries paid to 42 community committeemen, 3 county committeemen, 2 county commodity loan inspectors, 6 performance inspectors, and 5 ASCS office employees, office rent, telephone, and office supplies. Total government funds paid out by county ASCS office during 1961 was $1,489,609.60. Service fees charged producers including soil bank hay charges $43,251.00.

sell 66⅔ acres of land in the airport clearance zone for $20,000. Action on this was also tabled until word is received from the federal government in regard to the airport master plan which has been submitted for approval.

Begin Consolidation

First reading of an ordinance providing for consolidation of the park and recreation boards was held. The revised ordinance would provide for seven members on the park board, each serving for a term of seven years. A sub-committee of the board would handle recreation activities for the city.

Resolutions were also passed by the council to cover technicalities required for combination of several street projects, issuance of $235,000 in street improvement bonds and $50,000 in municipal-state aid street bonds.

Approval was given to the hiring of James Johnson as mechanic for the street department. Electrician licenses were renewed for Ed Leyden and Ed Langlie and plumber licenses for Carl Lee and Ed Langlie. A cigarette license was also granted to Oscar and Alice Swanson, new owners of the Double O Cafe.

Issue Building Permits

Building permits totaling $327,150 were approved by the city fathers with the largest individual Society for construction of a rest home in the vicinity of Emil street and Highway 32 at an estimated cost of $320,000.

Other permits and amounts were as follows: Florence Whalen, 507 Dewey av. N., foundation and addition to dwelling to be moved in, $1,000; Willis Roese, 710 Tindolph av. S., domestic garage, $400; Hilding Bergh, 229 Oak av. S., domestic garage, $500; Oliver St. Martin, 114 Conley av. N., domestic garage, $450; Hans Nygaard, 1214 Duluth av. N., domestic garage, $400; Stanley Ranum, construct rear entry to dwelling at 503 Duluth av. N., $500; Franklin O. Skogen, 108 Spruce av. S., domestic garage, $700; Alfred Nelson, 827 Tindolph av. S., domestic garage, $500; Richard Edlund, 237 Kendall av. N., sun porch, $500; Carl M. Sheffer, 312 Crocker av. N., addition to dwelling, $1,400; and Lucile Curtis, 107 Merriam av. N., addition to dwelling, $800.

Discussion was held on drainage relief for residents of the city near the swamp area in the southeast portion of the city and D. H. Stewart, city engineer, was directed to make a preliminary survey and report to the council on what measures could be taken to relieve the situation.

A reminder was issued of the state convention of the Minnesota League of Municipalities meeting being held this week in Grand Rapids with council members able to attend being authorized to do so. Mention was also made of the board of equalization meeting which will begin at 9 a. m. on July 12. Third and final reading of the ordinance granting a franchise to American Gas company for natural gas service to the city was tabled until a later meeting.

LRC Hearing on Regional Jail Held in TR Falls

believe a regional jail would be feasible due to the relatively small number of prisoners from the eight-county area. He noted that the jail at Crookston serves as a central point for law enforcement officers to bring prisoners and that in 1961 the average was 22 prisoners per day.

The Polk county jail is old and has difficulty operating within Minnesota statues, he said. It is difficult to segregate prisoners awaiting sentence from those serving sentences. "Every juvenile confined in county jail has gone from bad to worse," he said, noting that it is impossible to avoid close contact between juveniles and adult prisoners.

Sheriff Knutson also objected to having multi-county jail supervision under state jurisdiction. "Local government should ask the state only for what local government cannot do for itself," he said. He commented that controversy which brought the jail situation to a head was the Polk county board decision not to accept prisoners from outside counties. This has now been changed so that outside prisoners may be accepted if the jail has room.

Sheriff Herman Lovas of Norman county stated he would like to see a great deal of research before any action is taken. Sheriff Gerald Hinze of Red Lake county emphasized the need for a "bigger and better jail" and would like to see prisoners working. The need is for facilities for juveniles and long-term prisoners he added.

Oscar Erickson, Marshall county sheriff, stated that the prisoners convicted of gross misdemeanors are the major problem. Last year a total of 113 short-term prisoners were housed at Warren. He said he feared the expense of a regional work farm.

Different Approach

C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor and secretary of the eight-county jail study group, stated that the method of approach should be "what should be done rather than what is being done." He quoted a letter from District Judge J. H. Sylvestre at Crookston which noted that judges at a meeting in 1955 were convinced that the state should establish regional work houses.

Gil Thompson, Ada, stated that something must be done to fill the gap between 90-day sentences and the state penitentiary. Too many 90-day sentences should be six months to a year, he said, and would be if facilities for holding prisoners were available. County jails such as those at Polk, Roseau and Marshall counties will still be needed. Ray Andre, Mahnomen county commissioner, stated that "we owe a debt to society" and should provide the intermediate jail system.

Who Should Pay

Roy Edman, Alvarado, Marshall county commissioner, advanced the thought that if counties are to pay the cost they should have total supervision of such a facility. If the state is to supervise the operation, it should be expected to share in the cost. He believed that work done by the prisoners should help defray the expenses of such a facility.

Merle Lindberg, Thief River Falls, chairman of the area jail study group, said that the group felt the need was for an area work farm. On an eight-county basis the cost seems prohibitive, he noted, and he questioned whether laws requiring the state to care for prisoners sentenced to a year or more were out-dated. Several regional work farms would permit shift of personnel and work throughout the state as needed, he said.

State legislators also presented their views following the testimony and requested further study before action is taken. Sen. Grittner concluded that local control and financing seems like the most likely method for successful completion of the project and that the multi-county plan is the best manner for meeting the problem as presented.

Busines Canvass for County Fair Membership Set

$5 was set to permit as many persons to become members as possible. We would encourage as many families as would like to do so to secure membership for both husband and wife to help assure success of the membership sale."

With July 4 set as the deadline for the canvass, residential areas will also be covered in the near future. Residents are asked to inform themselves on the situation and be prepared to give their decision when canvassers call so that the drive may be completed in as brief a time as possible. Groups working on the residential sale will be the Eagles, Elks, Jaycees, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion.

operated on a flat rate of $19 per day per patient, including therapy, minor medication and minor treatment. A separate schedule of $10 per day for chronic cases with lower level of care was also tried. Overall, the operation lost $17,000, Peterson said.

Patients with hip fractures averaged 71 years of age and hospital stay averaged 21 days in the department, the administrator noted. There were 135 admissions with 3,329 patient days and an average cost for all hospital care of $21.97 per day—about two-thirds of the average cost for all other types of hospital care. This compared favorable with state average.

100th Anniversary of Locomotive Observed

The unfamiliar shriek of a locomotive whistle on the sunny summer afternoon of June 28, 1862, heralded a momentous event in Minnesota history.

It was a day of mounting excitement in the pioneer town of St. Paul, on the banks of the Mississippi. Just that morning the steamer "Key City" had docked at the lower levee with an unusual cargo—the first two passenger cars for the fledgling St. Paul & Pacific Railroad.

Now, in a rising swell of cheers and waving of hats, a colorful little locomotive named the William Crooks chuffed out of St. Paul and across the prairie to the village of St. Anthony. The historic 10 mile run not only marked the beginning of railroad service in Minnesota but paced a vigorous new era of growth and prosperity in the vast Northwest.

One hundred years later, in a program at 11 a. m., Thursday, June 28, in St. Paul's Union Depot, the Minnesota Historical Society and the Great Northern Railway will join in commemorating the first run of the William Crooks. The famous pioneer locomotive is on permanent display in the depot, just a stone's throw from where the first run began.

The occasion also marks the centennial of the Great Northern, which grew from the early-day St. Paul & Pacific Railroad.

Special guests will include descendants of the first train riders, the mayors of St. Paul and Minneapolis (once the Village of St. Anthony) and officers or representatives of state, county and city historical groups.

John M. Budd, president of Great Northern, will be master of ceremonies. Monsignor James P. Shannon, president of College of St. Thomas and first vice president of the Minnesota Historical Society, will be principal speaker. Also speaking will be Governor Elmer L. Andersen.

The program will recall the festive day in 1862 when the newly-arrived passenger cars were set on track, the William Crooks fired and plans hastily drawn for an excursion to the neighboring village of St. Anthony.

Aboard were William Crooks, chief engineer of the St. Paul & Pacific, after whom the engine was named, and Mrs. Crooks; Edmund Rice, president of the railroad; Elias F. Drake of Winter, Drake & Co., builders of the line; John H. Randall, ticket agent; Ignatius Donnelly, lieutenant governor of Minnesota; Mayor K. S. Pierce of St. Paul and Mrs. Pierce; Mayor O. S. Merriman of St. Anthony and Mrs. Merriman; and aldermen.

It is not known whether James J. Hill, a rising young business man in the community who later was to make railroad history himself, was a passenger on the first run.

VA Pays Tribute to Harry Amiot

Former Local Man Lauded for Overcoming Handicap

Harry Amiot of Grand Forks, formerly of Thief River Falls, last week was saluted by the Veterans Administration information office in St. Paul as the veteran of the week.

It recalls that during World War I in Germany in 1945 German shells smashed the U. S. tank carrying Amiot and gravely injured him, necessitating the amputation of both legs. A year later, he was walking again on artificial legs.

Back home, he was married to Miss Pearl Sampson, formerly of this city, and attended school under the GI bill, receiving training in accounting and business. In 1952, he established a business in in orthopedic supplies in Grand Forks, and now is a successful manufacturer of braces and artificial limbs.

The VA paid tribute to Amiot for living a useful, productive life despite his disability.

Mailers Request Funds for Salk Building Fund

Contributions to the $15 million Salk Institute for Biological Studies which is currently under construction in San Diego, Calif., are county residents this week in special envelopes being sent from the Minnesota chapter of the National Foundation.

"This is a golden opportunity for all Americans to take direct action in making the future brighter for themselves and their children," stated Richard G. Mabey, Thief River Falls, chairman of the Pennington County Salk Institute Building Fund committee.

Some of the world's leading scientists, together with Dr. Salk, will work at the institute advancing knowledge in man's search for the means to control disease and enrich human life. Land for the institute was donated by the citizens of the city, and Dr. Salk will serve as director.

"Let us help provide the means, and I am certain scientists will find the knowledge to enable man to make the best of his gift of life," Mabey said.

North Minnesota ALC Convention Held in Brainerd

Delegates from Local Congregations Attend Sessions June 13 to 15

Trinity Lutheran Church of Brainerd was the scene of the Northern Minnesota district convention of the American Lutheran Church on June 13-15. Meeting under the theme, "All Glory be to God on High," were 234 pastors and laymen representing 297 congregations in northern Minnesota. Dr. A. E. Hanson, of Moorhead, president of the district, presided.

Featured speaker at the convention was Dr. Fredrick Scholtz, president of the ALC, who spoke on "The State of the Church." Items covered in his address were federal aid to parochial schools, a history of religious liberty in America, and the World Council of Churches issue.

The Convention debated the resolution by the Crookston conference, requesting the ALC to withdraw from the World Council of Churches. It was voted 129 to 82 to retain affiliation with the WCC, subject to the decision of the ALC general convention to be held in Milwaukee on October 18-21.

Lutheran Welfare has taken on a new status in the district by its being placed on the district budget. It was proposed to have one joint Lutheran social service agency in Minnesota, which would serve both the ALC and the soon-to-be-formed Lutheran Church of America in this state. This action must be approved by the other districts of the ALC and the LCA, before going into effect on January 1, 1963.

Forty-eight delegates were chosen from this district to attend the national convention of the American Lutheran Church, to be held in Milwaukee October 18-21. The National Convention is a limited convention, consisting of 500 clergy and 500 lay delegates, who are chosen in proportion to the confirmed membership of each of the ALC's 19 districts.

Representing Trinity Lutheran church at the convention were Pastors Reuben Wangberg and Harold R. Peterson, and Wm. Penning, L. L. Tygeson and Ted Mills.

Attending from the Goodridge Lutheran parish were the Rev. A. B. Heltne, Ernest Olson, Clarence Ellingson, Ole Uglem, Robert Parnow and Oscar Stenvik.

JoAnn Odegaard On Hawaii Tour As Sewing Winner

Gonvick Girl Is Guest of Wool Growers; Dist. Contest Will Be Here

Miss JoAnn Odegaard of Gonvick, national winner in the senior division of the Make-It-Yourself-with-Wool contest, left California last night for Hawaii to make the tour of the Island which was her prize for winning the event. Miss Odegaard was first selected a winner in district competition in Thief River Falls last December.

Chaperone on the tour is Mrs. Sterling M. Ercanbrack, president of the women's auxiliary to the National Wool Growers association sponsor of the contest. Also making the trip is Miss Paula K. Johnson, Abilene, Tex., junior division winner.

Three days spent in California early this week included tours of the offices and plant of Koret sportswear, Disneyland Frontierland exhibit of Pendleton Woolen Mills and Hollywood. The Hawaiian itinerary includes a visit to Pearl Harbor, three-day Island tour, Royal City tour, Luau evening, Catamoran evening, and a visit to the Hawaiian Fashion Guild.

Entry blanks for the 1962 contest are now available through Mrs. G. Milford Peterson, Crookston, District One contest director. The district includes Clearwater, Beltrami, Norman, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Roseau, Red Lake, Mahnomen, East Polk and West Polk counties.

The district contest will again be held in Thief River Falls, Mrs. Peterson said, with Mrs. Gunder Legvold serving as Pennington county chairman. Two major rules of the contest are that garments entered must be made from 100 per cent wool material loomed in America and that they must be entirely the work of the contestant who models them.

National finals for the 1962 contest will be held in January of 1963 in Las Vegas, Nev. Women and girls who compete in the district event will be eligible for a number of prizes—including the grand prize of a glamorous fashion trip via Pan American airways to the national winners.

Marshall County Commissioners Act On Drainage Area

Origination of a petition to be circulated among farmers along the Thief river northeast of the city was ordered by the Marshall county board of commissioners at a special hearing yesterday afternoon in Warren. A delegation of farmers appeared at the hearing, requesting channel repair for flood relief.

Arthur Moe of rural Thief River Falls offered to circulate the petition which is to be prepared by Warren Saetre, Marshall county attorney. Signers of the petition will agree to have the needed work done and to furnish right-of-way for such work without charge.

Although the immediate flooded area is relatively small, the channel affected by obstructions furnishes the outlet for the huge J. D. 11 drainage system. State ditch 83 is a portion of the river channel and a previously improved section in Marshall county had a comparatively small assessment area.

The minutes of the meetings of April 27 and May 8th and 17th were read and approved as read.

A delegation from Star Township appeared relative to drainage problems in County Ditch No. 57. After discussion the County Engineer was instructed to investigate the problem arising along and adjacent to Vernon Iverson's residence on the south edge of Section 28 in Star Township and also any cave-ins and obstructions on the north-south ditch running south between Sections 32 and 33 in Star Township.

Moved by Lindberg seconded by Hanson that the Road Committee and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads and bridges and culverts at 1:00 P.M., June 27, 1962.

Carried.

The Board then adjourned to the 1st floor meeting room for the hearing on a certificate of election for dissolution of Common School District No. 1554. Twenty-five interested persons were in attendance. The County Auditor presented the Notice as duly published and posted according to Law. A petition was presented by Carl Ekwall and others asking that the Board do not dissolve the district at this time.

Considerable discussion was presented relative to various problems arising from transportation and other items. Supt. Brown of Goodridge school district indicated that his Board had agreed to accept the school should it be dissolved.

Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

NOW THEREFORE IT IS ORDERED: That said Common School District No. 1554 be dissolved and that the territory embraced therein be attached to other existing school districts or unorganized territory as follows, to-wit: The entire area to be attached to Independent School District No. 561 of Goodridge.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That the assets and liabilities of said Common School District No. 1554, be distributed as follows, to-wit: All assets and liabilities shall be distributed to Independent School District No. 561 of Goodridge, the outstanding bonded debt of said Common School District No. 1554 is NONE and the proposed effective date of this order is hereby fixed as the 20th day of July, 1962.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

Albert Koop, President of the Pennington County Agricultural Association appeared with a request for assistance in operation of the 1962 County Fair in the way of an appropriation of $1,000.00. Moved by Almquist seconded by Hanson that the sum of $500.00 be appropriated to the Pennington County Agricultural Association. Carried.

Carl Larson, District Engineer, Ed Johnson and Erv. Pearson of the Minnesota Highway Department appeared relative to an apparent water problem in Reiner and Star Townships at the extreme East end of the County. Quite a number of interested persons attended this portion of the meeting. After detailed discussion of various aspects of the situation the Highway Officials state that they were going to survey the possibility of clearing out the offtake ditch that presently exists 5 miles East of the County line and running south to the river, to relieve the pressure of flood waters.

Mrs. A. C. Matheson, Supt. of Schools for the past 29 years appeared and announced her intent to retire at the end of her current term on Dec. 31, 1962. Upon motion by Olson seconded by Lindberg the Board in view of the 29 years of service accepted the announcement, expressed their sincere appreciation for the many years of devoted service and expressed the wish that Mrs. Matheson be able to enjoy many years of enjoyable retirement.

Motion carried.

Pursuant to the announcement to retire by the County Superintendent of Schools it was moved by Hanson seconded by Almquist that the office of the County Superintendent of schools be terminated effective Dec. 31, 1962.

After the winter, the spring,
After the shower, the rainbow,
For life is a changeable thing.

Thieves Lose 5-4 to Fertile in 11th

Dick Roragen's line single drove into left field, on which John Drury attempted a shoestring catch drove in Red Olson from second base in the last half of the eleventh inning to give manager Chuck Johnson's Fertile club a 5-4 win over the Thieves in a Norman-Polk league game played at Fertile Monday night.

Dennis Bakke's home run over the left-field fence with the singling Drury on first base in the seventh inning tied the game at 4-all after Fertile, with a pair of runs in the second and singletons in the third and sixth, had taken a 4-2 lead. And with righthander Rod Olson hurling a strong game, that lead appeared to be safe, but Bakke's blow forced the contest into extra innings.

The Thieves held a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Harlie Drees opened with a triple and scored on Gary Klungness' fly ball to left field.

In the second, Fertile, taking advantage of some control troubles by the Thieves' righthander, Buzz Ward, scored a pair of runs. Ward who hurled four and one-third innings, gave up but two hits, but he doled out six walks and hit a batsmen. Tony Poole came on in relief in the fifth, and the Prowler Pitcher gave up but two hits and a run in the four and one-third innings he toiled. Lefty Freddy Jensen finished up the game, and he was the losing pitcher.

In the eleventh, with one man out, Les Olson of the Thieves banged a double to the fence in left-center. Larry Gilbertson grounded out, third to first, with Olson remaining on second. Bakke drew a walk. Dick Williams sent a ground ball to third baseman Wayne Nelson, who made the play at third to force Olson for the third put.

Legion Jrs. to See Action in Five of the Next Six Days

Local Team Wins from Warroad 6-3 Tuesday in Conference Game

The local American Legion Junior baseball team will have a busy schedule this week. This afternoon, Thursday, the squad will travel to Crookston for a conference game. Friday night, June 22, coach Dick Werdahl will bring his Fertile juniors here for a night game on the Fair Grounds diamond, with game time at 8:00 p. m.

On Monday, with game time at 6:30 p. m., the Warren juniors, already boasting a win over the locals, will meet coach Skay's team on the Fair Grounds diamond. On Tuesday, June 26, the locals will play the Roseau juniors at Roseau; and on Wednesday, June 27, the Twin Valley juniors will be here for a 6:30 p. m. game.

The locals scored three runs in the last half of the sixth inning to defeat the Warroad juniors, 6-3, in a district conference game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Tuesday evening.

Three double plays turned in by the local club were important factors in Tuesday's win, with the twin killings snuffing out Warroad rallies. The visitors, who were an impressive looking team, were guilty of some careless base-running.

Righthander Dick Johnson hurled the first five innings for the local juniors, but required relief from Rick Jensen in the sixth. Jim Fish went the route for Warroad, giving up nine hits and whiffing a pair of batsmen.

Getting Stronger

The American Legion's junior baseball program, with its nationwide scale, has become the greatest "feeder" of talent to Organized Baseball. A year ago the age limit for junior players was increased by nine months, and this past season a three-month increase in the age limit was made. Boys whose birthdays are later than Sept. 1, 1943, are eligible for junior legion play this season.

With the decline in minor league play in the country, and increase in the cost of maintaining the few minor leagues that remain in existence, it is apparent that Organized Baseball realizes the value of the American Legion program.

The increased age limit has been of great benefit to the brand of baseball exhibited by the junior teams. The teams have greater physical size, are more experienced and mature, and the result is better baseball.

All boys are given an opportunity to participate in the Legion's program, and if the town or city in which the boy lives does not have a junior team he is eligible to join a team in a neighboring town. The Warren juniors this season have several out-of-towners on their roster, with pitcher Frank Rybaski of Argyle and pitcher Tom Vanyo of Alvarado being valuable additions. The Middle River Juniors, just organized this season, have a pair of stellar boys in Larry Johnson and Larry Colton, who are from the Strathcona area.

Yes, junior baseball is getting better and better. Local fans should make a note to attend the game here Friday night when the Fertile juniors, rated very highly, will play coach Ralph Skay's club on the Fair Grounds diamond. Fertile's coach, Dick Werdahl, will have a pair of top-flight pitchers to send against the local club in righthanders Rod Olson and Paul Sannes. Game time is at 8:00 p. m.

It Was a Big Year

To satisfy the curiosity of a couple of high school fans, and my own curiosity, too, I checked into the individual scoring records and results of Prowler junior Paul Klungness this past season.

During the 1961 Prowler football season, which found the local club posting five wins and four losses, Paul scored a total of fifteen touchdowns and added nine conversion points for an aggregate of ninety-nine points. He was the team's high scorer.

As a basketball performer, Paul, playing at forward, scored eighty-eight field goals and forty-eight free throws. This 224-point performance gave the blond junior the high-point honors for coach Jack Junker's Prowlers. The Prowlers during the 1961-62 season had a mark of five wins and fourteen losses.

It was perhaps as a member of coach Rod Max's track squad that Paul turned in his finest efforts. In district, regional, and state competition, participating in the 100 and 220-yard dash events, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump, Paul compiled a total of fifty-one points. He won the individual titles in these four events in the district and regional meets and won the broad jump event in the state meet.

During the past baseball season which was just concluded last week, Paul, who is a switch-hitter played in fourteen games for the Prowlers. He missed the Climax game, which was played on the date that the district track meet was held. In these fourteen games, Paul was at bat a total of forty-seven times, and he connected for twenty-three hits, to compile a batting average of .489.

Throughout the baseball season, Paul was in a friendly contest with catcher John Aune for the Prowlers' batting leadership. John who was blanked in the final two games of the year, in the Region Eight tournament, had twenty-two hits in fifty-one trips to the plate for an average of .431. But for those two games, in which Paul had four-for-seven, the batting average leadership would have been "up for grabs". It's comforting for coach Ralph Skay to know that Paul and John will be back for another year of baseball.

In spite of the spectacular season that Paul experienced this year, his head size still remains at seven and one-eighth!

Soo Mountaineer Routed Thru City; Creates Jobs Here

Excursion Train to the Pacific Coast Formerly Went by Way of Portal, N.D.

The routing of the Mountaineer, the Soo Line's summer excursion train to the Pacific coast, by way of Winnipeg, will provide employment for twelve train and engine men of Thief River Falls. Lloyd Quesnell reports that four local trainmen will be employed and A. B. Stenberg, speaking for the engineers, states that eight engineers and firemen of this city will be added to the payroll.

The Mountaineer will start its summer schedule from St. Paul Friday, following No. 9 to the Canadian border at Noyes where the two trains will be combined to complete the run to Winnipeg. Coming from the west the Mountaineer will combine with No. 10 at Winnipeg and they will operate as separate trains from the Canadian border to St. Paul.

In the past the Mountaineer was routed west from Glenwood and entered Canada at Portal in North Dakota. In periods of heavy traffic the train was operated in two sections, making necessary additional operating personnel.

Dennis Bakke Slams Inside-the-Park Homer As Erskine Falls 10-2

In a game that was featured by the seventeen-strikeout pitching of lefty Freddy Jensen and an inside-the-park bases-loaded home run by Dennis Bakke, the Thieves defeated the Erskine Merchants, 10-2, in a Norman-Polk league game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Wednesday night.

Southpaw Doug Donley, the former Grand Forks American Legion hurler, pitched for the Merchants and he hurled a creditable game for the defending league champions, but he was the victim of erratic defensive play, with ten errors being charged to the Erskine defense.

The Thieves picked up a run in the second inning on Dick Williams' double, and infield out, and Bakke's single to left field. The locals, taking advantage of a pair of Erskine miscues, and with Harlie Drees, Joey Poole, and Williams getting singles, scored twice in the third inning.

In the eighth, the Thieves erupted for six runs, the rally being capped by Bakke's home run. With the bases loaded, Bakke drove a line drive into left field, and when Toby Solberg failed on his shoestring catch try, Bakke circled the bases for a home run, scoring four runs.

Jensen, in racking up his win over the Merchants, struck out every man in the Erskine lineup at least once except Donley and pinch-hitter Al Carlson. In the first four innings of the game, Jensen collected eleven strikeouts. Donley, with two hits in three tries, and Tranby, with two hits in four trips to the plate, were the only batsmen to "solve" Jensen's delivery.

Crookston and Fertile Tied for League Lead

The Norman-Polk league will begin play on the second half of its 1962 schedule on Sunday, June 24. Numerous games of the first half have been postponed because of rain and wet grounds, and these games are being rescheduled as playing opportunities permit.

The Crookston Pirates and the Fertile Independents, with records of three wins and one loss, are sharing first place in the league standings.

During the week, Fertile picked up a pair of wins, defeating Halstad and Thief River Falls, to move up into a first place tie with manager Rod Olstad's Crookston club. Crookston, with a veteran club, defeated Halstad, 12-2, to hold a share of first place.

Employment Rise Has Continued into June

Nonagricultural employment in Minnesota crept ever closer to the million mark last month, when the count by the Minnesota department of employment security reached 981,900 workers, according to a report released today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner.

The figure was up 20,800 from April and was 20,900 above the total employed a year ago. Continuation of this trend would assure attainment this summer of the million mark for the first time, said Starkey.

All of the nine major industrial groupings showed employment gains over the month, with the most substantial increases being recorded in construction (8,500), trade (3,700), and manufacturing (1,800).

Gains in manufacturing were widespread in most categories, with food products and stone, clay and glass showing gains of 1,000 and 900, respectively. Partially offsetting the rise was an industrial dispute which idled 1,700 workers in the printing and publishing industry.

The gain in mining employment, although about as expected at this time of year, was reassuring because of the lower level of activity in that industry during the last few years. Although is is difficult to forecast activity in this sector of the economy, one encouraging sign is the amount of tonnage shipped this year. Ore shipments have been twice as great in the first five months of 1962 as they were during the comparable period of 1961.

Production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $102.69 per week in May, up slightly from their earnings of the previous month. The work week, at 40.8 in May, was up one-tenth of an hour from April and .6 of an hour longer than a year ago.

Unemployment in Minnesota showed a sharp decline of 29,000 persons between April and May. The level of unemployment was 72,400 in May, compared to 101,400 the previous month and 95,000 persons a year ago. The rate of unemployment in May was 4.9 per cent compared to 6.9 per cent in April and 6.6 per cent in May, 1961.

NEIGHBORS AND FENCES

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Maybe Walt and Jerry don't realize the paradox in this scene. They're simply leaning on the fence while their youngsters enjoy the new sliding board in Walt's backyard.

But fences once implied enmity . . . fear . . . selfishness. They are first cousins to the walls the ancients built around their cities.

Centuries of Christian influence have implanted a different spirit in men's hearts. A fence today can add interest and beauty to neighbors' gardens while keeping Walt and Jerry's kids from running across the flower beds.

There are countless evidences of Christian influence in our community today. The Church has elevated human ideals. Faithful worship and spiritual growth bring us closer to those ideals.

The Luth. Free Church Votes to Merge with American Lutheran

Merger of the Lutheran Free Church and the American Lutheran Church was virtually assured in Minneapolis last week when delegates to the LFC's 66th annual conference voted 530 to 112 in favor of union agreements.

Balloting on the issue brought to an end several years of deliberation by the 90,250-member LFC over the issue of merging with the ALC, a 2,250,000-member body which is the third largest unit of Lutheranism in the country.

The smaller body's approval of the merger documents now authorizes it to apply for membership in the ALC at that church's convention Oct. 18-24 in Milwaukee, Wis. It appears virtually certain that the application will be approved.

According to a merger timetable prepared by a joint committee of the two churches, all formalities can be completed and the union accomplished by Feb. 1, 1963.

The resolution approving merger agreements passed by a 102-vote margin. A two-thirds majority, 428 of the 642 delegates, was necessary.

The LFC initially was involved in negotiations which resulted on Jan. 1, 1961, in the formation of the ALC. The larger body was formed by merger of the Evangelical, United Evangelical and former American Lutheran Churches.

Withdrawal of the LFC from these negotiations came in 1955 when a congregational referendum failed to gain a required three-fourths majority favoring the merger. A second referendum, in 1957, also failed. Then last fall the third ballot among congregations approved union negotiations by a two-thirds majority.

Opposition to the union has hinged throughout the years on fears that LFC congregations would lose much of their traditional freedom. Other key arguments have been based on ALC membership in the World Council of Churches.

Dr. John Stensvang, LFC president, led forces favoring union with the larger body. Visibly moved in announcing vote results to the gathering of over 1,000 delegates and visitors in Si Melby Hall at Augsburg College, he led a prayer of gratitude and seeking guidance for the church to "go forward worthily in a manner good for the Kingdom."

The climactic vote followed two hours of orderly debate in which 24 speakers were heard. Eighteen of the delegates expressed themselves in favor of the merger and six spoke against the issue. All arguments were limited to five minutes duration.

Following approval of the basic merger agreement, the Conference delegates passed resolutions authorizing a $101,339 financial effort for ALC programs, nomination of 20 members to boards, commissions and standing committees and electing a seven-member Board of Regents for Augsburg Theological Seminary, all be become effective with ALC merger approval.

Augsburg College and Theological Seminary, all to become ef- single board, will become two separate institutions when merger takes effect. The seminary board of regents will decide later whether the seminary will remain on its Augsburg campus in Minneapolis, move to the Luther Seminary campus in St. Paul in an affiliate relation or whether it will merge with Luther Seminary.

Whatever the alternative, the seminary will become a unit of the ALC theological seminary located on several campuses. Augsburg College becomes an ALC college.

Camp Courage Is Open for Season

Record Attendance Is Expected This Summer

Camp Courage, Minnesota's only camp for crippled children and adults, opened formally Sunday, June 17. Owned and operated by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the camp was attended by 506 crippled children and adults last year.

It is located a few miles north of Highway No. 55 between Maple Lake and Annandale and about fifty miles west of the Twin Cities. Visitors are welcome always.

The camp is open to all crippled children and adults regardless of race, color, or creed, and it is supported entirely by voluntary contributions through the annual drive for crippled children and adults, through United Funds and Community Chests, and by many special projects and gifts from over Minnesota such as the Future Farmers Chapter's, "Corn Drives for Camp Courage."

Following the regular camping season a special session will be held for adults over forty-five, and this session is made possible by the McKnight Foundation, St. Paul

Mrs. Paul Scudder, Camp Director, said that more crippled children and adults than ever before will attend Camp Courage because of the addition of the two special sessions to the regular five sessions.

Activities at Camp Courage are like those in any other camp. Crippled children and adults swim, hike, play baseball, study nature, fish, go on overnights, learn crafts, and many other wonderful worthwhile activities.

Duluth Man Heads Minnesota Eagles

George Martinson, Duluth, is the new president of Minnesota Eagles, elected at the annual state convention in Detroit Lakes Saturday. He succeeds A. R. McLeod, St. Paul, as head of the fraternal group.

Duluth was chosen for the 1963 convention and James Rush, Austin, took the award as Eagles of the Year.

Top ritualistic honors went to the St. Cloud team, with Albert Lea runnerup and Willmar third. Mrs. Marne Johns, Minneapolis, was named auxiliary president.

Dr. West Plane Forced To Land

News Item in Illinois Paper Raises Question

Who is Dr. Phillip William West? An item in the Rockford (Illinois) Morning Star, dated June 13, lists him as the head of the chemistry department at Louisiana State University and a resident of Baton Rouge, La. The story also states he "flunked practical gauge reading" Tuesday night.

Dr. West and his wife were forced to land their blue and white Piper Comanche on a stretch of barricaded highway about eight miles west of downtown Rockford when the plane ran out of gas. The item notes that the couple was enroute from Thief River Falls to Indianapolis on a business trip.

The Times received the newspaper page containing the story which was boldly marked in crayon. No further identification was provided. North Central Airlines personnel recall that Mrs. West waited at the local airport for her husband who landed to pick her up and then left immediately. No local connection has been established.

Dr. West told the Illinois newspaper that he was in sight of the airport at Rockford when the engine sputtered. He spotted the barricaded stretch of highway, made a 360-degree circle and landed. With a supply of gasoline from the airport, he refueled his plane and flew to the airport. He needed full clearance from the state department of aeronautics before state police would permit him to use the highway for takeoff.

Only two things are puzzling—Who sent the clipping and what connection does Dr. Phillip William West have with Thief River Falls?

Patience Is Prime Virtue of Drivers

Highway Safety Division Cites Danger in Passing

The driver ahead of you may be traveling too slowly to suit your taste, but you'll create more problems than you solve by getting impatient and passing recklessly, says the safety division of the state highway department.

Unsafe passing is the fourth leading cause of accidents in Minnesota. Last year, it caused 15 fatal accidents and 932 injury accidents.

Before you pass, make sure that (1) the way ahead is clear, (2) no one behind you is trying to pass and (3) you signal your maneuver clearly and sound your horn to warn the driver ahead.

Don't try to show your frustration to the slow driver you've just passed by cutting back sharply front of him. He may have slowed for a purpose and may be increasing his speed. And it's easy for you to miscalculate the amount of room you think you've got.

You may pass a car on the right on one-way roadways or streets and highways wide enough for two lanes of traffic, but cannot drive on the shoulder or off the roadway to pass. And, except on a one-way roadway, don't pass within 100 feet of an intersection or railroad crossing.

St. Cloud Man to Head State VFW

Alcuin G. Loehr Elected at Austin Convention

In the final session of the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars convention at Austin, Minnesota, Saturday, Alcuin G. Loehr, St. Cloud, was elected commander of the department of Minnesota. Loehr, who was born and raised in St. Cloud, has been a VFW member since 1955, holding many offices on post, district and department levels.

Other VFW officials elected were Edwin Meyer, Fairmont, Sr. vice commander; Clifford Salisbury, Austin, Jr. vice commander; Lowell J. Eastland, White Bear Lake, quartermaster; Ronald Kenitz, Minneapolis, judge advocate; Dr. James Reid, West St. Paul, surgeon; Rev. Max J. Matz, St. Paul, chaplain; Frindo Renzaglia, Virginia, rehabilitation, welfare and service committee; Tom Smith, St. Charles, finance committee; James Murphy, Minneapolis, Rochester hospital board.

Selected as district commander of the year was Russell Haase of Cloquet. Bemidji was selected as the site for the 1963 VFW convention. The annual department bowling tournament was set for International Falls next spring.

At the Austin convention were approximately 1100 delegates representing 155 VFW posts from thruout Minnesota.

Estimated milk production for the United States in 1961 is approximately 125 billion pounds. The dairy farmer's cup runneth over.

by JIM KIMBALL
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

"All duck hunters in favor of a September hunting season for teal raise your right hand."

I envision a display of brawny right arms but also some violent objections.

Now, "How many of you are sure you could shoot teal without accidently killing some other species of duck and how many of you would be willing to take the chance if you were reasonably sure that a mistake would result in an arrest?"

A special teal season is not out of the question. We also could have more liberal regulations in the taking of bluebills, but there is one obstacle. Strangely enough, the obstacle is we duck hunters ourselves—because we are unable to identify ducks in flight.

"It can't be done," you say. Maybe you're right, but if you are, it means that reasonable bag and season limits are a thing of the past. It always will be necessary to restrict hunting sufficiently to protect that species which happens to be in short supply. This means that to give one species adequate protection we will be underharvesting the rest. Presently we are shooting possibly 10 per cent of our teal. This is true not only in Minnesota, but everywhere. Probably we could shoot a great deal more without hurting them in the least. We also are underharvesting the bluebills but shooting is restricted because Mallards, redheads and cans are in short supply.

Are you sure we cannot learn to identify ducks? I can hear many of you saying that you have shot ducks for 30 years and still wouldn't trust yourself not to make a mistake. I don't think this proves anything. You have driven a car for 30 years, too, but you can't identify the makes of the cars you meet on the highway. Sitting beside you is a 10-year-old boy who can shout out the make and model of each car as far away as he can see it. We can't identify airplanes either, but men in the armed services have been trained to identify them in a fraction of a second. Waterfowl men who make it their business can identify ducks many times out of gun range. I wonder if we could not learn to do the same thing if it meant a good deal more hunting for us. This would require the use of movies, slides, flash cards and actual study on the marshes. This would give the sportsmen's clubs and youth organizations a bigger job than they have had in many years.

Duck hunting has always been a little more difficult, a little more expensive, and required a little more knowledge than most forms of recreation. Possibly duck hunting in the future is not for the fellow who just wants to get out once or twice a year and blast at something. Possibly he is going to have special knowledge in order to qualify as a duck hunter. In the future we must manage and the sportsman holds the key. You won't start out by differentiating between a female redhead and a bluebill, but here other methods can be employed. The redheads are pretty well gone by the time the bluebill flight gets in full swing.

This idea of special seasons is more than just a dream. Last week I wrote to all states that are members of the Mississippi Flyway suggesting that we consider the possibility of a special teal season which would be very limited, very strictly controlled and primarily a research study to see what the results would be. Possibly we would open only one or two counties in a state and there would be a heavy "migration" of state and federal wardens into these counties before the season opened. Sportsmen would be warned not to try the teal shooting unless they had studied long enough to be sure they would make no mistakes.

This idea is set forth merely as a suggestion, not as a recommendation to the Fish and Wildlife Service. Not yet, at least. This, or a special bluebill season, could happen and it could happen as early as this fall. If it should happen, the primary purpose will not be to kill more ducks but to find out if sportsmen are ready to start species management. I wonder how many of us are ready.

Road Maintenance Setup Is Revised by Highway Dept.

Truck Stations in 11 Communities Will Be Consolidated Shortly

Necessary economies, forced in part by greatly increased expenditures for maintenance during the severe weather this past winter, will result in the first large scale realignment of state highway department basic maintenance activities.

Scheduled for consolidation "as soon as possible" are truck stations now located in 11 communities in various sections of the state. Other consolidations are planned during the next several years as new state-owned facilities become available.

This realignment and consolidation of some of the smaller maintenance truck stations is part of a program to achieve greater efficiency and economy through stronger field operations.

Many of the smaller truck stations do not provide enough space needed or lack the facilities necessary for the proper servicing of equipment and accommodations for personnel.

With state-wide demands being made for needed highway construction, every dollar that can be saved by increasing efficiency in the Department's many other operations will permit the placing of more work under contract for highway construction.

Among the stations scheduled for early consolidation are: Cromwell with Carlton; Hill City with Grand Rapids; Fertile with Crookston; Crosby with Brainerd; Battle Lake with Henning; Waubun with Mahnomen; Norwood with Chaska; Adams with Austin; Dassel with Litchfield; Grove City with Litchfield or Willmar; Fairfax station to be discontinued.

Low Bids Filed on Marshall, Roseau County Road Jobs

A total of $3,356,723 in apparent low bids were received on 19 state highway improvement projects June 8 letting by the Minnesota highway department. The jobs are located in 16 counties. Included in this area are:

Kittson and Marshall counties. TH 220 — Soil cement and plant-mixed bituminous base on eleven miles between junction TH 317 to junction TH 11, 2 miles E. of Robbin, Jay W. Craig Co., Minneapolis, $371,919, lowest of seven bids. The work which is to be completed within 60 working days, is scheduled to begin July 9.

Roseau County, TH 313 — Gravel base, road-mixed bituminous base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing on 6.3 miles between junction TH 11 in Warroad and the international boundary. John Dieseth Co., Fergus Falls, $178,169, lowest of three bids. The work which is to be completed within 60 working days, is scheduled to begin July 9.

"Loyalty is a hard thing to define; but I can tell you how you get that way. If one views life with humility and is continually guided by the spiritual forces of good will and tolerance and freedom and justice, he will be loyal all his days, just as sure as the night follows the day. He will be loyal to the institutions of learning with which he has been connected and to his friends and to his family and to his religion and to his country."

Polio Immunization

Oral polio vaccine will be available to the people of this area on Saturday, June 30, at the municipal auditorium. As we understand it, this operation consists of swallowing a lump of sugar on which two drops of the magic medicine have been applied. The cost, thanks to the contribution of time by volunteer workers, will be only thirty cents per shot.

This service is being sponsored by the medical staff of Northwestern Hospital. There are three known types of polio and the vaccine that will be made available at this time provides immunization for only one of these types. Arrangements for the other two are being made and will be available next fall.

Sabin oral polio vaccine is no longer in the experimental stage. It has been used in other countries on a mass basis. In Estonia, for instance, in 1958 the incidence of polio was 82.8 per 100,000 persons. In 1961, after mass vaccination, the incidence dropped to zero.

This type of immunization is recommended for people of all ages but especially, of course, for the younger people who seem to be more susceptible to the disease. And, the doctors tell us, those who have already had polio shots should avail themselves of this opportunity to build up additional resistance.

You are requested to register in advance mainly to give the sponsors a basis for estimating the number of people who will respond. Your registration will be helpful.

We Have the Same Problem

Canadians went to the polls Monday following several months of campaigning in which there were no clearly defined issues. Leaders of both sides made promises they could not carry out, very much as do the politicians on our side of the line.

The campaign did bring out some sound observations by private citizens whose only interest was the welfare of the country itself. Trevor F. Moore, a business executive, in discussing Canada's financial problems, said a few things that apply to our country's problems as well as to those of Canada. As quoted by the Financial Post he said:

> "As the largest single force in our economy our governments must create a climate of confidence in which all Canadians can work. This confidence is undermined when we take a look at the current and prospective revenue needs of our different governments—needs which are too often founded upon political expediency than upon justifiable welfare and economic considerations.
> "Last year, spending by all governments, exclusive of net funds they paid to each other, equalled about 32 per cent of our Gross National Product. A recent study indicates that this may well increase to 36 per cent of the GNP by 1965.
> "When the cash deficits of all governments in Canada reach the proportions of $900 million as they did last year, we have cause to be disturbed. I'm disturbed because, like a man who finds the first drink a pleasant palliative and the second and third less stimulating, we may so continue with deficits until our economy sags into a stupor.
> "It is time we asked questions about just where we are going and what we are accomplishing when we swallow bigger and bigger gulps of government spending.
> "The question before Canadians today is this: Do the people who pay for the treats being offered by the politicians really want them, or would they rather have a little more of their own money to spend for themselves?
> "In our desire for these treats, we should not lose sight of the hidden trick, that what we have given to us, will also be taken from us in some form or another."

Convention Endorsements

In an interesting article on primary elections and nominating conventions, Lud Roe of Montevideo who, along with his publishing activities, was able to serve as secretary to Governor Theodore Christianson, reminds us that while we have changed some of the rules governing party activities, the practices continue about as they were in the past.

Mr. Roe points out that when the primary election date was changed from June to September, "there were optimists who said this would result in shorter political campaigns. "He now thinks the change has had the opposite effect because:

> "Those predictions ran head-on against the massive reality that political parties now play for the biggest stakes that ever depended on the turn of a ballot—money.
> "From necessity, parties have worked out—by trial and error, by experiment and experience that is sometimes happy and sometimes painful—a combination of the principles of public primary and delegate convention.
> "This has not been done to give professional politicians an arena in which they can maneuver for their own purposes. All of these laborious methods have been developed to clear the underbrush so that voters can the better see their way through the woods of policies and people and platforms, and make a choice that comes closest to their views.
> "There was a time, and not so long ago, when state committees of political parties closed up shop three days after the November election—and didn't reopen until the week after the primary election a year and a half later. It was considered improper interference with the functioning of the primary election if an official party committee showed its face until the time for general election activity had actually arrived.
> "That's another story; in fact it is history. This year's thought can well be one of appreciation for the men and women who work to keep the American system of political parties alive. This goes not only for the volunteers but for the professionals too."

A Deserved Rebuke

The New York Times, although generally quite conservative, has traditionally supported the Democratic party. Its reaction to the endorsement of President Kennedy's youngest brother as a candidate for United States Senate by the Massachusetts Democratic convention is therefore especially interesting. It said:

> "Someone should have reminded delegates to the Massachusetts Democratic convention that the Boston Tea Party, Bunker Hill and other events of nearly two centuries ago had separated their state from the British Empire. A majority apparently had the impression that the convention was solemnizing the entry of a new member into the House of Lords, rather than nominating a candidate for the United States Senate.
> "So far as we can discover, the only real qualification Edward M. Kennedy had for designation was the right of inheritance that went with having a brother who used to hold the seat and now lives in the White House. We are sure he is a personable young man, but his record of public service is microscopic. Indeed, doubt has been raised that he even bothered to vote, except in two elections in which his brother was on the ballot.
> "Observers report that the President's influence pervaded the proceedings and that many party regulars stayed away for fear of incurring his wrath by opposing young Kennedy. The nominee's chief rival, a nephew of Speaker McCormack, was also a coattail rider, but at least he could point to service as State Attorney General and other evidences of political apprenticeship. The September primaries will give the people of Massachusetts an opportunity to demonstrate whether Ted Kennedy was right when he told the dutiful delegates that they had spoken with "a free voice, a clear voice and a true voice" in selecting him as their standard-bearer.

It is encouraging to know that the New York Times shares the concern of many Americans who fear the election of one Kennedy was just the first step in the establishment of a dynasty. The appointment by the President of one of his brothers to a powerful cabinet post was resented by many of his own friends. The rebuke administered by the New York Times may help to restore among the ambitious Kennedys a greater sense of propriety.

Medicare Costs

(Fort Lauderdale News)

Nobody truly knows just what the cost of a Social Security financed medicare program will be. We are told that it can be financed initially by just a minor increase in the Social Security tax rate. But what they are talking about now is only the beginning. Congress hasn't failed yet to hike Social Security benefit payments in any election year and, as a result of all these unscheduled benefit hikes, both the tax rate and the base upon which it has been applied have been steadily increased.

Today the basic Social Security tax rate is 6.25 per cent of all wages up to $4,800 per year which amounts to a yearly tax of $150 and that is already scheduled to rise sharply in future years.

If medicare is added, the Social Security tax burden on many young wage earners will exceed their regular income tax burden. And, once started, medicare won't be curtailed. Instead, it will be expanded and expanded until, in the end, it will become an all-embracing socialized medicine setup.
